HE Copy of the infuing Treatife being put into our Hands after the Author's Death, we perused it, and upon due Examination concluded it would be great Injustice to deprive the Public of so useful a Book. For, the none of us are desirous to promote Controversy, yet, from the Love we bear to Truth, we can't but commend the Zeal of those who appear in the Defence of it when 'tis opposed, especially if they do it with Calmness and Moderation, not returning virulent and uncharitable Resections instead of solid Arguments. This the Author of the following Sheets has very well observed thro his whole Discourse, which, we doubt not, will greatly recommend it to all a candid candid and impartial Readers. He treats not his warm Antagonist with any thing that is either iritating or trifling; his modest and humble Spirit no more Suffering him to do the one, than his Gravity and solid Judgment would permit him to descend to the other. We can't but think the Author's Distinction well founded between the Covenant of Circumcision made with Abraham and his natural Seed, and that of eternal Blessings established with him and his spiritual Seed in Christ; and that he hath very judiciously (bewn, that no Argument in favour of Infant-baptism, can be deduced from the Covenant of Circumcision, Baptism being altogether a Matter of positive Worship, depending on the sole Pleasure of the Lawgiver, both as to the Subject and Mode of Administration. In a word therefore, we judge this Treatise to be in all respects a sufficient Confutation of Mr. Hitchin's Book.

The many weighty Affairs lying on the Author's Hands while writing this Book, together with the suddenness of his Death, which followed so closely upon his finishing the first Draught of it, were the chief Reasons that it came forth no sooner. Had it pass'd the last Touches of his own Hand, 'twould doubtless have appear'd in a much more polite and correct Dress, than now it does. But, tho' it want those further Advantages it would have received, had he liv'd to review it, and publish it himself; yet we hope no one will have cause cause to repent his Labour, who shall give it a serious and impartial Perusal. If the Author's Notion of the Covenant of Redemption, and the Covenant of Grace, being but one and the same Covenant, consisting of divers Parts and Branches, be different from that of some other Divines; yet he delivers his Opinion with such Modesty, that we think it can give no just Offence to any of a different Mind. For our parts, we defire nothing advanced in this Book may pass for Truth, any further than 'tis supported by the Holy Scriptures, for to them alone we appeal for our Doctrine, Discipline and Worship; and therefore earnestly intreat all Persons, into whose Hands it may come, daily to fearch the Scriptures, like the noble Bereans, to see whether these things are so, or not.

We shall not here detain the Reader with a large Account of the Author, and therefore it shall suffice to say, that he was a very laborious and successful Preacher, one who studied to shew himself approved unto God, a Workman that needeth not be asbam'd, rightly dividing the Word of Truth; upon the account of which, and other Accomplishments, which we now omit, his Name and Memory will be deservedly precious in the Churches of Christ, not only in this, but future Ages.

To conclude, we heartily recommend the following Treatise to the serious Perusal of all ingenuous

REMARKS on the Commendatory Epiftle prefix'd to Mr. H's Book.

Perore I proceed to the Confideration of the Trestife to which this is defigned as an Answer, it may not be improper to take notice of a few things in the Epifile prefix'd to it, wherein some Account is given both of the Auston, and that Work of his.

The first part of the Character, which those Reverend Perfons give of the Author, is, that he is a plain, bumble, and ferious Christian, &c. As for his Humiltry, I can't but wish he had given hetter proof of it, in being both less positive in what he afferts, and more sparing in his Censures and injurious Reflections upon those he opposes. And therefore it may not be amis to put him in mind of the Words of the Apostle, 2 Cor. x. 18. Norbe that commended bimfelf, nor he whom others commend, but he whom the Lord commendeth, is approved.

Another part of his Character is, that he hath a clear Head. It feems then, when we find the Stream of his Discourse to run muddy, we must attribute it rather to the Cause be pleads, than to any Defects of its Advocate.

It is further terrify'd of him, that be bath been led into a more than common Acquaintance wish the Subject of Infant-baptifin, by the frequent Conversation be bath bad with many upon that Point. reading his Treatife it may indeed be easily dilcern'd, that either he gain'd what Knowledge he hath of the Objections of those who deny Infant-baptism, by conversing with Men, and those too not the most expert in the Controversy, rather than from what has been writ on that Subject; or elle, that he hath purposely way'd the most weighty Objections in their full Strength, left he should be differn'd by his Readers to have started such Difficulties which he was not able to folve.

As to the Treatife, we are told that it contains some Hims that are not usually to be met with in other Authors. But unless they are of greater Strength too, than those of other Authors, they are no more likely to convince Persons of a different Judgment, than theirs. And that they are not, I hope to prove, when I come to the Confideration of them.

'Tis added, that we shall also meet with a large and laborious Collection of such Texts of Scripture, as do not only serve to give light to each other, but all together greatly help to clear the main Point viii Remarks on the Commendatory Epiftle, &c.

Point in band. I readily grant that the Number of Scriptures cited by him is very large, but what Labour he imploy'd in collecting them I know not, and can't but think, if those who thus recommend this Work, had allowed themselves so much time from their weightier Studies, as to examine particularly the Texts produc'd by him, they must have seen that the far greater part of them speak nothing to the purpose for which they are brought. I have my self carefully perused them all, but judge I should too much press upon the Reader's Patience, to insist particularly upon any more than those from which he undertakes to argue, which are doubtless in his Opinion the most weighty; altho something, as Occasion offers, may likewise be said of the rest. But there is somewhat yet behind, that deserves our Notice.

His Arguments are affirm'd to be firong and solid. Whence I may suppose, that if these Gentlemen had undertaken to plead this Cause, they would probably have made use of the same, or such like Arguments. What Advantages then soever the Author's Circumstances have denied him, it seems Men possess'd of those Advantages highly approve of his Performance. But how he hath acquitted himself in this respect, it is my Business to examine in the subsequent Discourse.

But what follows I most wonder at, where they tell us, that he does generally avoid those hard Words and bitter Reflections, that are 100 common with others on these Occasions. The Restriction used in these Words was certainly very convenient, as it don't clear every part of his Discourse from the dark Character, which it feems the Writings of others on this Subject too commonly merit, fince 'tis only afferted that be generally avoids those things. And I am perswaded, had an Antipedobaptist infinuated, as he does of us, that they give the flat Lie to many Texts of Scripture, as p. 14. that altho' they bad been bray'd in the Mortar of Scripture Evidence, yet their Folly bad not departed from them, p 45. that they, thro' Pride of their own Abilities, contemn and despise others, p. 51. reject Christ, p. 48. despise and persecute the Members of Christ, p. 71. or, had compar'd them to bard-bearted Pharaob, and intimated that they gratify, and do a great Pleasure to the Devil, p. 87. I say, had thele Expressions, and many more of the like nature, that are to be found in him, come from an Antipedobaptift, they would have been thought very bard Words and bitter Reflections. But I hope my Prayer to the Lord for him shall be, that Repentance may be given him for these harsh and causeles Speeches; and for my felf, that my own Mind may not be fo discomposed by them, as to render Evil for Evil.

An Answer to Mr. E. Hitchin's Book, Intituled, The Infants Cause pleaded, clear'd and vindicated, &c.

The INTRODUCTION.

N order to give the Reader a true State of the Controversy between us, and our Pedobaptist Brethren, as to their Argument from the Covenant, whereon they lay the greatest stress, I shall here present him at one view with the Reasons which make me think no cogent Argument can be thence deduced, to evince the Right of Believers Children, as such, to Bapidered tilm, without interrupting the Series of the Discourse, with what is advanced by my Antagonist in defence of their Practice. To this end therefore I shall premise and confirm the following Propositions.

PROP. I: The Covenant of Grace is established with Christ the second Adam, as the Head and Representative of all the Seed given him of the Father; as the Covenant of Works was with the first Adam, as a Covenant-head to all his Seed.

That there was a Covenant transacted between the Father and Son before the Foundation of the World, wherein the Father promised to give the Son a Seed, that should be made Partakers of Grace and Glory by him a and that he would affift him in, and carry him thro' the Work proposed to him, and crown him as Mediator, with the highest Glory and Honour, on condition of his affuming our Nature, and therein yielding perfect Obedience to the holy and righteous Law of God, and undergoing the Curse threatned in the Sanction of it, on the behalf, and in the stead of those for whom he undertook, which he voluntarily ingaged to do; is generally own'd by those with whom I am concern'd in this Controversy, and therefore there is no occasion for me to infift on the proof of it. But our Pedobaptist Brethren, and some Antipedobaptifts also, are not fully agreed, whether this federal Transaction between the Father and Son, (which some call the Covenant of Suretyship and Redemption) be a Covenant distinct from the Covenant of Grace, into which the spiritual Seed are admitted in time. And as the Cause, in which I am ingaged, doth not require it; fo I am conscious to my self of my inability to give any determination in this matter. I shall content my felf therefore with indeavouring to flew, that the Argument most relied on, to prove them two distinct Covenants, doth not feem, in my apprehension, to be fatisfactory, viz. That there are some Conditions prescrib'd, and Promises made to Christ, wherein his Seed are no otherwise concern'd, but as they stand in relation to him; and forme Duties injoined, and Promifes made to his Seed, wherein they are immediately and diffinctly concern'd. It is well known, that in Leagues between Princes, some Articles immediately concern the Prerogatives of the Princes themselves, and their Subjects only as they stand in relation to them; and others have a peculiar respect to their Subjects, as distinguish'd from them; and yet these Articles are all contain'd in one and the same League and Covenant. 'Tis true also, that the Covenant was transacted between the Father and Son in Eternity, and the Seed given to the Son by the Father have no actual Interest in the Privileges and Bleffings of it till they believe, yet I cannot thence discern any just ground to denominate them two distinct Covenants. For in any Contract or Grant, extending to future Generations, those unborn at the time of making it, cannot actually injoy a share in the Privileges thereof, before they have really a Being, which yet they do in the appointed Season; by the same Covenant or Grant, that their Fathers did some Ages before. But be this as it will, our Brethren, even those who esteem them two distinct Covenants; do generally own, that the eternal Gift of a People to Christ, and his acceptance of them, is the Spring and Foundation of the Covenant of Grace. And as these answer each other, as Cause and Effect, Fountain and Stream, Decree

Decree and Execution; they must surely be of equal Exthis tent, and no more receiv'd into the latter, than were conor me lain'd in the former. And that the Offspring of Believers, as fuch, were so given by the Father, and accepted by the Son; and the Offspring of Unbelievers, as fuch, left out of it; no modest Observer will affert. If they say, the Event proves that ordinarily more of the Children of Beievers, than of Unbelievers, were contain'd in that Eernal Grant, I shall readily own it; but we know not which were, and which were not, until it be discover'd by their believing. And if Covenant-interest was the proper ground (as our Brethren suppose) of the Adminitration of Baptism, we must wait for some Discovery of t, and can have no ground to proceed till that be made. know some have urged to us, as that which they pretended we could never avoid the force of; that many of those which we baptize, appear afterwards to be such that never were in Covenant, and that being therein deceived, we annot defend our own Practice, if we except against theirs on this account. But there is a vast disparity in the case, which they would perswade us is the same. For they bapize on account of the supposed Promises of God, (who tannot be deceived, or deceive us) to take the Offspring of his People, as such, into Covenant with himself; but we, is the Scripture directs, on account of the profession of Faith, that is made by them that offer themselves to Bapfism. And if due care be taken by the Administrators to baptize none but such, whom according to a Judgment of Charity, they look upon to have believ'd with all the Heart; hould it afterwards appear that they never were real Partakers of the Faith whereof we speak, those concern'd in their Admission may rest satisfy'd in having proceeded according to the Rule. But our Brethren's Plea to baptize Infants (or at least to do that which they so call and account) upon the pretended ground of the absolute Promise of the unchangeable, and faithful God, to take all the Infantfeed of his People into the Covenant of Grace, is quite of another Nature; for, either God hath not promis'd it, and then their Plea is groundless; or else his Promise is not fulfill'd to luch of the Offspring of his People as perifh eternally. And I know our Brethren dare not entertain such a Thought, that God himself can fail of his Word; although Men, whose credible profession of Faith by the di-B 2 rection rection of Holy Writ is our Rule, may deceive us. I shall sum up what I intend by this Proposition, in the following Argument.

All that are interested in the Covenant of Grace in time, were given to the Son in the eternal sederal Transactions between the Father and him.

The Offspring of Believers, as such, were not given to the Son in the eternal federal Transactions between the Father and him.

E. The Offspring of Believers, as such, are not interested in the Covenant of Grace.

Did the Sin of the first Adam, by virtue of the Covenant established with him for his Seed, bring them all under Condemnation, as Rom. v. 18. and shall not the Righteousness of the second Adam, by virtue of the Covenant made with him for his Seed, as effectually bring his in the appointed Season into an Estate of Justification unto Life Eternal? For so saith the Spirit of God by the Apostle Therefore as by the Offence of one, Judgment came upon all Men to Condemnation; even fo by the Righteoufness of one, the free Gift came upon all Men unto Justification of Life. For as by one Man's Disobedience many were made Sinners; by the Obedience of one shall many be made Righteous. And that Justification and Sanctification are inseparable, always meeting in the same Subjects, our Brethren will not deny For altho' Sanctification is no part of that Righteousnell whereby a Sinner is justify'd before God; yet the Wisdom and Holiness of God require that every justify'd Person be also sanctify'd. If then it appear, as most certainly it doth, that the Children of Believers, as such, are not justi fy'd and fanctify'd; it must (so far as I can discern) inevitably follow, that they are not, as such, the Seed of the fecond Adam; and consequently have no Interest in the Covenant of Grace establish'd with him for them.

PROP. II. The faithful God, in the Covenant of Grace, hath expressly promised the effectual Communication of saving Graces to all the Seed in Covenant.

For the Confirmation of this Proposition, I need only recite the Promises of the New Covenant, as recorded Jer. xxxi. 33, 34. But this shall be the Covenant that I will make with the House of Ifrael, After those Days, faith the Lord, I will put my Law in their inward Parts, and write it in their Hearts, and will be their God, and they shall be my People. And they shall teach no more every Man his Neighbour, and every Man his Brother, Saying, Know ye the Lord; for they shall all know me, from the least of them unto the greatest of them, saith the Lord; for I will forgive their Iniquity, and I will remember their Sin no more. And Chap. XXXII. 38, 39, 40. And they shall be my People, and I will be their God. And I will give them one Heart, and one Way; that they may fear me for ever, for the good of them, and of their Children after them. will make an everlasting Covenant with them, that I will not turn away from them, to do them good; but I will put my Fear in their Hearts. Ezek. xxxvi. 25, 26, 27. Then will I sprinkle clean Water upon you, and ye shall be clean from all your Filthiness, and from all your Idols will I cleanse you. A new Heart also will I give you, and a new Spirit will I put within you, and I will take away the stony Heart out of your Flesh, and I will give you an Heart of Flesh. And I will put my Spirit within you, and cause you to walk in my Statutes, and ye shall keep my Judgments, and do them. Thele, with other Scriptures, which, for brevity's fake, I omit, are so plain, and express, in proof of the Proposition, that I cannot suppose our Brethren can deny the Truth of it. And can these Promises, which respect the Implantation of the habits of Grace, depend on the performance of any Condition on our parts? Our Brethren, at other times, tell us the contrary, as I can fully make appear from their Writings, if need require. For, although grown Persons are obliged, where opportunity is afforded, to attend on the use of such means, whereby God ordinarily worketh Grace, and earnestly to intreat a Bleffing thereon; yet their fo doing cannot properly be called the Condition of his gracious Communication thereof to them. But on what Condition may it be supposed the fufilling thereof to Infants can depend? And that the Graces promised to all in the Covenant, from the least to the greatest of them, are not communicated to the Seed of Believers, as fuch, is too evident to leave room for any to doubt thereof. Christ hath paid the price of his Blood to purchase Grace here, as well as Glory hereafter, for all his Seed; and the Father hath affured him, that he shall have have what he purchased; and it is his Pleasure that all sulliness thereof should be reposited in him, to be given out to those, for whom he especially undertook, as 'tis evident from Isa. liii. 11. Acts v. 31. Phil. i. 29. Col. i. 19. John i. 16, 17. And I cannot entertain such a Thought, that they who love Christ, can doubt of his Willingness and Faithfulness to make them Partakers of that which he hath purchased at the expence of his Blood, and is actually invested, as Mediator, with a right to bestow, and hath promised that he will do it to every one in Covenant. I shall briefly sum up what I hence design in this Argument.

All who are interested in the New Covenant, have the effectual Communication of the Graces of the Holy Spirit purchased for, and promised to them.

The Seed of Believers, as such, have not the effectual Communication of the Graces of the Holy Spirit.

E. The Seed of Believers, as fuch, are not interested in the New Covenant.

PROP. III. The final Perseverance of those who are interested in the New Covenant, is fully secur'd by the Promises of that Covenant.

This is fully confirm'd by the following Scriptures, Fer. XXXI. 34. To all these, from the least to the greatest, the Lord faith, I will forgive their Iniquity, and I will remember their Sin no more. And Chap. xxxii. 40. I will make an everlafting Covenant with them, that I will not turn away from them, to do them good, but I will put my Fear in their Hearts, that they shall not depart from me. Ifa. lix. 21. As for me, this is my Covenant with them, faith the Lord, my Spirit which is upon thee, (here, by the way, it may be observ'd, that the Promiles of the New Covenant are made to Christ, as a Covenant head unto his Seed, and to his People in him) and my Words which I have put in thy Mouth, shall not depart out of thy Mouth, nor out of the Mouth of thy Seed, nor out of the Mouth of thy Seed's Seed, Saith the Lord, from henceforth, and for ever, Chap. liv. 10. For the Mountains shall depart, and the Hills be removed, but my Kindness shall not depart from thee, neither shall the Covenant of my Peace be removed, faith the Lord, that hath Mercy on thee. Writ; but the Doctrine of final Perseverance being generally own'd and afferted by those with whom I am principally concern'd in this Controversy, (how disagreeing to it foever this Practice of theirs be) it is needless for me to cite more, or spend time in shewing how fully the Truth of the Proposition is proved by them; they being some of the same which themselves, at other times, allege in Confirmation of this Truth. But I cannot conceive how the Plea infifted on by them for Pedobaptism, from the Covenant-interest of Believers Seed, as such, can possibly confift herewith. For certainly Believers Infants, as such, are not in this Covenant; or, some interested therein do finally fall away. Neither can I find that the usual Distinction which some make, will yield them any relief in this Case, who tell us, that by such Children being in Covehant, they mean the external part of it: For, if the Scripture make no such Distinction between the internal and external part of the Covenant of Grace, 'tis unwarrantable' and groundless so to do; and I could never see they were able to prove it from the Holy Scripture. It hath been held as an allow'd Maxim, Ubi lex non distinguit, non est ditinguendum. i. e. We ought not to distinguish, where the Law doth not distinguish. And if we allow our felves in making unwritten Distinctions to serve a turn, what Truth may not suffer, and Error be promoted by it? And if this external part of the Covenant be only a right to external Ordinances, where is the Charity of their Opinion beyond that of ours? Doth this outward Covenant give a right to all Believers Children to eternal Salvation, (tho' the outfide of Noah's Ark would have preferv'd none from drowning) and this without conveying Grace into them? For otherwise they would be in the inward Covenant, as fometimes they express it. But how any one can have an immediate right to Salvation, and with it receive not Regeneration, to give him a meetness for it, I may wait long enough before I am fatisfy'd, from any Proof that can be brought from the Word of God. Or, do those who use this Distinction conclude, that in this respect, they are in the same Condition with Unbelievers Children, (whom they feem too harshly to esteem all destitute of any Title to Glory) having no right to Heaven, but only to Ordinances; and yet allow them no Ordinance, which they look upon Covenant interest to give a right to, but Baptilm only?

only? But to pass this, I must say, it seems very strange that the Son, who was so faithful in his House, should leave us to spell out a Right to a positive Institution from such dark and unintelligible Notions; when Mofes, the Servant, gave such plain Directions as to the Subjects, and time of Administration of legal Ordinances. And to conclude, I shall subjoin what Mr. Baxter, a zealous Defender of Infant Baptism, saith of this Distinction of an outward and imward Covenant, in his Answer to Mr. Blake, Sect. 39. where he tells us, "Mr. Blake's common Phrase is, that they are in the outward Covenant, and what that is, I cannot tell; I know what it is to Covenant, Ore tenus, only outwardly, or by a diffembled Profession, or elle a "Profession maimed or not understood; and I have said, " that hereby they may further oblige themselves, so far " as the Creature can be faid to oblige it felf, who is not " sui juris, [his own] but wholly God's, and is under his " absolute Obligation already. But it is God's Covenant-" act that we are enquiring after; in what sense is that " called outward? It cannot be as if God did, as the dif-" fembling Creature, Ore tenus, with the Mouth only co-" venant with them, and not with the Heart, as they " deal with him. I know therefore no possible Sense " but this, that it is call'd outward from the Bleffings " promised, which are outward; here therefore I should " have thought it reasonable for Mr. Blake to have told " us what those outward Bleffings are, that this Covenant " promiseth; and that he would have prov'd out of the " Scripture that God hath such a Covenant distinct from " the Covenant of Grace." And after having deny'd Baptism, or the Lord's Supper, the Word or Discipline, to be such a Covenant, he adds; "I defire therefore those words " of Scripture may be produc'd where any such Covenant " is contain'd, &c." What I design by this Proposition, is briefly compriz'd in the Argument following.

All who are interested in the New Covenant, have their final Perseverance firmly secur'd to them by the Promises of that Covenant.

The Offspring of Believers, as such, have not their final Perseverance firmly secur'd to them.

F. The Offspring of Believers, as such, are not interested in the New Covenant.

PROP. IV. The Covenant of Grace differeth in Substance and Kind, and not in the manner of Administration only from the Covenant at Sinai.

The Truth of this Proposition is so fully demonstrated by that learned and eminent Divine, Dr. Owen, in his Expofition upon the Epiftle to the Hebrews, especially on Verse 6. of the viii. Chapter, that 'twould be needless for me to fay any more in Confirmation of it, if all, into whose hands this may come, had the opportunity of inspecting that. And I hope this may tend to remove that Reproach, which some formerly have cast on us for so afferting, viz. "That we therein symbolize with the Papifts." For they will not suppose this learned Person's Interest oblig'd him to it, whatever hath been suggested of us, who are as far from espousing any Opinion because held by the Papists, as our Pedobaptist Brethren; altho neither we nor they dare reject a plain Truth, because held by them. But I shall here offer a few words to demonstrate the truth of it. The nature of these Covenants is best understood by the Terms that Life is promis'd upon, in the one, and in the other; if these be specifically different, then so are the Covenants wherein they are contained. If the one promise Life only on perfect doing, the other in a way of free Grace thro' believing, it cannot be deny'd but that they are two distinct Covenants, substantially different. And that so it is, will, I think, be evident to those who impartially consider the Account that the Holy Scripture gives us of them. In Rom. x. 5, 6, 7, 8, 9. the Spirit of God by the Apostle compares them, and shews the difference to be luch as I have intimated. For Moses describeth the Righteousness which is of the Law, that the Man that doth those things shall live by them. But the Righteousness which is of Faith speaketh on this wife, Say not in thine Heart, who shall ascend into Heaven? (that is, to bring Christ down from above) Or, who shall descend into the Deep? (that is, to bring up Christ again from the Dead) But what Saith it? The Word is nigh thee, even in thy Mouth, and in thy Heart: That is, the word of Faith, which we preach, That if thou shalt confess with thy Mouth the Lord Jesus, and shalt believe in thine Heart, that God hath raised him from the Dead, thou shalt be saved. What the Apostle here citeth from Moses, is recorded, Lev. xviii. 5. and repeated peated Ezek. xx. 11. To the like purpose also the same Apostle speaketh in his Epistle to the Galdtians, thap. iii. 11, 12. But that no Man is justified by the Law in the Sight of God, it is evident; for the Just shall live by Faith. And the Law is not of Faith; but the Man that doth them shall live in them. And as the Law promised Life only upon perfect Obedience, so it denounced a direful Curse against every one that fell short of that Obedience, as Deut. xxvii. 26. Curfed be he that confirmeth not all the words of this Law, to do them. And for this end, the Apostle, Gal. iii. 10. reciteth those words of Muses's Law, that he might convince thole that were declining from the Faith of the Gospel to look for Righteousness, at least in part, by their Obedience to the Law, (to which all are naturally prone,) of the Impossibility of ever attaining to it that way; For as many as are of the Works of the Law are under the Curfe: For it is written, Curfed is every one that continueth not in all things which are written in the Book of the Law to do them. Now, if the Covenant made with Ifrael at Mount Sinai be intended by the Law, in these Words of the Apostle, as the Places whence he citeth them, feem to make it plain that it is, these two Covenants can no more be one and the fame, than Faith, and Works may be faid to be all one in the Point of Justification, which the Apostle so frequently opposeth to each other in that respect. And further, that the Covenant at Sinai is intended by the Law, is evident from hence, that as the whole System of Precepts, Moral, Ceremonial, and Judicial, delivered to the Jews on the Terms before mentioned, are intended by the Apolile, when he shews the Excellency of the Gospel, above the Law; fo the Precepts concerning all forts of Sacrifices, Heb. x: 8. are declared to be a Part of it. And if any could lay a fairer Claim than others, of the whole Body of their Laws, to appertain to the Gospel-covenant, or free Promife made unto Abraham, these, as most eminently Typical of the Atonement to be made by Christ, our great High Priest, might do so. In Gal. iii. 17. by the Law, the Mount Sinai Covenant is plainly intended, where the Apofile, to obviate an Objection that might be made against what he had before faid, That the Law pronounceth every Transgreffor accurled; as the it took away all folid hope of Salvation from those under the Legal Covenant; lays down this Affertion, That the Covenant which was before fore confirmed of God in Christ, the Law, which was 430 Years after, cannot difamul, that it should make the Promise of none Effect : And adds, ver. 18. For if the Inheritance be of the Law, it is no more of Promise: But God gave it to Abraham by Promise. Now, the Covenant made at Mount Sinai must be necessarily intended by the Law, which our latest and best Amotators compute to be 430 Years after the Establishment of the Covenant of Grace with Abraham. in Gen. xii. and the Law and Promise differ in Substance and Kind, being thus plainly diftinguished each from other. as to conveying a right to the Heavenly Inheritance, whereof the literal Canaan was a Type, which is expresly ascrib'd to the one, but deny'd of the other. I might mention 2 Cor. Chap.iii. where, by the Letter, the Law, of Old Covenant, and by the Spirit, the Gospel, or New Covenant, as confirm'd and establish'd by the Death of the Testator, being evidently intended by the Apostle; the one being called the Ministration of Condemnation, as denouncing a condemnatory Sentence against all, as Transgressors; the other of Righteousness, as promiting in a way of free Grace, Righteousness unto Life Eternal; these two are manifestly declared to be Covenants of a contrary Nature, and cannot therefore be the same Covenant, under different Administrations. Gal. iv. from ver. 21. to the end, is very full and clear, in Confirmation of the Proposition laid down: Where the Apostle informs us, that Hagar, the Bond-woman, was a Type of the Old Covenant, and Sarah, the Free moman, of the New; that Ishmael, who was born after the Flesh, was a Type of the carnal or fleshly Seed, and Isaac, who was born by Promife, of the spiritual Seed; so that here were two diffinct Covenants made with two different Seeds. And ver. 30. he assures us, that the first Covenant, and the carnal Seed, as typify'd by the Bond-woman, and her Son, were to be cast out; and that the Son of the Bond-woman, and carnal Seed, should not be Heirs with the spiritual Seed, of New Covenant-privileges; concluding, ver. 31. that we, viz. Gospel-believers, are not Children of the Bond-woman, that is, (as the Apostle himself had fully and plainly expounded it,) under the Mount Sinai Covenant; but of the free, that is, of the New Covenant, substantially different from it. From which, to me it appears very plainly, that the Covenant of Grace that Gospelbelievers are now under, cannot be a Covenant of the fame fame kind with that made with Ifrael at Mount Sinai, into which the carnal Seed were admitted; but that the carnal Seed are here expresly declared to be cast out, together with the Sinai Covenant.

But some will say, If the Covenant made with Israel at Mount Sinai be not a Covenant of the same kind with the Covenant of Grace, and that it promifed Life only upon perfect Obedience, which none could attain to by it, as being unable to fulfil the Condition, how could any be faved that lived under that Covenant? And it would be severe and uncharitable indeed, to suppose that all perished, that lived from Moles to Christ. To which I answer: That many thousands were saved under that Covenant, I don't in the least doubt; but that any were saved by it, I deny. For Man, in his lapfed Estate, being utterly unable to yield perfect Obedience to the holy Law of God, and this Covenant strictly requiring it of all that would attain Righteoufnels and Life by it, no Man ever was or could be faved by But the Covenant of Grace, as first reveal'd to Adam, but afterwards more plainly to Abraham, and transacted with him in a peculiar manner, remain'd in force, was not, could not be difannulled, or made of none effect, by the giving forth of the Law, as the Apostle declares, Gal. iii. 17. And as before the Law, Righteousness and Life were attained by this Covenant, and fince under the Gospel; so no less also in the time of the Law.

But some will ask, (as the Apostle foresaw) To what end then serveth the Law? To which he returns this Answer: It was added because of Transgressions, till the Seed should come, to whom the Promise was made. Whereby I conceive he intendeth, either, (t.) That the Lord defigned by requiring perfect Obedience under the Penalty of fo terrible a Curle, to lay a restraint upon the Lusts of that People, that, in a way becoming the Divine Wisdom and Holiness, they might remain a distinct People from other Narions, till the appointed time for the appearing of the Mef. fiah among them, who was to come of the Seed of Abraham and David, and was to be known fo to do, was accomplish'd. Or, (2.) It might be appointed to make a discovery of the greatness of Sin; and its Danger, that they might be convinced of the necessity they stood in of the Messiah, and that there was no way whereby they could receive a Deliverance from this Curle, but by the Obedience and Sacrifice of Christ, Christ, and thereby to direct their Faith to look for a real Atonement and Satisfaction by him; the Laws concerning Sacrifices, and all other legal Ceremonies, being added in a direct subserviency to the New Covenant or Testament, to be actually ratisfied and confirmed by the Testator's Death. And this end of the Law, as to the making a discovery of Sin, the Apostle declareth, Rom. v. 20. Moreover the Law entered, that the Offence might abound. This must not be understood as if the Design of the Law was to cause Sin to increase, for that was far from being the end of the Lawgiver, however it falls out through the Corruptions of Men: it being long since observed by one ignorant of Christ, that the Lusts of Men grew more impetuous, the more strict the Prohibitions were to restrain them from it.

Nitimur in vetitum semper, cupimusque negata.

Man, what he is forbidden, most requires, And what he is deny'd, he most desires.

The meaning therefore of the Apostle is, that the Law entred to make Sin manifest, and bring the Soul to see its Sins to be exceeding finful, as in Rom. vii. 7, 13. I shall add, (3.) that another reason of its being transacted by God with that People, of whom Christ concerning the Flesh was to come, might be, that he being made under the Law, Gal. iv. 4. might fulfil it for us. Thus Mr. Petto, Differ. between the Old and New Covenant, p. 134. " I do not fee " how, by any visible Dispensation, Jesus Christ could have " been born actually under the Law, if this Sinai Covenant " had not been; for the Covenant of Works with the first Adam being violated, it was at an end, as to the promi-" fing part, it promised nothing after once it was broken"; " it remained in force only as to its threatning part, it " menaced Death to all the finful Seed of Adam, but ad-" mitted no other into it who were without Sin, either to " perform the Righteousness of it, or to answer the Penal-" ty, it had nothing to do with an innocent Person after " broken, for it was never renewed with Man again as " before. Therefore an admitting an innocent Person, " as Jesus Christ was, into it, must be by some kind of " repetition or renewing of it, tho' with other intendments " than at first, viz. that the guilty Persons should not ful-" fil

4 fil it for themselves, but that another, a Surety should ce fulfil it for them. Some medium, or means, there must 4 be, whereby this innocent Person, Jesus Christ, might be taken into it, and come under the very fame Law "that was broken, to fulfil the Righteousness, and satisfy or undergo the Penalty, which the Lord still required, without substantial abatement. Now in infinite Wisdom 46 the Lord contrived this way of the Sinai Covenant, wherein Ifrael, who were guilty, by voluntary Compact and 4 Agreement obliged themselves and their Seed to the per-" feet Obedience which the Law required, and that under " pain of the Curse; and Jesus Christ being born of their " Seed, and under the Sinai Dispensation or Covenant, was " born under the same Law which the guilty Persons were " included in. I see not how this could have been, tho' he " had been born of the Seed of Adam, without this renew-" ing of it at Mount Sinai. If he had not been born un-" der the very Law as a Covenant of Works, and should " not have fatisfy'd it, by answering the Penalty, or fulfil-" ling the Righteousness of it, but had only done and suf-" fered fomething in lieu and stead thereof, it would not have been the idem for us; and this sheweth how exceeding necessary the Sinai Covenant was.

I might have shewed before, that Moses was the Mediator of the former; but Christ, not Moses, the Mediator of the latter: the Sons of Aaron the Priests of the one, and our Blessed Lord only the High Priest of the other: clean Beasts and other Creatures appointed of God the Sacrifices of that, Christ himself the alone propitiatory Sacrifice in this. All which sufficiently evince them to be two distinct Covenants, and not one and the same under a different Administration. But I shall refer the Reader for a fuller Demonstration of the Truth of this Proposition to the excellent Treatise beforementioned, the Author of which being a Pedobaptist, his Words may probably on that account be more regarded. To what has been said therefore on this Head, I shall only add an Inference or two relating to our present Purpose.

1. Neither the Epithet everlasting, nor God's promising in a Covenant to be the God of the People he admits into it, is sufficient to prove that Covenant to be the Covenant of Grace in Christ Jesus. The former we shall afterwards have occasion to treat of; and the latter is evident from hence, that in the Sinai Covenant, yea in the very Preface to the Ten Commandments, the Lord declares himself to be a God to that People, Exod. xx. 1, 2. And God spake all hese Words, saying, I am the Lord thy God, which brought hee out of the Land of Egypt, out of the House of Bondage. And to this purpose are the Words of Dr. O. on Heb. viii. ver. 10. where speaking of that Promise, I will be unto them a God, and they shall be my People, he says, "This is the general Expression of any Covenant-relation between God and Men. And it is frequently made use of with respect unto the first Covenant, which yet was disannulled: God owned the People therein for his peculiar Portion, and they avouched him to be their God alone.

2. Hence we may learn that no good Plea can be taken rom Infants Covenant-interest, and Church-membership under the Sinai Covenant, to warrant it under the New, for he Covenant's not being the same, but of a distinct kind, heir being so in the one, will not prove them to be so in the other. And by the way, it may not be amiss to oblerve, that the Jews were not in Covenant, or Churchmembers, as being the Seed of Believers, the now pretended ground; but as the carnal Seed of Abraham, whatver their immediate Parents were. But to proceed, feeng the Sinai Covenant is abolished, and the Covenant of Grace established in the room of it, as the only Rule of the Church's Obedience, we can learn from thence only who are interested in it. Nor was it absolutely necessary to be expresly said that the Offspring of Believers are not so interested in the New Covenant, as they were in the Old; for he abolishing of this latter leaves us no reason to suppose the Subjects of it must necessarily be the Subjects of the former, of a quite different nature. If a Prince takeaway the Charer from a Corporation, and declare to them that he will give them a New one, of another Nature from the Old; they can't conclude what the Privileges of their new Charter will be, and who the Subjects to whom its Franchises hall belong, otherwise than by the Declaration of his Will to them; nor can his Subjects have any cause to complain of his leaving out of the New some particular Privileges, if he give them others in lieu thereof of far greater value, as it is in this Cafe.

press Direction of a Divine Law.

Since our Pedobaptist Brethren generally look upon the Covenant made with Abraham, recorded Gen. xvii. 7, Oc. to be the Covenant of Grace, the same in substance that believing Gentiles are now under, and allo that Circumcision was the Seal of this Covenant; I shall endeavour to confirm the Proposition now laid down from their own Principles. But before we proceed to that, it may be worth observing, that notwithstanding the Cove Ma nant of Grace was in force from Adam to Abraham, as well ac as afterwards, tho' more obscurely revealed; yet during that long space of time, longer by several hundreds of Years than from the Birth of our Saviour to the present Age, there was no Ordinance appointed by God to be a Seal of the Ing but many who had an Interest in the Covenant of Grace Good lived in that large Period of time. From benea the Grace Good appears, that a Right to a Seal doth not immediately refult gav from an Interest in the Covenant; for if it had, the Belie vers of those times would have had such a Right. Nor will predour Brethren suppose that the Righteous and Gracious God slly our Brethren suppose that the Righteous and Gracious God deny'd them what they had a just Right to. And this! presume will be granted, that God's Covenant-people had at that time no Ordinance, by him appointed for them, to pey be a Seal of their Covenant-interest, till the contrary be that proved from Scripture.

But I come now to the Ordinance of Circumcifion, which our Brethren suppose to be the Seal of the Covenant made with Abraham; and hope the following Confiderations will make it sufficiently evident, that it was not Covenantinterest which gave any a Right to it. For, (1.) There were many eminent Men then living, who had an Interest in the Covenant of Grace, as well as Abraham, and yet no Right to Circumcision, the supposed Seal thereof; as Shem, the first Man of whom the Scripture, in so many Words, declareth, that the Lord was his God, Gen. ix. 26. and Heber, from whom the Jews had the Name of Hebrews; not to mention Arphaxad, Salah, and divers others of the antient postdiluvian Patriarchs; to whom I might add Melchisedec, who is declared, Heb. vii, to be greater than Abraham himself, being both a King and a Priest. None of these t for had any more Right to Circumcision, than one that had nehe ex. ver heard of the Covenant of Grace, unless they had dwelt Abraham's Family. For the Sign of Circumcision was upon pjoined only upon Abraham himself, and his natural Male xvii. Offspring, and every Male born in his House, or bought with his Money, Gen. xvii. 10, 11, 12, 13. and there was no command to affix it to any other. (2.) The Females also shall were in Covenant as well as the Males, and yet had no Seal or Sign appointed for them. And how uncapable foever they were of Circumcifion, the Sign appointed for the at, it Males; yet if Covenant-interest had given a Right to a Seal, ich a one whereof they had been capable would doubtless Covewell Years Covenant from their Birth, and yet had no Right to Cirfumcision till the Eighth Day; and it would have been actne In any without a Divine Warrant, and plainly finful, to have deny sircumcifed them before that time; as well as a Breach of Grace God's Command, to have delay'd it longer. 'Twas not ore it therefore Covenant-interest, but a positive Command which refult gave any a Right to Circumcifion. I shall afterwards have occasion to mention several Instances of such, who by the Beliewill Precept had a Right to this Ordinance, and were also actu-Illy circumcifed (as Ishmael and Esau) and yet had no Inteeft in the Covenant made with Abraham. Nay all the Slaves n Abraham's House, born therein, or bought with his Mon, to sey, had as much Right to it as his own Offspring; but that these were all interested in the Covenant of Grace by Faith, whoever shall affert, I am certain can never make it good from facred Writ. Neither was any external Proof of t required of the Adult among them, as a Prerequifite to heir Admission; and yet, some Years before this Abraham had 318 of them in his House, that were capable to bear Arms, Gen. xiv. I conclude then; fince many in Covenant were not to be circumcifed, and many not in Covenant were to be circumcifed, 'twas not Covenant-interest that gave a Right to Circumcifion, which our Brethren account to have been at that time the Seal of the Covenant of Grace:

PROP. VI. The Holy Spirit only is declared in Scripture to be the Seal of the Interest of the Lord's People in the Covenant of Grace.

The Truth of this Proposition will be evident from those Texts of Scripture, where the Sealing of Believers Interest in the Bleffings of the Covenant of Grace is declared unto us. As Eph. i. 13. In whom also, after that ye believed, ye were Sealed with the Holy Spirit of Promise. And Chap. iv. 30. And grieve not the Holy Spirit of God, whereby ye are Sealed to the Day of Redemption. 2 Cor. i. 22. Who hath also Sealed us, and given us the Earnest of the Spirit in our Hearts. And whereas one great use of a Seal is to ratify and confirm Deeds and Grants, and to give Evidence to the Person to whom such Grant is made, of his sure Right and Title to that which is convey'd thereby; so it is the Holy Spirit only that doth, or can give Assurance to Believers of their Interest in the New Covenant, Rom. viii. 16. The Spirit it self also beareth Witness with our Spirits, that we are the Children of God. And none furely will affert that Circumcifion infur'd to all, on whom that Sign was affix'd by God's Command, an Interest in the Covenant of Grace. Had all the Natural Seed of Abraham, and all the Males in his House, the Promises of the New Covenant made good unto them? Were they all thereby affur'd of a Right and Title to Eternal Life? And was a real Interest in the Covenant of Grace confirm'd to all that were baptiz'd in the Primitive times? Was not Simon Magus baptiz'd, as well as Simon Peter, upon the Profession he made of his Faith? And yet the former had no Interest in the Covenant of Grace, being in the gall of Bitterness, and bond of Iniquity, Acts viii. 13, 23. Tho, I suppose, none will deny, but he had a just Right, in foro Ecclesia, in the Church's Account, to that Ordinance. So that if the Argument, so much infifted on by Pedobaptists, to give Countenance to their Practice, was granted them, wz. " All that have an Inte-" rest in the Covenant, have a Right to the Seal; Believers " Infants have an Interest in the Covenant; therefore they have a Right to the Seal:" I say, if this was granted them, it would not evince the Right of Infants to Baptilm, unless that could be proved to be the Seal of the Covenant, which I conceive can never be done from God's Word. But if I mistake not, both the Propositions are before proved to be wholly destitute of any Scripture foundation. Was this allow'd therefore, which they defire, that Baptism is the Seal of the New Covenant, it must first be prov'd that all in Covenant have a Right unto the Seal; and that the Children of Believers, as such, have an Interest theren. If they fail in either of these, their Practice cannot be justify'd by this Argument; and if I mistake not, they nust necessarily fail in the Proof of each of them from God's Word. I know Rom. iv. 11. is ordinarily produc'd or Proof, that Circumcission was a Seal of the Covenant of Grace; and Col. ii. 11, 12. that Baptism, succeeding in the com thereof, must have the same Use and End, that Cirumcision formerly had.

As to Rom.iv. 11. it will upon examination fall very short of roving that Circumcision was a Seal unto the Carnal Seed, hd Servants of Abraham, nay of his Posterity by Isaac, as ch, of their Interest in the Covenant of Grace. r.) The Design of the Apostle in this Place is to shew, that od defign'd to justify the uncircumcis'd Gentiles by Faith, well as the circumcis'd Jews, which he doth by noting e time, wherein the All-wife God first instituted Circumsion, (wherein the Foundation of the Jews Separation om other Nations was laid) which he tells us was after braham, to whom the Command was first given, was stify'd. Whence he argueth, that the want of Circumsion could be no Bar to the Justification of the Gentiles, ecause Abraham himself was justify'd in his Uncircumcion; and thence shews, that God made Choice of that time injoin Circumcission on him and his, for a Seal, or Conmation to him, that God, in time to come, would justify e Gentiles by Faith in Christ, who was to come of his Seed, at he might stand in the Relation of a Spiritual Father them also. And this Sense is plainly express'd in the ranslation of the Words by the Learned Dr. Lightfoot, in s Hor. Hebraic. Which he there shews not only to be e most proper to the Apostle's Design, but likewise to ree well with the Original. For, whereas we read, ico Th axeoBusia, which he being yet Uncircumcis'd, he reads which should be in the Uncircumcision, i. e. his uncircums'd Seed, the Gentiles. So that Circumcision, as it was Seal, was to confirm the Truth of the Promise of bringgin the Gentiles to be of the Seed of Abraham; which ing accomplish'd, its End was attain'd, and no other rdinance could take its Place, so as to seal the same Proises. And no one can suppose that Circumcision did al, or confirm to its Subjects in general, or indeed to y but to Abraham himself, a paternal Relation to believing lieving Gentiles. But (2.) if we take the Words to intend, that Circumcision sealed to Abraham his own Personal Interest, as a Believer, in the Covenant of Grace, as well as his Relation of a Spiritual Father to believing Gentiles; it in could not do so to his Infant-seed or Servants, as such, many of whom never had, either before, or after their Circum Us of whom never had, either before, or after their Circum cision, such Faith in Evangelical Promises, who yet were no the appointed Subjects of Circumcision as well as Abraham himself. Much less could it seal to them such a Paternal der Relation, which it is here declar'd to do to him; this one being a Prerogative granted to Abraham alone. Whence I conclude, that whatever Circumcision was at its first Institution, to the Father of the Faithful, it could no be a Seal in the Sense our Brethren plead it to have been to his carnal Seed, as such, afterwards. For had it been Seal, or Confirmation, affix'd by God's Appointment, their personal Interest in the Covenant of Grace unto al that were to be Circumcis'd, they must all have been eter nally faved. For, as this Covenant is the great Charter whereby a Right to Eternal Life is given, none that ever ha an Interest therein, fell short of such a Right, nor did an miss of attaining that, unto which God sealed to them such a Right. Moreover, (3.) the Apostle doth in the following Words most plainly declare, that there is an essential Diffe rence between the Law (to which Circumcifion belong'd and those New Covenant promises that were made to Abra ham for his Spiritual Seed, as ver. 13, 14, 15. For in ver. 12 he tells us who they are among the circumcis'd Jews, t whom Abraham stands in the Relation of a Spiritual Father which he faith, are they that walk in the Steps of that Faith Abraham, which he had being yet uncircumcis'd. Whence appears, that the carnal Seed of Abraham himself wer not, as such, his spiritual Seed; much less can the carn Seed of Believing Gentiles be accounted such, unless the walk in the Steps of Abraham's Faith. And then in the next Verse he adds; For the Promise that he should be the Heir of the World, (i. e. the Father of the Faithful all Parts of the World, which Sense best agrees with the Words and Scope of the place,) was not to Abraham, his Seed, thro' the Law, but thro' the Righteousness of Faith for if they who are of the Law be Heirs, Faith is made voil and the Promises made of none Effect, because the Law wor eth Wrath. with the carnal Seed, be thus different in Kind from the Covenant of Faith, as the Apostle here declares; and this ell as Law, or Covenant (the first Lines whereof were drawn in that Covenant Transaction with Abraham, Gen. xvii. 7, 8, many ...) be that to which Circumcision belong'd in its ordinary Use, as one would think none should deny; there can be no ground for any to assert, that the Covenant of Circumcision is the same that believing Gentiles are now under, unless the Law and the Gospel, Faith and Works, are one and the same.

As for Col. ii. 11, 12. In whom also ye are circumcis'd with fire the Circumcision made without Hands, in putting off the Body d no of the Sins of the Flesh, by the Circumcision of Christ: Buried with him in Baptism, wherein also you are risen with him through the Faith of the Operation of God, who hath rais'd him from the Dead : The Scope of the Apostle in this place is, to perswade these Colossians not to mix any thing with to al Christ in the Foundation of their Faith and Hope; having in ver. 10. affur'd them that they were compleat in Christ. And left any one should prevail upon them, to conclude that they stood in need of Circumcision, to render them more compleat; he tells them, that in Christ they had attain'd the End of Circumcision, in whom (not in your selves) also ve are circumcis'd with the Circumcision made without Hands, &c. It cannot then be Baptism, as succeeding in the room of Circumcifion, that he intends by their being circumcis'd in Christ, for that is perform'd by the Hands, as well as Circumcifion. Yea, such a Notion of Baptism coming in the room of Circumcifion, so as to have the same Use and End now, that Circumcision formerly had, directly opposeth the Apostle's Design in this place, as we may fee immediately. His Intention then is, that in Christ they had attain'd that, which Circumcifion mainly pointed at; and this the Context (if I mistake not) sheweth to be Iustitication by that perfect Obedience to the Law, which Circumcision obliged to; Gal. v. 3. That the Law promis'd the Divine Favour to none, but on the Condition of perfect Obedience, hath been prov'd already; that Circumcision, the great Ordinance of the Law, bound its Subjects to perfect Obedience, is (I think) no less evident, it being therefore call'd an insupportable Toke; that this perfect Obedience could be yielded by none fince the Fall, but Christ alone, must be granted; and that he was therefore made under the Law, Gal. iv. 4. that by yielding that perfect Obedience which the Law requir'd, he might work ou a compleat Righteousness, wherein his People might be accepted with God, cannot (as I suppose) be question'd by any of those with whom I at present have to do. 'The therefore on this Account that they are faid to be the Circumcifion, who rejoice, (i.e. place their whole Truft, as the Foundation of all their spiritual Peace and Comfort in Christ Jesus, and have no Confidence in the Flesh, (i.e. in those carnal or fleshly Privileges that the Jews were so much inclin'd to confide in) but look for all from Christ as he was the end of the Law for Righteousness to every on that believeth, Rom. x. 4. It may also have a secondary respect to Sanctification (the Circumcision of the Heart) which always inseparably accompanieth Justification: And this also Christ is made unto his, t Cor. i. 30. Not that their Sanctification confifteth in the Imputation of the Holiness of Christ's Person unto them, but as it was purchas'd for them by him; and the Principles of Grace are implanted, maintain'd, and increas'd in them by his Spirit, inabling them by Faith to derive cleanfing Virtue from Christ crucify'd. But by the Circumcision of Christ, his perfect Obedience, whereof that was a Sign, feems primarily to be intended: And it is not unufual for the Sign to be put for the thing fignify'd. That the Union and Fellowship of Believers with Christ in his Death and Refurrection, is represented in Baptism, wherein they are faid to be buried, and risen together with him, is fully declar'd, Rom. vi. 3, 4, 5, 6, &c. And that they attain'd to it thro' the Faith of the Operation of God, is here afferted; the Defign of the Apostle, in what he says as to Circumcifion, which belong'd to the Old Covenant, being to convince them that they stood in no need of any Legal Shadows, which are now abolish'd, to render them more compleat, fince the whole of what they were to rely upon, and all that was needful for them, was to be found in Christ. The continuation of Circumcision, or any Ordinance that should have the same Use and End, would be virtually a Denial that Christ was come, and had accomplish'd that whereof it was a Shadow. And their Baptism shews, they had profes'd to place their whole Trust in that Jefus, who died for their Sins, and rose again for their Justistcation; whose dying and rising as their Surety and Reprefentative, presentative, and the Benefit they partake of by it, is in a lively manner held forth therein. But for further Satisfaction, as to the Mind of the Spirit of God, both in Rom. iv. 11. and Col. ii. 11, 12. I would refer the Reader to the judicious Discourse written by Mr. N. Coxe, intituled, A Discourse of the Covenants which God made with Men before the Law. Chap. viii. Where (if Imistake not) one that reads with an unprejudic'd Mind, will find it prov'd, that nothing is intended in these Texts that can give the least Countenance to Pedobaptism.

I come in the next place to confider the Covenant of Circumcifion, as it was given to Abraham, Gen. xvii. 7, &c. Whereon my Antagonist chiefly relies for the defence of Pedobaptism. But that it does not yield the least Support to it, I hope to make fully appear, upon a due Search into what the Scripture declares concerning it. That there is a Repetition of the great Evangelical Promise given to Abraham, Chap. xii. 3. in the place abovemention'd, readily grant; which the Apostle calls the Promise, and the Gospel, Gal. iii. And that 'tis to Gen. xii. 3. and not to chap. xvii. 7. to which the Apostle here refers, is evident from the time he lays it was given before the Law, viz. 430 Years, as Mr. Pool's Annotations shew, not only in computing the time mention'd, Gal. iii. 17. which otherwise would have fallen short of that number about 24 Years; but likewife from many other plain Arguments, which I omit to mention. That the Place before us therefore contains a renewal of the Promise to Abraham, is not deny'd, which feems to have been necessary, before the establishing of the Covenant with him for his natural Offspring, that it might appear the former Grant was not disanull'd by it, but that the latter was to subserve the Ends of the former. But our present Enquiry is, of what Nature the Covenant is that God establish'd with Abraham, ver. 7, 8, 9, 10, 11, 12, 13, 14. And in order thereunto, we must consider who are this Seed of Abraham, with whom it is made. That Abraham had a twofold Seed, the Scripture exprelly tells us, the one carnal, and the other spiritual; the former, those that descended from his Loins; the latter, Heirs of the Bleslings of the Covenant made with him for them thro' believing, being such that walk in the Steps of his Faith. And accordingly a twofold Covenant was made with him, the one for his natural Offspring, which yet extended not to them all, but only only to his Seed by Isaac, and was afterwards limited again to Jacob and his Posterity, Ishmael and Esau being expresly excluded; the other for his spiritual Seed, i. e. Believers of all Nations: the one promifing temporal Bleffings in the Land of Canaan; and the other spiritual and eternal Blesfings, thro' Faith in the Messiah, who was to come of the Seed of Abraham according to the Flesh. And by the former that People was not only fet apart from other Nations, for the bringing forth of the Messiah, that it might be known the Promise of God to Abraham was fulfill'd, that he should come of his Seed, and receiv'd their typical Institutions pointing at Christ, and the Work that was to be accomplish'd by him at his coming; but likewife some Ages after the Decease of Abraham, had the fingular Privilege of the Old Testament granted them, as also the first tenders of Gospel-grace after the coming of the Messiah. But all these Advantages came far short of the better Promises of the Covenant, made with him for his spiritual Seed, whereby Grace here, and Glory hereafter, is infur'd to all who have the Happiness to be included in it. And that it was his natural Seed, and Houshold-servants, even all the Males without Distinction, whether they were his spiritual Seed or no, that were to be circumcis'd, none can modestly deny. Wherefore this Covenant, whereof Circumcifion was the Sign, was the Covenant made with Abraham for his natural Offforing. For, although it was to be affix'd on as many of Abraham's spiritual Seed, as were his natural Seed also; yet to none upon the former, but only on the latter Account. But as it pleased God to appoint all the Males to be circumcis'd, that sprang from Abraham by Isaac and Jacob, to whom he gave, in the appointed Season, all the Bleffings promis'd in that special Covenant made with him; it was his Sovereign Pleasure also to appoint them to be the Subjects of this Ordinance, who had no real Interest in the Bleffings of that Covenant. For Ishmael and Esan were by the Command of God to be circumcis'd, who were yet before their Circumcifion excluded from any Share therein. Neither did Circumcisson convey any Right to the Bondmen among the Jews, to share with the Circumcis'd Jews in the Inheritance of Canaan, one great Bleffing promis'd in the Covenant here establish'd with Abraham. Which further shews, what I said before, that Covenantinterelt interest was not the adequate Rule, and proper ground of the Administration of Circumcision, but the express Revelation of the Sovereign Pleasure of the Lawgiver. Yet as it was to be administred to the carnal Seed, as such, whether their immediate Parents were Believers or no; and one great End of it being the Separation of the Body of the Ifraelitish Nation from all other Nations, for the Production of the Messiah among them; we have reason to conclude, it was the carnal Seed of Abraham, under the Limitations and Restraints before mention'd, for whom this Covenant was establish'd with him. And consequently the Covenant at Sinai, which was afterwards made the intire Rule of Obedience to the National Church of the Jews, during that Dispensation, was in pursuance of the Promises here made to Abraham for them; so that this must be of the like Nature with that, which we have before prov'd to differ in Substance and Kind from the Covenant of Grace. And that there is no reason from the great Promise here made of the Lord's being the God of this Seed, or from its being call'd an Everlafting Covenant, to conclude it to be the Covenant of Grace in Christ Jesus, into which believing Gentiles are admitted, is evident from what hath been already shewn, with respect to the Sinai Covenant; wherein also the Lord declared himself to be the God of the Jewish Nation, and that Covenant is declared to be Everlafting, the meaning of which Term will afterwards be further explain'd.

But after all that has been faid to the contrary, should it be granted to our Pedobaptist Brethren, that the Covenant which God here maketh with Abraham and his Seed, is the Covenant of Grace, which I can see no reason for, then who are this Seed of Abraham? It must surely be the Spiritual Seed, fince it cannot be confistent with found Do-Arine to affert that the Covenant of Grace is established with any others, because the sure Promises thereof are fulfilled to them only. And we know that Abraham's carnal Seed, as such, were not interested therein. We have no account in holy Writ, how it far'd in this respect with any more than two of his immediate Sons, Ishmael and Maac, and but one of those two was of his spiritual Seed. And of the Jews, his mediate Seed, that sprang from him in after Generations, for whom this Covenant was established with him, and who were as much interested in the Promifes thereof as his immediate Seed, as appears from the very Words wherein this Covenant is transacted, With him and with his Seed after him in their Generations; of these, I say, the Apostle declares, that altho' they were as the Sand of the Sea, yet a Remnant only was faved, Rom. ix. 27. which all in the Covenant of Grace are. Which is also further evident from ver. 6, 7, 8. of the same Chap. For they are not all Israel, which are of Israel: Neither because they are the Seed of Abraham, are they all Children, but in Isac shall thy Seed be called: that is, they which are the Children of the Flesh, these are not the Children of God; but the Children of the Pro mise are counted for the Seed. Altho' I would not write after my Antagonist's Copy, and infinuate his giving the flat Lie to these, with many other Texts of the same import; yet! must lay, he cannot affert the Interest of the Seed of Believers, as fuch, in the Covenant of Grace, without directly contradicting the plain Words and Sense of these and such like Scriptures. Those who according to the Meaning of these and many other Scriptures, are called the Children of God, are such that stand in a new Covenant-relation to him; and it is to them that God hath promised he will be a Father, and they shall be his Sons and Daughters, 2 Cor. vi. ult. And the Apostle faith, The Children of the Flesh (i. e. as fuch, or on that account) are not the Children of God, (standing related to him as such in the Covenant of Grace) neither because they were Abraham's natural Seed, are they so related to him as his Children. If then all Abraham's own natural Seed, that sprang from his Loins, were not his spiritual Seed; it is impossible for any Man to prove that the natural Seed of Believers, as such, are Abraham's spiritual Seed. Do Believers, by the Right which they derive from Abrabam, convey a greater Privilege to their Children, than he did to his own Offspring according to the Flesh? Either then the Plea must be laid aside for the Children of Belielievers Right to Baptism, from their being in that respect interested in the Covenant of Grace, and some other Bottom found out to build it upon, or the Cause Mr. H. hath undertaken to defend, must fall to the ground. And that, if it be the Covenant of Grace which is here made with Abraham, as our Brethren contend, none other but the spiritual Seed of Abraham are meant, is owned by the Learned and Pious Dr. O. in his Book intituled, The Do-Etrine of the Saints Perseverante, &c. where indeavouring to confirm that great Doctrine of Final Perseverance from the Covenant of Grace, the first Place produced by him for that end is Gen. xvii. 7. By which we may be affured he look'd upon no other really interested in that Covenant, but what should finally persevere and attain Eternal Life. But I shall give you his own Words. "This " is that, which God ingageth himself unto in this Cove-" nant of Grace, that he will for everlasting be a God to " him and to his faithful Seed : Tho' the external Admini-" stration of the Covenant was given to Abraham and his " carnal Seed (which, if we may take it for the Tenders of the Grace thereof, as he seems to explain himself in the Place before cited, Exp. Vol. 3. is readily granted) yet "the effectual Dispensation of the Grace of the Covenant a is peculiar to them only, who are the Children of the "Promise, the Remnant of Abraham according to Election, " with all that in all Nations were to be bleffed in him, and " in his Seed Jesus Christ. Ishmael, tho' circumcised, was " to be put out, and not to be Heir with Isaac; nor to abide in the House for ever, as the Son of the Promise was. " Now the Apostle tells you, look what Bleffings faithful " Abraham received by virtue of this Promise, the same do " all Believers receive, Gal. iii. 9. which he proves in the "Words foregoing from Gen. xii. 3." And as to the twofold Seed of Abraham, carnal and spiritual, before describ'd, and the distinct Covenants establish'd with him for them, the same Interpreter, in his fixth Exercit. prefix'd to his first Volume on the Hebrews, speaks very fully in these Words, P. 55. " In process of time God was pleased to confine this Church, " as to the ordinary visible Dispensation of his Grace, to the " Person and Posterity of Abraham. Upon this Restriction " of the Church-covenant and Promise, the Jews of old " managed a Plea in their own Justification, against the " Doctrine of the Lord Christ and his Apostles. We are " the Children, the Seed of Abraham, was their continual " Cry; on the account whereof they prefumed that all the " Promises belonged unto them, and upon the Matter to " them alone. And this their Perswasion hath cast them, " as we shall see, upon a woeful and fatal Mistake." And it may deferve the ferious Thoughts of our Pedobaptist Brethren, whether their afferting, that their Children, as fuch, are interested in the Covenant of Grace, doth not tend to cast their Posterity into the same fatal Mistake. But

and Covenant:

"1. That according to the Flesh he should be the Father of the Messah, the promised Seed, who was the very Life of the Covenant, the Fountain and Cause of all the Blessings contained in it. That this Privilege was temporary, having a limited Season, Time and End appointed to it, the very Nature of the thing it self doth demonstrate; for upon his actual Exhibition in the Flesh it was to cease. In pursuit hereof, were his Posterity separated from the rest of the World, and preserved a peculiar People, that through them the promiserved a peculiar People, that through them the promiserved Seed might be brought forth in the Fulness of Time, and be of them, according to the Flesh, Rom. ix. 5.

granted unto him, namely, that his Faith, whereby he was personally interested in the Covenant, should be the Pattern of the Faith of the Church in all Generations; and that none should ever come to be a Member of it, or a Sharer in its Blessings, but by the same Faith which he had sixed on the Seed, that was in the Promise, to be brought forth from him in the World. On the account of this Privilege, he became the Father of all them that do believe; for they that are of the Faith, the same are the Children of Abraham, Gal. iii. 7. Rom. iv. 11. as also Heir of the World, Rom. iv. 13. in that all that should believe throughout the World, being thereby implanted into the Covenant made with him, should become his " spiritual Children.

"Answerable to this twofold End of the Separation of Abraham, there was a double Seed alloted to him: A Seed according to the Flesh, separated to the bringing forth of the Messiah according to the Flesh; and a Seed according to the Promise, that is, such as by Faith should have Interest in the Promise, or all the Elect of God. Not that these two Seeds were always subjectively divers, so that the Seed separated to the bringing forth of the Messiah in the Flesh, should neither in whole nor in part be also the Seed according to the Promise; or on the contrary, that the Seed according to the Promise should none of it be his Seed after the Flesh. Our Apostle description of the contrary in the Instances of Isaac and Facolog, with with the Remnant of Israel that should be faved, Rom. ix. " 10, 11. But sometimes the same Seed came under divers "Confiderations, being the Seed of Abraham both accord-" ing to the Flesh and according to the Promise; and some-" times the Seed it felf were divers, those according to the " Flesh being not of the Promise, and so on the contrary. " Thus Isaac and Jacob were the Seed according to the " Flesh, separated to the bringing forth of the Messiah after " the Flesh, because they were his carnal Posterity; and "they were also of the Seed of the Promise, because by " their own personal Faith, they were interested in the " Covenant of Abraham their Father. Multitudes after-" wards were of the carnal Seed of Abraham, and of the a number of the People separated to bring forth the Mef-" fiah in the Flesh, and yet were not of the Seed accord-" ing to the Promise, nor interested in the spiritual Bles-" fings of the Covenant, because they did not personally " believe, as our Apostle declares, Chap. iv. of this Epistle. "And many afterwards, who were not of the carnal Seed " of Abraham, nor interested in the Privilege of bringing " forth the Messiah in the Flesh, were yet designed to be " made his spiritual Seed by Fatth, that in them he might " become Heir of the World, and all Nations of the Earth " be bleffed in him. Now it is evident, that it is the fe-" cond Privilege and spiritual Seed, wherein the Church, " to whom the Promises are made, is founded, and where-" of it doth confift; namely, in them who by Faith are " interested in the Covenant of Abraham, whether they " be of the carnal Seed or no." These Words are so plain and full, needing no Comment to affert and prove, that those only who by their own personal Faith have an Interest in that better Covenant, and not Abraham's carnal Seed, as fuch, were his spiritual Seed; that if the bold Assertions of Mr. H. be laid in the ballance against 'em, they will be found of no weight. And as only Believers are the spiritual Seed of Abraham, there can be no fair Pretence made that other Believers stand in the Relation of such a Covenanthead to their Offspring, as Abraham to both his Seeds. Even those of their Seed, who when grown up appear to be Believers, and thereby stand related to Abraham as his spiritual Seed, who had that peculiar Honour confer'd on him, to be the Pattern of Faith to all the Faithful after him; they, I say, tho' standing thus related to Abraham by virtue of the Covenant here transacted with him, cannot however justly be called the spiritual Seed of their own immediate believing Parents on the same account, God having made no such Covenant with them, whereby they can claim a paternal Relation to them on that score. For any to argue, that because in this Covenant God promised to be a God to Abraham and his Seed in their Generations, therefore the same Promise is made to ordinary believing Parents, is a discovery that little or no due Thought hath been exercised on the peculiar Prerogative granted to Abraham, that others should derive their Claim from him, both to the Blessings of the first and second Covenant; his carnal Seed, as such, to the one; and his spiritual Seed, as such, unto the other.

If then any one would prove that the Offspring of Believers, as such, are interested in the Covenant of Grace, tho' what is so much contended for was granted, which, as I said before, I see no reason to do, viz. that the Covenant made with Abraham, Gen. xvii. 7. is the Covenant of Grace; he is yet obliged to shew, that the carnal Seed of Believers, as such, are the spiritual Seed of Abraham. And his own immediate carnal Seed, as such, not being his spiritual Seed, nor any of them upon that account interested in the Covenant of Grace, it must in the Issue (if I am not greatly mistaken) prove a fruitless Attempt; for he will find himself consuled by express Testimonies of Holy Scripture,

I shall now proceed to give a brief and just Account of what Mr. H. pretends to offer to the contrary. Although, if the Premifes already laid down, be substantially prov'd from the Scripture, as I take them to be, the chief Foundation on which he builds the Practice he contends for, is effectually deftroy'd. And the most of his Arguments also being advane'd to prove, that God made the Covenant of Grace with Abraham, (which the Antipedobaptists own no less than himself) we are very little concern'd in them; for that Polition may be, and is granted, but yet his Inference thence deduc'd, deny'd. And he must either have been very ignorant of the true State of the Controversy between us, and therefore unfit to undertake a Decision of it; or else have purposely left himself at liberty to argue at fo loofe a rate, that the less knowing Readers might think he had gain'd his Point, by proving that which the Scripture plainly afferts, and we, as well as himfelf, own and ffirm. For they that know little of this Controversy, may well be supposed to imagine (as 'tis likely he hop'd) hat a Man who writes with fo great Affurance, would ot fo bestir himself to prove that which is not deny'd y those he opposeth; tho' at the same time it can't but eem very odd to others that he should do so. That God hade the Covenant of Grace with Abraham, and his spiitual Seed, is granted. That the Offspring of Believers. such, are of the number of this spiritual Seed, is dey'd; and if Mr. H. affert it a thousand times over, he in never prove it from Scripture, or by any just Conquences thence deduc'd. And it may well feem strange any one, that a Person in this Age, should publish a iscourse to the World concerning the Promises made Abraham and his Seed, and never take notice of the istinction made by those against whom he contend, beween the carnal and spiritual Seed of Abraham, which allo allow'd by the most noted Writers of the Pedoptists, and without which the federal Transactions of od with Abraham can never be rightly understood.

CHAP I.

REMARKS on Mr. H's Introduction.

Can readily subscribe to the whole of his first Paragraph; it being unquestionably our Duty to buy the Truth and sell it not, &c. But this can no way justify the Undertaking of Mr. H. unless what he here considered for be the Truth, and the Doctrine we meet with in his his Plea be agreeable to the Faith once delivered to the aints; which nothing I meet with in his Treatise gives me he least Satisfaction in; and the Reasons why I cannot so them it, the Reader will find in my Answer insuing.

The second Paragraph begins with the Declaration of his attention to avoid giving Offence as much as possible. I ambilling to exercise as much Charity as possibly I can; and would therefore hope he might have some such Purpose at is first Entrance on this Work, how little discovery soever he hath made of it in the Work it felf. Tho' it may feem strange, that a Man should warm himself to that degree in ingaged him in, as not only totally to forget his first good that Intentions, but in many places to write more like first good that defigned to offend, than one that would use the likeliest Means to convince. He adds, or at least to moderate or cool the Spirits of such, who are apt to be offended with those that plead the Cause of Infants; which yet is an Act both of Justice and Mercy, because they can't plead for themselves. Hei very unlikely to quench a Fire, who takes pains to add more Fuel to it. And if Mr. H. would have attempted to make others cool and moderate, he should have address to make others cool and moderate, he should have address's trin himself to that Work in a Temper better suited to produce ing that Frame in them, than what appears in his Discourse had But Men are subject to heighten the Failings of others, and poor overlook their own. If the Plea he here makes for Insant and be, as he saith, an Act of Justice and Mercy, they must be his very unreasonable that will take offence at it, which I per should be an Act of Justice, what he pleads for must be that which I god's Word giveth them a Right unto; and if an Act of Mercy, it must tend to profit, not indanger them. But that his Plea doth not, on either of these accounts, deserve the Commendation himself gives it, will (as I think) appear in the Examination of it. But to make us more could and moderate he propounds four things in general, as he possible, for us to consider of in the Fear of God, touching this cruelly controversy. Controversy.

The Substance of the First is this: That it is a far greate Evil to deny Baptism to Infants, if they have a Right to a would than it can be to baptize them if they have none; because it would much safer to err on the side of Love and Mercy, than of Un which charitableness and Cruelty.

But 'tis certainly not our Duty to let Charity so sure prevail, as to biass the Judgment, and overcome some scrupt ver ples of the Mind about the Warrantableness of the Practice perswhere contends for. And he would do well to remember, the Estate that which is not of Faith is Sin, Rom. xiv. ult. and that Love still should abound in Knowledge, Phil. i. 9. and be a Fruit of Faith ended Gal. v. 6. But now I shall consider, first his Position, and forming then his Reason. For the Position; tho I own it to be in the sinful to omit what God requireth; yet I see not but it is a sinstead finfu feem inful to practife that as a part of God's Worship, which see in a no where appointed by him. The Lord himself hath hewn as great Marks of his Displeasure against doing good that which he commanded not, as against neglecting to hewn as great Marks of his Dipleature against doing hat which he commanded not, as against neglecting to bey him in the Duties prescrib'd by him; as in the Intelief ance of Nadab and Abihu, Lev. x. 1, 2. and he severely that the Israelites afterwards for doing that which he had not commanded, Jer. vii. 31. xix. 5. & xxxii. 35. Instituted in the Lord, in the close of the Canon of Holy Scripare, as severely threatneth them that add to his Word, is those who take from it, Rev. xxii. 18. And it is plain from the Nature of the thing it self, that it is no less resident in the nature of the thing it self, that it is no less resident in the nature of the thing it self, that it is no less resident in the nature of the thing it self, that it is no less resident in the nature of the thing it self, that it is no less resident in the Nature of the thing it self, that it is no less resident to obey those nade by him. Let none then from hence be prevailed pon to do that as a part of Divine Worship, which they an see no good ground from God's Word to believe it his Will should be perform'd; lest they stand speeches when the Lord shall demand, Who hath required this tyour hands? and come under the severe Reprehension of ur Saviour, In vain do ye worship me, teaching for Doctrines he Commandments of Men, Matth. xv. 9.

But I must now consider his Reason. If he supposeth we err in Practice, he must err on the side of Unchariblenes, if he judge it not to proceed from an Error in udgment. And to call an Error in Judgment (if it was as he of which a Man cannot help, by the harsh Names of the truelty and Uncharitablenes, savours more of that which is the result of the ruelty and Uncharitablenes, savours more of that which he calls fo great an Evil, than that on which he bestows the hard Names. Those he calls Anabaprists, have a namural Affection for their Offsering, as well as he, and le calls so great an Evil, than that on which he bestows hose hard Names. Those he calls Anabaptists, have a national ural Affection for their Offspring, as well as he, and would be as unwilling to debar them of any Privilege, which our dear Lord hath granted them in his holy Word; but dare not, under the Pretence of Charity, apply an Ordinance to them, which Christ never appointed for them. It very ill deserves the Name of Charity, for a Parent to perswade his Child that he hath a firm Title to a large that Estate, and thereby cause him to neglect securing his Lov Title to it, till all Offers of conveying such a Right are ended. And I have often thought, that believing Parents into the Covenant of Grace, which is sure and Everlasting, and instead of being an Act of Charity, proceeding from Jude-sinstead of being an Act of Charity, proceeding from Jude-sinstead of being an Act of Charity, proceeding from Jude-sinstead of being an Act of Charity, proceeding from Jude-sinstead of being an Act of Charity, proceeding from Jude-sinstead of being an Act of Charity, proceeding from Jude-sinstead of the covenant of Charity, proceeding from Jude-sinstead of the calls and the covenant of Charity, proceeding from Jude-sinstead of the calls and the calls and

ment and Understanding, as all such Acts ought to do may be a forrowful Means to cause them to neglect securing to themselves an Interest in it. Tho' I desire to exercise more Charity, than to charge our Brethren, the Pedobaptists, with Cruelty and Uncharitableness; however Mr. H. deals by us. But I look upon them, how well qualify'd foever in other respects, to act herein from Mistake; and those who are moderate among them make the same Construction of our Dissent from them in this matter.

The second thing he thus solemnly proposeth to us to confider, is, What it is we are so ready to be angry at, and strive against. Is it (saith he) some great Loss or Damage w your selves or Children? Or is it not really the greatest Privilege, next to that of your own Salvation, that believing Pa rents can injoy, either for themselves, or Seed; and that which alone can quiet and comfort them concerning their dying Infants?

Such is Mr. H's Charity, that he can readily call it Anger for the Antipedobaptists to express their Diffent from him when at the same time he makes very free with their O pinion, condemning it as cruel and uncharitable. it must be own'd that too much Heat has sometimes appear'd in the Writings of both Parties upon this Controversy, a Fault as little justifiable as common in most polemical Discourses. For why should those who have one Father, and are Heirs of the same Inheritance, be of fended with one another because their Understandings were not all cast in one Mould? It would displease us to see our Children angry with each other, because their Bodies are not of equal Stature. I have at his defire confider'd what he here proposes to us; and tho' I am not angry with my Brethren, for not being of the same Mind with me in this Point; yet, upon deliberate Thoughts, not being a ble to discern that the Children of Believers, as such, have an Interest in the Covenant of Grace, (as I hope the impartial Reader will find afterwards demonstrated) I cannot but fear it may prove very prejudicial to perswade them it is fo, by caufing them to think themselves in a fast and happy Condition, when indeed they are Children of Wrath, as well as others, and without passing under the new Birth must inevitably perish eternally. But as to the greatness of the Privilege which he says we strive a gainst, I cannot learn by reading his Treatise, what real Privilege he affigns them, more than the Antipedobaptifts. He will fay, Is it not a real Privilege of the highest Nature to be interested in the Covenant of Grace? I readily grant it; for, as the Bleslings promis'd in that Covenant are of the greatest Value, so they are sure to every one who is taken into that happy Relation to God, as Jer. xxxii. 40. But what kind of Interest he allots them in it, the Reader will hardly be able to find by his Book? For, by comparing Page 71, and 72. 'twill appear, that tho' he accounts them in Covenant, yet he looks upon them not to be in Christ; for Page 71. he thinks Christ is not meant by the Root, Rom. 11. because none are naturally in him; and in Page 72. he understands it to be the Covenant of Promile, which God establish'd with Abraham, and his Seed; and contends earnestly that Believers Children, as such, are natural Branches in it. This is such a being in the new Covenant, as I cannot find the least hint of in the Holy Scriptures. To be in Covenant, and not in Christ, appears to me to be new and strange Doctrine. Christ is said to be given of the Father for a Covenant of the People. Ifa. lii. 6. And the Covenant is establish'd with him for the Seed in Covenant, Pfal. lxxxix. 27, 28, 29, 30, 31, 32, 33, 34, 60. My Mercy will I keep for him (my first born) for evermore, and my Covenant shall stand fast with him, his Seed also will I make to endure for ever .-- If his Children forsake my Law, and walk not in my Judgments, -- I will visit their Transgressions with the Rod; -- Nevertheless my loving Kindness will I not utterly take from him, &c. And hence it is that they only, who are in Christ, partake of the great Bleffings of the Covenant, Pardon of Sin, and Freedom from that Condemnation Sin hath brought all under. Compare Rom. v. 18. with viii. 1. and Jer. xxxi. 34. 'Tis in Christ the Promises of the Covenant are ratify'd and confirm'd, 2 Cor. i. 20. For all the Promises of God in him are Yea, and in him, Amen, unto the Glory of God by 116. His Notion of being in the Covenant of Grace, and not in Christ, the Mediator and Surety of it, is directly contrary to Gal. iii. 29. If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed, and Heirs according to the Promise. And when he speaks of their being in Covenant, it is no other Interest therein which he affigns them, than what they may, and many of them do fall off from, and perish eternally.

And how this alone should quiet and comfort Believers concerning their dying Infants, is not easy to understand. But he will fay, Is it not a great Privilege to be Members of Christ's visible Church and Kingdom? And that they are so, is what he very much indeavours to perswade us to the Belief of. But designing to treat of this more particularly afterwards, I shall only say here, that I know of no Privilege peculiarly belonging to Church-members, he ascribes to them. If he say, he is for their being on that account admitted to Baptism, which we deny them; my Answer is, that Baptism cannot justly be esteem'd a Privilege, unless appointed for them; which could we be convinc'd of, we should as readily admit them to it, as he can desire. And Church-membership is so far from being a ground of their Admission to Baptism, that the Apostles first baptis'd, and then admitted to Membership with the Church, Acts ii. 40, 41. But further; Where is the Cruelty and Uncharitableness in our Opinion, if the Covenant-interest, and Church-membership (which he pretends to) be indeed so great a Privilege, as he accounts it; and their Right thereto as certain, as he would perswade us; where is the Damage in our shewing the Reasons that we cannot discern it so to be? Will that revoke any Grant that God hath made them, and destroy such Interest, if they are possess'd of it? This cannot be. If me believe not, yet he abideth faithful, 2 Tim. ii. 13. And Men's Unbelief maketh not the Faith of God (i. e. his Faithfulness) without Effect, Rom. iii. 3. But on the other hand, the affirming them to be in Covenant, &c. may be greatly prejudicial (as was shew'd before) if in truth they are not-And that there is as much Charity, yea more, in our Opinion concerning Infants, than in his, may further appear

As to the third Thing, when he asks, What is it you are fo pleas'd with? I answer; A Prospect of Truth's prevailing against Error. And when he adds, What is it you contend so earnestly for? My Reply is; The Faith once deliver'd to the Saints, and Purity of Worship appointed by God, which he here opposeth, and which the Command of our Lord hath made our Duty, tho' he is pleas'd to call it a contending for nothing. And I can't but observe here the little Artistice he useth to expose us to the hard Thoughts of our Brethren, who differ from us in this Point; yea, and and of our own Children also, when arriv'd to Years of Understanding; suggesting that we contend to have them Members of Satan's Kingdom, and Strangers to the Covenant of Promise; which contains as much of Truth, as his Discourse in general discovers of Charity. For our earnest Request to God for them is, that they may be deliver'd out of that deplorable Estate. And when he says our Zeal is cruel, that we are unkind Parents, and our Insants are to be pitied upon that account; it needs a more savourable Interpretation than he commonly gives of what we do and say, to think that he design'd not to prejudice our own Offspring against us; but I would hope better concerning him.

I come now to the fourth Thing, where he asks, If you carry the Day, what is it you gain? To which he replies, Just nothing; adding, But if the Truth be found to be on our side, and you yield to it, then ye gain very much both for your selves and Seed. What those who are of Mr. H's Opinion gain, either to themselves or Seed, more than we, I shall leave the Reader to judge from what has been said in Answer to the second Thing propos'd by him.

When he endeavours to distinate from spreading of what is written by Antipedobaptists on this Subject, which he wrongfully says is against Infants, and their Privileges; he would not, I perswade my self, it should be interpreted by the Favourers of the Cause he pleads, as a Reprehension of their greater Zeal-in spreading his Treatise.

When he proceeds to tell us, he has often wonder'd, every thing we meet with that strengthens our Opinion, should not bring a Damp upon our Spirits; is there not more reason to wonder it should not have that Effect upon him, to observe that, notwithstanding he has ventur'd to affert all the Infants of Believers interested in the Covenant of Grace, many of them fadly discover they never had the true Fear of God in their Hearts, by which means the Parents find themselves miserably disappointed? And 'tis well if some of their Offspring from such Doctrine don't flatter themselves with a groundless Confidence, having heard, that those once in Covenant are ever so. And I must fay, he hath shewn as little Regard to prevent any thing of that nature, as I ever observed in any Writing of this Kind. A little more Care of Children would well have become one, who so severely condemns others of Unkindness to them. D 3

As to what he speaks of clapping of Wings, and crowing, when we get a believing Parent to reject and contemn all that Faith in, and Comfort which he had once from the Word and Promise of God concerning his Children; and to take up hard Thoughts of his Infants; yea, and of our Lord himself, as if he would not indure the Infants of his People to come near him in the Church, or have any Relation to him as Lambs of the Flock, &c. I shall leave him to please himself with the trifling Metaphors of clapping of Wings, and crowing and only fay, that I know not but there may be fometime too much appearance of Vain-glory on both fides, upon a suppos'd Advantage of their Cause, which is but too common on such accounts, and all would do well to avoid. Nor dare allow my felf to think he is arriv'd at fuch a pitch of Uncha ritableness, as to conclude, that we would have any to contemn the Faith and Comfort which they have receiv'd from the Word and Promises of God; or, that we take up harde Thoughts, than God's Word (if we understand it right) directs us to, of our Children; much less that we dare think hardly of our dearest Lord, for any thing reveal'd by him concerning them; how unhappy foever he may have been in his Expressions. And I think my self oblig'd to defin him to beware left he take Fancy for Faith, and Comfor to himself, when God speaks it not to him; and that he conclude not, that our Lord hath admitted the Infants of Believers, as such, to Membership in his Church, from at ungrounded Imagination that otherwise he would have dealt hardly with them.

He doth not feem to have confider'd well what he fays when he talks of our setting up a Calf, and dancing about it for if he had, he must have remember'd, that the making and dancing about the Calf in the Wilderness, to which he there alludes, was an act of Worship devis'd by Men and none, that I know of, condemn our Practice of adult Baptism as such. But the Task he hath undertaken, obligeth him to free his own Practice from meriting that Cha-

What he fays in the following Paragraph of the wonted Evasion of the invisible Church, shall be consider'd in the next Chap ter. But I can't omit to observe how improper his alleging Deut. XXIX. 29. is to prove the Case of Infants no Secret; tho' he feems to have thought this Passage very much to his Purpole, by inferting it in his Title Page. how-however the thing be in it self, as to the Revelation of God's Mind, touching the State of new born Infants, yet this place is very far from declaring it to us; for by Children here, our Posterity, when grown up to be capable of understanding that Revelation, must necessarily be intended; till then it can no way belong to them as an appointed Means of their Instruction, but only to their Parents: And Persons, when grown up to 30 or 40 Years of Age, tho' they may be capable of understanding it much sooner, are still the Children of their natural Parents, as well as when in their Insant State. As to his Citation out of the Epiftle of Dr. Thomas Goodwin, prefix'd to Mr. Cotton's Book of Infant Baptism, to justify his Call to this Undertaking; I shall only fay, That altho' I have a very high Esteem of the Doctor, yet I see nothing offer'd by him in these Lines, to convince me'tis the Will of God that Infants should be baptiz'd, and we have no Warrant, Jurare in verba Magistri, To pin our Faith on any Man's Sleeve. Tho' I could wish Mr. H. and some others of the same Perswasion with him, would tread in the Dr's Steps, as to the Christian Love, and Moderation he shew'd (as I have been very credibly inform'd) towards his Brethren who differ'd from him in this Point. I shall only add, that it appears to me somewhat strange for Mr. H. to justify his own appearing as a publick Advocate in this Cause, from those Words of the Dr. where he faith, "That the Vindication of the Right of Infants de-" ferves, and challengeth the choicest Abilities of the Divines " of this Age." For it cannot be well confistent with Modefty, for him to account himself so qualify'd, as the Dr. fays the Cause requireth. And I would desire him to beware of building any great Expectation upon his following Words, of a Reward from Christ, for this his Undertaking, at the last Day; lest he then find himself disappointed, and this Work of his prove but Hay and Stubble, which shall be burnt, and he suffer the loss of it.

In the next Place, he accounts for his citing of many Texts, without writing of the Words at length; to which I need only fay, that I believe those who will be at the pains of consulting them, will be apt to conclude, he might as well have omitted most of the References themselves, as the Words, being so very foreign to the Purpose. But I now proceed to the Consideration of his first Chapter.

CHAP. II.

An Answer to Mr. H's First Chapter.

R. H. begins his first Chapter with these Words, It's clear and plain from the whole Current of Scripture, that in all Ages of the Church, whatever Covenant of God any Man was under, his Seed were, together with himself, comprehended in, or under the same Covenant. And of this he undertakes to give divers Instances.

'Tis readily granted, that in those several Covenants, the natural Seed of the Persons, with whom they were first made, were included in them with their Parents. But then all those Covenants were essentially different from the Covenant of Grace, concerning which the only Question between us lies; so that no cogent Argument can be thence deduc'd to prove that therefore they must be so in this. And this will more evidently appear, by considering the particular Instances produc'd by him.

The first of these is the Covenant of Works made with Adam before the Fall. I grant that the whole Race of Mankind were comprehended in this Covenant, as Adam was a natural, and Covenant-head, and Representative of all his Posterity in all Ages to the End of the World, otherwise all could not have finned in him, as Rom. v. 12, 13. And on this account the Lord Christ himself is call'd the last Adam, 1 Cor. xv. 45. he alone being a common Head and Reprefentative to all his Seed, which were given him of his Father, as the first Adam was to all his natural Posterity. And no considerate Man will pretend, that ever any Person, from the Creation till now, stood related to his Seed as such a Covenant-head, as either of these: which is sufficient to evince that this Instance can be of no force. But I defire it may be well observed that this alone easily leads us to that which diectly overthrows his whole Polition. For, as God established the Covenant of Works with Adam, altho' 'tis

His second Instance is of the Covenant God made with Voah, Gen. vi. 8, 18. & ix. 1, 8, 9. By God's Covenant vith Noah, Chap. vi. his free Promise to preserve him, and is, from the common Destruction he was about to bring pon the World, feems evidently to be intended, wherein his wn Salvation, and that of all God's People was nearly conerned, the promised Messiah being not then come; for he eing promised, and imbraced by Faith, as the Seed of the rst Woman, if her whole Race had been extinct, that first romise, on which the Faith of all the Antediluvian Patrirchs was built, must have fallen to the Ground. And we hay observe here, that altho' Noah himself had an Interest the Covenant of Grace, yet one of his Sons had not, viz. Ham. As for Gen. ix. 8, 9. the Covenant there made with Toah is established also with all Mankind, and with every liing Creature, to the End of the World, That the Earth nd all Creatures therein should be no more destroy'd by universal Deluge of Waters; so that Noah's remotest ed in all Generations after, were as much affured of a eliverance from fuch a Calamity, as his immediate Offring, by this folemn Declaration of the free and unchangele Purpose of God's Will; the Rainbow being then appointas the Sign and Token of it. And if the Covenant of Grace d been so establish'd with him as this, which is brought give countenance to the Notion of the Interest of Beliers Seed therein, all his Posterity would have been as cerinly secured from eternal Perdition, as they are from other universal Flood.

His third Instance of the Covenant made with Abraham, en. xvii. 7. hath been sufficiently treated of in the Intro-

The fourth Instance he produces, is the Covenant made with the whole Tribe of Levi, for which he cites Mal. ii. 4,5, 6. Deut. xviii. 1, 2, 5. Num. iii. 11, 12, 15, 39, 40. But this, if examined, will be found likewise to weaken the Cause it was brought to defend. For as he cannot but own that 'tis a Mercy and Privilege to receive Ministerial Gifts. and be regularly called to, and imployed in the exercise of them, where the Grace of God inables Persons to be faithful therein; fo, that the Sons in those Times came to this Office by Inheritance from their Fathers, as he here pleads is well known. What then is become of one Argument h feems much to rely on in his Discourse, That Christ came not to take away any Privileges his People were poffes'd under the Law? This was a great Privilege granted to all the Males of one Tribe of Ifrael, and that the same is not cont nued to the Male Seed of Gospel Ministers, is evident. An whereas he afterwards argues, that It is strange no Account Should be left on Record of the Jews making this Objection again the Gospel, That the Infant-seed of the People in Covenant wer now deprived of so great a Privilege, if indeed it had been so 'tis well known that they infifted on the Right of the See of Levi to minister in the Tabernacle, and officiate for the People in facred things. How comes it to pass then, the we find not this urged as an Objection against the New Co venant, that its Ministers had not the same Birth-privileg as under the Law? The Answer to one will serve for both This Covenant with Levi contained no Promise of etern Life to his Seed, and cannot therefore afford any folid A gument to evince that the Covenant conveying etem Life and Salvation, in a way of free Grace, must extend the carnal Seed, as that did.

His fifth Instance of the Covenant made with Phinele Numb. XXV. 10, 11, 12, 13. Which is called the Covenant of overlasting Priesthood, may be equally improv'd against his and convince us how little Service his Argument taken from the Everlastingness of the Covenant made with Abraham ut his Gen. xvii. 7. is like to do him, towards proving that to be your the Covenant of Grace, which believing Gentiles are no east under; fince this with Phinehas is likewise said to be ever the lasting, which he cannot notwithstanding pretend is the same. And there is good reason to suppose, that in both the ha Continuance thereof to the end of that Dispensation is by Mittended, as it is also Gen. xvii. 8. where the Land of Canada made ade faid to be given for an everlafting Possession: And in Exod. . 15. (where the same is declared of the Sons of Aaron in eneral, as in token of God's approbation of his Zeal, is here lemnly insured to Phinehas) the Terms are much the same ith those in Gen. xvii. 7. In the former place 'tis faid, eir anointing shall surely be an everlasting Priesthood throught their Generations. And in the latter, the Lord fays, I ill establish my Covenant between me and thee, and thy Seed ter thee, in their Generations, for an everlasting Covenant. A fixth Instance he brings, is of the Covenant made with avid, 2 Sam. vii. 11, to the end, and Chap. xxiii. 5. Zech. i. 10, 12, &c. To which I reply, that David is to be infidered in a double Capacity, either first as the Father his natural Offspring, or fecondly in the Capacity of a eliever in Christ. In the former of these, God promised conti m to give the Kingdom over Ifrael to his Posterity after m; and no rational Man will pretend that this is a Proof, again at the Children of Believers, as such, are interested in the wer ovenant of Grace with their Parents. As to the latter, as een fo e See here were deplorable Evidences that many of his Children or the ere not interested in the Covenant of Grace with him. e stood in the same Capacity with all other Believers; so and the Amnon committed Incest with his own Sister, and was after-ards slain by Absolom (no Intimation of his Repentance be-iviled in left on Record) in revenge of the Injury done her, and both erhaps to remove his elder Brother out of the way, that he eterm night claim the Crown himself, as Heir apparent, by being lid A ne eldest of David's surviving Sons. And not long after etern absolom rebels against his Father David, commits Incest tends penly with his Father's Wives, and dies in the very Act funnatural Rebellion. And they were both greatly land f unnatural Rebellion. And they were both greatly latinehal mented by their Father on the account (I doubt not) of their dying in a State of Sin, more than from his natural affection towards them as his Children. After this Adonition for the proclaims himself King in his Father's Life-time, without his Knowledge or Consent, and was afterwards suddented to by put to death by King Solomon, for being found, or at east suspected, to aim at the Kingdom, contrary to God's express Determination, and the known Will of his Father. I dis to had to this forrowful State of his House, I cannot but think both the hath relation in 2 Sam. xxiii. v. (one of the Texts cited by Mr. H.) Altho my House be not so with God, yet he hath made with me an everlasting Covenant, &c. But tho' he might then f unnatural Rebellion. And they were both greatly la-

then lament, that neither himself, nor his Sons, had better answered the Character the Spirit of God had before given by him of a just and pious Ruler; I cannot however suppose that when he had Eternity in view, and his Soul was ready to take her Flight into another World, he should chiefly comfort himself with the solemn Assurance that God had given him, of the Kingdom remaining with his Sons; or, that of the Fruit of his Body God would raise up the Mel fiah; which, tho 'twas a great Privilege, yet, as many of our Saviour's Progenitors never were faved by him, it fel very short of that of having an Interest in the Covenant

Grace in Christ Iesus.

I hope 'twill not be thought improper to make a short Digression here, in order to explain some Passages in Scrip ture, which may fet this matter in a clearer light. David then was a Type of Christ, both in his Prophetical and King ly Offices; and hence it is that our Lord, the Antitype, many times in the Old Testament called by the Name of David, as Pfal. lxxxix. 20, 27. and Ifa. lv. 3, 4. Fer. xxx.9 Ezek. xxxvii. 24, 25. it being thro' Christ alone that the Mercies and Bleffings of the Covenant are made fure to al the Seed in Covenant; for which reason, I conceive, they are called the fure Mercies of David. And this may give fome light towards the right understanding of those Texts wherein New Covenant Promises are expressed in such Terms as those were under the Old, as Ifa. lix. 21. & xliv.; For as David was a Type of Christ, and our Lord is there fore called by his Name; so the carnal Seed in the Old Co venant were Types of the spiritual Seed in the New; and hence the Lord's People, taken out of the Gentile Nations into a Covenant-relation with him, are called by the Name of Ifrael and Judah, Fer. xxxi. 27, 31, &c. For as the Church was then propagated by a Succession of the carnal Seed of that People under that subservient Covenant; so 'tis now continued by an uninterrupted Series of Believers whether of their own natural Offspring, or the Children of Unbelievers. For, he being faithful that hath promised, the Promises will be faithfully made good to the Seed intended; and it is too fadly apparent, that the Word of God doth depart out of the Mouths of many of the natural Seed of the most eminent Believers, and that the Spirit of God is not poured out upon their Seed and Offspring, as luch. So plain do these things seem to lie in the Holy Scriptures, and are o fully confirmed by daily Observation; that I am persuaded, if Men could wholly lay aside the Influence which radition and Custom have over them, they would soon see e Notions which they have thereby been prevailed upon imbrace, wholly inconsistent with the account God's ford and our own Experience gives us, as to the Matters oder Debate. And because Mr. H. cites asterwards r. Owen in savour of his Opinion, I shall here transcribe hat he says on this Subject, and leave it to them, who we clearer Heads than I, to reconcile it to his own Praice. The Place I shall now cite from him is in his iii Vol. Heb. Chap.viii. ver. 8. where speaking of the Persons with hom this Covenant is made, he says, "This House of Israel and of Judah may be considered two ways:

"1. As that People were the whole intire Posterity of

"2. As they were typical, and mystically significant of the whole Church of God. Hence alone it is that the Promises of Grace under the Old Testament are given unto the Church under those Names, because they were Types of them who should really and essectually be made Partakers of them.

And that it may appear what he fays under the first is way contradictory to ours, nor in favour of Mr. H.'s pinion, I shall transcribe at large what he writes as to that nie of the Words.

" In the first Sense (says he) God made this Covenant with them, and this on fundry accounts.

"1. Because he, in and through whom alone it was to be establish'd and made essectual, was to be brought forth among them of the Seed of Abraham, as the Apostle plainly declares, Acts ii. 25.

2. Because all things that belong'd to the Ratification of it, were to be transacted among them.

"3. Because, in the outward Dispensation of it, the Terms, and Grace of it, was first in the Counsel of God to be tendred to them.

"4. Because by them, by the Ministry of Men of their Posterity, the Dispensation of it was to be carried unto all Nations, as they were to be blessed in the Seed of Abraham; which was done by the Apostles and other Disciples of our Lord Jesus Christ. So the Law of the Redeemer went forth from Zion. By this means the Co-

wenant was confirmed with many of them, for one Week before the Calling of the Gentiles, Dan. ix. 27. And be cause these things belonged equally unto them all, men. cause these things belonged equally unto them all, men. tion is made distinctly of the House of Israel, and the House of Fudah. For the House of Judah was, at the met time of the giving of this Promise, in the sole Possession of all the Privileges of the Old Covenant; Israel having original cut off themselves by their Revolt from the House of Data wid, being cast out also for their Sins among the Heather and But God, to shew that the Covenant he design'd had making respect unto those carnal Privileges which were then it him the Possession of Judah alone, but only unto the Promise made unto Abraham, equals all his Seed with respect unions to the Mercy of this Covenant. He then adds, and that were is intended under these Denominations, being the lose symbols by them. These are they alone, being one made of the fy'd by them. These are they alone, being one made of the weather (namely, Jews and Gentiles) with whom the Communicated is really made and establish'd, and unto whom the Communicate of it is actually communicated. For all the his with whom this Covenant is made, shall as really has troved the Law of God written in their Hearts, and their said with whom this Covenant is made, shall as really has troved the Law of God written in their Hearts, and their said with whom the Covenant made with Abraham: these are the real true Israel and Judah prevailing with God, and consequent into the Land of Canaan, by vital true Israel and Judah prevailing with God, and consequent into the Covenant of Canaan, by vital and suppose the Covenant of Canaan in Christis is made on the ling of the Covenant of Canaan in Christis is made on the ling unto his Name.

that G

And P. 270. speaking of the same thing; he saith, "We have shewed before that the whole Israel of God, or the men. "Church of the Elect, is principally intended thereby. In these Words he owns, that when the carnal Seed are mentioned, as the Persons with whom the Covenant of Grace is made, the spiritual Seed, as typis'd by them, are principally intended; and that the Grace of the Covenant is effectually communicated to the spiritual Seed only; and except by the outward Dispensation of the Covenant a Right to Baptism, the supposed Seal thereof, be intended by him, there is no Privilege he assigns them, but what omis we own, as well as our Pedobaptist Brethren, to have been longed to them. But if Mr. H. understood the Distinction that the Dustor here makes, he had not the Ingenuity to that the Ductor here makes, he had not the Ingenuity to Belt own it, (tho due Care of Souls obliged to it) lest he might got to be the desired Advantage of charging our Opinion with ade Unkindness, Uncharitableness, and Cruelty; and recommented ding his own to us as kind and charitable. And this is what much he chiefly makes a Flourish with on all Occasions, to biass the his Reader's Judgment in the Examination of this Converse in Single I come now to his last Instance, viz. The Covenant made with all Israel, when they came up out of Egypt, and the Recovery in the I readily grant that all their Children were taken into the constant was to be affix'd to the Males only. But see onlying the New Covenant is declared to be not according to this, For Jer. xxxi. 32. it does not thence follow that all the Chilfest dren of Believers now have an Interest in this better Covethat the Ductor here makes, he had not the Ingenuity to fectus dren of Believers now have an Interest in this better Cove-print nant, with a Right to Baptism, the supposed Seal thereof. to hand any one, who impartially reads both Testaments, will re pre easily discern that the same Qualifications were not required Language under the Old Covenant to intitle to Circumcission and of i Church-privileges, which are expressly injoin'd as Prerequi-ng the fites to Baptism, and Communion with the Church under the New. But of this more hereafter.

His Premises being proved wholly unserviceable to the Cause which they were brought to countenance, his Infefecturence can consequently be of no force to the matter in there hand.

He proceeds in the next place to demand an Instance, that God ever made a Covenant with any Man, Family, Tribe or Church, with an Exclusion of their Children from it and its Privileges, until, after grown up, they by their own personal Act reject either the Grace, or Duties of the Covenant.

It has been already granted, that as to most of the Covenants mentioned by him, they did include not only the Perions themselves, with whom they were at first transacted, but their Posterity also, as well in remote Generations, as those immediately descended from them. However this Concession can be of no advantage to him unless he will pretend that those, whose immediate Parents are Unbelievers are in Covenant by virtue of the Faith of their Predecessor some Ages past. But to come more directly to the Queftion; I have already in a great measure prevented my iell of an Answer, by the several Instances before given; as Adam and Cain, Noah and Ham, Abraham and Ishmael whose Exclusion from an Interest in the Covenant, Gen. 17 (whatfoever the Nature of it was) is expresly declared Ver. 18, 19, 20, 21. of that Chapter, and this before he was circumcifed, or his mocking of Isaac, the Cause of his Exclusion from Abraham's Family some time after, Chap. 21 And of Isaac's two Son's, Esau and Facob, the elder was excluded, as appears from Rom. ix. 10, 11, 12, 13. Mal. i It would be too tedious to infift on the Examples of believing Gideon, and his unbelieving and barbarous Son Abilemech; and upon Eli and his profligate Sons Hophin and Phinehas; with many others that might be mention'd We have already spoken of David more at large; and many fucceeding Kings might be properly brought in, as Instan ces of Persons in Covenant, whose Children are proved by what is recorded of them, to have fallen short of that Privilege, as not having the Law of God written in their Hearts nor his Fear placed in their inward Parts, nor ever having known the Lord, or been preserved from departing from him; which had they had an Interest in the Covenant of Grace, would have been performed towards them. But it is not unlikely he thought to evade the force of all such Instances, by the concluding Words of this Paragraph; until after grown up, they reject either the Grace, or Duties of the Cove nant. But altho I am willing to be just to him, however he deals with us, and would therefore suppose him to be no Arminian; yet these Words are inconsistent with the great Truth of the final Perseverance of God's Covenant-people. And 'tis pity so great a Truth, which hath afforded so much Com-

Comfort and Support to God's People under various Difficulties and Temptations, should be facrific'd to such a Purpole. I have already taken notice of the usual Distinction between the external and internal part of the Covenant, or (as Mr. Blake) the inward and outward Covenant, and shew'd that there is no ground for such a Distinction in Scripture. And as for the Covenant of Grace, the effectual communication of the Mercies and Privileges of it, is promis'd by that God who cannot lie, to every one who is receiv'd into it. And I could never yet understand what our Brethren intend by the external part of the Covenant, more than a Right to the external Privileges of it; and there are no Privileges that I know of, which they themselves plead to belong to Infants, by virtue of their suppos'd Covenant-interest, and Church-membership, but we allow them as well as they, except Baptism only. The whole then of this Plea, so much rely'd on for Infant Baptism, is no more than this; They have a Right to Baptism, because they have a Right to Baptism, which is plainly idem per idem, It is so, because it is so, and a downright begging the Point in question.

He adds; If any are dispos'd to quarrel with this Doctrine, they are already answer'd by the Apostle; to whose Answer therefore I refer them, in Rom. iii. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 6. & xi.

I hope we are as far from being dispos'd to quarrel with the Doctrine deliver'd in the Holy Scriptures, as he can be. And if I should insinuate that he is dispos'd to quarrel with the Doctrine taught in those Scriptures, which affert positively the Perseverance of Believers; or the equal Right of God's Covenant People to all the Promises made to them under that Relation; he would undoubtedly account me guilty of Uncharitableness, if he gave it no harder Name. and that not without Cause. Tho' at the same time I might at least have as much, not to say more, colour for it, as he can pretend for this Suggestion concerning us. But he feems to think the feverest Censures good enough, if not too good for us; altho' there is nothing afferted in either of the Places he refers to, but what is as much own'd by us as by him. And I know of no Obligation we are under to take up with his Interpretation of Scriptures, tho' never to groundless.

He now proceeds to affert the Church-membership of Infants, in the following words; And as the Children are comprehended in the Parents Covenant, so also the Children of God's People, and visible Church, were, together with their Parents, Church-members; and that from the Womb, they were born within the visible Church of God.

That Children were Church-members under the Law, is own'd; that they were then also admitted to other Church Privileges than he will allow them, shall be afterward shewn; and if so, what he here afferts, if granted, would make against himself, as well as those he is so displease That there was any particular Church-state of Divine Appointment, before the Law was given at Mount Sinai, the Scripture no where affirms, that I know of. That immediately after the Fall Sacrifices were instituted, to lead their Faith to the promis'd Seed, who, by the Sacrifice of himself, was to make real Atonement for Sin, A bel's Offering in Faith, and God's Acceptance of it, ful ficiently evince. That the holy Patriarchs indeavour'd to maintain the Worship of God in their Families, I don't a all question; as also to instruct their Children in the most necessary Truths, fo foon as they were capable of it; in which they ought to be imitated. If this be all he in tends, when he fays they were Members of the visible Church before the Law, p. 9. as I know of no Reason he hath to give them that Name, fo it is not worth while to contend about it. But feeing he mentions it, to fhew that thus it was before the Church was National, and may therefore continue so when the Church is not National; I can't but declare it has been my Perswasion many Years (and for any thing I find in what Mr. H. has faid, is likely fo to continue) that the Notion of Infants Church-membership is the very Basis, and Foundation of a National Church and the very Sasis, and Foundation of a National Church and the very Sinews of all Arguments, levell'd against a sis Present National Church state, are cut in sunder by it. But be this as it will; if Infants are Church-members, it must either the of the invisible, or visible Church. In the former Sense I own some of them are so, as being chosen of God in the Christ. But this cannot be intended by him, because he calls it a wonted Evasion to decline the Evidence of Truth. All the the contains more ground of Support and Comfort to piritually Purents concerning their dying Infants, than the Notion he applauds so much, for being most charitable as well as just. In

In Mr. H's Sense therefore, Children must be suppos'd Members of the visible Church, which must be understood either of the Church Catholic, or particular Conpregations. But as to the former of thefe, some Pedobapiffs can fee no mention of any fuch Church in the Holy scriptures, as Mr. Chauncy in his Epistle to Dr. Owen's Book, ntitul'd, The true Nature of a Gospel-Church, and its Government, p. 5. " The Scripture, says he, speaks of no Church as Catholic visible. The thing it self is but a Chimera of some Mens Brains, it's not in rerum Natura, [in Nature.] For, if a Catholic visible Church be all the Churches that I see at a time, I am not capable of feeing much more than what can affemble in one Place; and if it be meant of the Churches actually in being, how are they visible to me? Where can they be seen in one Place? I may as well call all the Cities and Corporations in the World, the Catholic visible City, or Corporation, which all Rational Men would call Nonsense. Besides, if all Organiz'd Churches could be got together, it's hot Catholic in respect of Saints Militant, much less of Triumphant; for many are no Churchmembers, that are Christ's Members; and many visible Members are no true Members of Christ Jesus. Where is any such Church capable of Communion in all Ordinances in one Place? And the Scripture speaks of no other Organiz'd visible Church. Again, to a Catholic visible Church constituted, should be a Catholic vifible Paftor or Paftors, for as the Church is, such the Paftor and Officers, &c." Thus far Mr. Chauncy. But if Mr. H. intend a particular Church of Christ's Institution, I an see nothing in what he offers for our Conviction, that s likely to answer the End design'd by him.

Twill not be needful for me to examine particularly is Proofs of Infants Church-membership here alleg'd, having lready granted that they were so under the Law, when ither the Church was National, which is all his Instances amount to. But the Constitution of the Church is now liter'd from National to Congregational, the slessly Seed who were typically Holy, and Members then, were Types All of the spiritual Seed, those living Stones, of which the piritual House, the Gospel Church, ought to be built, I Pet. in he is 5. less he hop'd some would be satisfy'd with this, as not considering any difference in the Constitution of the Legal and Evangelical Church-states. And as to those Texts relating to the times of the Gospel, which he hath thrust in among those that concern the Jewish Oeconomy, I shall have occasion to speak to them afterwards, where they are particularly infifted on by him.

But it may not be amiss to remark how positively he afferts, that the Priesthood was the Birth-right of all the First. born Males before, and until the Levitical Law. The Point in hand does not require me either directly to affirm, or den this; and it would have look'd more modefuly for him not to have affirm'd with so much Confidence, what the greatest Divines have in another manner deliver'd the Thoughts about on both sides. He may, if he pleases, con fult Dr. Owen's Exercit. on the Priesthood of Christ, prefix's to his 11 Vol. on Heb. p. 156, 157, 158. 'Tis no wonde therefore, that he, who undertakes with fo much Affurance to determine as an easy and plain Case, what has been own'd by Men of the highest Acquirements to be at tended with great Difficulties, should without ground de liver his Sentiments in this Controversy.

He goes on to tell us, p. 9. That when Persons that went or should be Fathers, were cast out, or receiv'd into the Co venant and Church, 'twas not as fingle Persons, but as Heads and Fathers of a Seed and Housbold, and cites Mal. i. 1, 2, ; And of the former fort, he mentions the Instance of Cain, Canaan, Ishmael, Esau, the ten Tribes, and the Branches broken off, Rom. xi.

We have particular Reason to take notice of the la stance of Esau, as being twice directed to it, in the space of three Lines, for it is that only which is mention'd Mal. i. 2, 3, &c. He must therefore look upon it greath to his Purpose; but with what little Reason, may quickly appear. For Efau's Exclusion from the Privileges confert on Jacob, in pursuance of the Covenant made with Abra End ham, was before he had by his own personal Act rejected the Grace, or Duties of it, as may appear to any one that will duly compare, and confider these Scriptures, Gen. xxv. 23 up of Mal. i. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5. Rom. ix. 10, 11, 12, 13. And there to it fore Efau's Exclusion, as well as his Posterity's, from the diate Covenant and Church-state, into which Jacob and his were receiv'd, was from a free, fovereign Act of God's Will; and nd the like we observ'd before of Ishmael. When he requently affirms therefore, that all the Infant-seed of Be-Levers are in Covenant, and Church-members, till by their own ersonal Ast they sin themselves out, and then their Poste-ity are cast out with them; this appears to be as inconsistent with Truth, as many other things, whereon he lays great tress in this Discourse. For, as the Persons before menion'd were cast out of that Covenant, before their actual efection from God; so the Children of the unbelieving lews, whose Parents were of profligate Lives, had as much light to Circumcision, the suppos'd Seal of the Coveant, as such Children whose immediate Parents were Belevers. Had not the Offspring of all those that dy'd for heir Unbelief and Rebellion in the Wilderness, as much Right to Circumcifion, and other Church-privileges, hose of Joshua and Caleb? Doth not God lay claim to those Children as his, by virtue of the Covenant made with bee Abraham for his natural Offspring, whose Parents were uilty of gross Idolatry, the highest breach of the Coved de lant, as is plain from Ezek. xvi. 20, 21. to which place the directs us, Pag. 8. The Words are; Moreover thou hast were aken thy Sons and thy Daughters, whom thou hast born unto e G ne, and these hast thou sacrific'd unto them, to be devour'd. Is this of thy Whoredoms a small matter, that thou hast sain ny Children, and deliver'd them, to cause them to pass thro' ance he Fire for them? Did the Parents Faith, and abiding in the Covenant with God, give these Children a Covenant interest and claim of Right to it? Had not Ichabod, the Son of rest and claim of Right to it? Had not Ichabod, the Son of Phinehas, a Monster in Impieties, the same Right and Intespace rest with the Children of the greatest Saints? The Wickedion'd ness of Ahaz did not take away Hezekiah's Right; and the like might be said of many more. 'Tis plain therefore, that God's free and unchangeable Purpose, to take that Peoister'd ple into a peculiar Covenant with himself, till the great End of their Separation from other Nations, the Production of the Messah among them, according to the Covenant made with Abraham and David, that he should be rais'd up of their Seed, was that which gave the Children a Right to it, and not the Faith, or Church-membership of immediate Parents.

The Case of Proselytes will be afterwards more fully condider'd. But we may here take notice of those Words, where he tells us, that a Proselyte might not observe the Passover himself, (to which our Lord's Supper answers, 1 Cor. v. 7,8. as their Circumcission is answer'd in our Baptism, Col. ii. 11, 12. Gal. iii. 27, 28.) till all his Males were circumcis'd.

Whether his Meaning be, as his Words feem to import, that all Antipedobaptists should be debar'd the Lord's Supper, I will not determine, till he hath more fully explain'd himself; but 'tis worth our Notice, that both here, and afterwards, he declares the Lord's Supper to succeed the Passo ver, as Baptism Circumcision; which greatly weakens the Foundation of his whole Discourse. For, he cannot deny but the Paffover was as great a Privilege as Circumcifion, and the Lord's Supper as Baptism; and if he had such Proof that Infants have a Right to Baptism now, as may be produc'd of their having been then admitted to the Paffover, a great deal more might be faid as to the warrantable ness of that Practice. For all Families were to eat the Paffover, with this only Qualification declar'd as neceffary that the Males were all circumcis'd; fo foon as that was perform'd, they might therefore be admitted. And may we not justly expostulate with him in his own Words? Wil you be so unkind and uncharitable a Parent to deny the Lord's Supper to your Infants, when they were not of old deny'd the Passover? For, if they had been excluded, they would, m doubt, have been express'd so to be, p. 197. Whatever Alteration the Lord bath made in his Institutions and Ordinances fince Christ's coming, and Suffering, from what they were before, it is certain, (1) That such Alterations are always for the inlarging the Privileges of the People of God in such Ordinances; but never for the taking away, or lessening any Privilege in any Ordinance that the People of God, as such, did injoy before Christ's coming. (2) Such Alterations are plainly reveal'd in the New Testament. But to keep the Infants of Believen from the Lord's Supper, a new Sign and Token [the Pedobaptists call this a Seal, as well as Baptism,] of the everlast ing Covenant, is to Straiten, and cut short the Privilege of the People of God, and we find no such Alteration reveal'd in the New Testament, p. 90. The heat of his Zeal put him upon urging these things with Vehemency against us, without confidering that they were directed as much against his own Practice as ours. Whatever Arguments therefore he can bring against those who should thus reason with him for the Admission of Infants to the Lord's Supper, may with equal Force be turn'd upon himself. And there are as early Testimonies in Antiquity of Infants being admitted to the Lord's Supper as to Baptism, they being, as Maldo-

nate fays, administred together for 600 Years

But 'tis probable he may think to put by all this with the poor Evafion he uses, p. 113. where he makes the Objection against himself: We can't see, say some, how Infants can be capable of Baptism, and yet not capable of the Lord's Supper. To which he contents himself with this Answer: I am forry for it, and wish you better Eye-sight, and (in order thereto) to lay by Prejudice; and then endeavour (for 'tis attainable) to conceive, how an Infant of a Month old is capable of being carried a Mile or two in the Arms of another, and yet not capable of walking so far on foot alone. In Baptism the Person baptized is passive, (or at least ought so to be) the Work lies on the Baptizer alone; but in the Lord's Supper divers Actions are required of the Receivers, as, to take, to eat, to drink, to do it in remembrance of Christ, to shew forth the Lord's Death. When he says, in Baptism the Person baptized is always passive, or ought to be so, he will scarce ever perswade any thinking Person that John carried our Saviour into Jordan, or the rest of those he baptized. Besides, 'tis expresly said, that the Eunuch went down into the Water, and came up again out of it with Philip, Acts viii. 38, 39. And that the Qualifications necessary to Baptism are as great, as those required to render a Person meet for the Lord's Supper, appears both from the Commission, Mat. xxviii. 19. Mark xvi. 15, 16. and the Administration of it by the primitive Ministers: so Philip, Acts viii. 37. If thou believest with all thine Heart thou mayest, Egest, it is lawful. If he say, these Qualifications were necessary to render those meet Subjects of Baptism, who were converted when Adult (which is the usual Plea) may not another as well say, the Duties mentioned, as required of them that are admitted to the Lord's Supper, concern the Adult only? But that no other Qualifications were required to intitle to the Passover, than to Circumcifion, except only their being first circumcifed, cannot, I think, be well deny'd. And whereas he here fays, the Lord's Supper answers to the Passover, as Baptism to Circumcifion, what colour of Reason can be urged, why the Subjects of the one should not be admitted to the other? especially since all the 3000 admitted to Baptism and Membership in the Gospel Church, were also admitted to the E 4 Lord's Lord's Supper, Acts ii. 41, 42. If Baptism was then administred to the same Subjects as Circumcision was before, many of their Children would have been baptized the same Day with their Parents; for so were all Abraham's Males, young as well as old, circumcifed the same Day with him-felf, Gen. xvii. 26, 27. And tho' some of these came from remote Parts, yet no doubt many of them were Inhabitants of Jerusalem, and near their Habitations, and so had Opportunity to bring their Children to be baptized, as well as offer themselves to partake of it. But that no more were then baptiz'd, than were admitted to the Lord's Supper, is expresly declared, ver. 42. where, of those mentioned ver. 41. to be baptized, it is afferted, that they continued stedfastly in the Apostle's Doctrine and Fellowship, and in breaking of Bread, and in Prayers. Moreover if Baptism and the Lord's Supper be both Seals of the Covenant, and Children by being interested in the Covenant have a Right to one of these Seals, why not as well to the other? Have they but half an Interest therein, that they must receive but half a Ratification of it? Doth the Word of God any more direct to give them one Seal than the other? And are they not as capable of discerning the Lord's Body, and examining themselves, as of making a Profession of their Faith, and bringing forth Fruits meet for Repentance? If in the one it be faid, these things are required only of the Adult, why not in the other also? As to the Actions of taking and eating, a Child while very young is capable to receive and eat fo small a Quantity as is usually given on that Occasion; and may be well supposed as able to exert Acts of Faith and Love in that Ordinance, as in Baptism: And, that Grace should be in exercise in one Ordinance, as well as in the other, by those that are adult, our Brethren will not deny. It may possibly by this time be discovered by an impartial Reader, for what reason Mr. H. indeavoured to put by the Force of this Objection, with very little more than an unbeseeming Scorn. Some Men, it feems, think it the best Policy to flight that which they cannot answer, and use only Shift and Evasion instead of solid arguing, when their Cause will not furnish them with better Materials. But by reading what he fays, p. 98. That in Gen. xvii. and Exod. xii. the Lord granted as a Privilege, and commanded as a Duty the Application of the Token of the Covenant to the Infant-seed of Believers, and never revok'd that Grant and Command, tho' be hath changed the outward Sign from Circumcision to Baptism: nd p. 104. The Lord's Supper is come in the room and place the Passover; and it's both lawful and prositable to reason in the old Sacraments to the new: By reading these Passas, I say, one would think, that he was for the Admission Children to one Sacrament as well as the other, unless he stock Exod. xii. for Lev. xii. But if that be so, what writ, p. 104. must not have been duly considered, since will be still obliged to allow their Admission to both the posed Seals, which he afterwards opposes in p. 113. unlike will deny that Insants were admitted to the Passover, ich would look with no savourable Aspect on the Cause pleads.

But to return from this Digression, he adds, p. 10. To sy that Infants are in the Covenant of Grace by their Pats Faith, and then say (as many do) they are uncapable of ith, and so of entring into Covenant in their own Persons, is exclude 'em from the Covenant of Grace, and from the Means entring into it; and so consequently from Salvation, unless ty they can find out some new and unscriptural way of entring to Covenant, or of being saved out of Covenant.

That Parents Faith brings their Children into the Covent of Grace, and that they are capable in an ordinary y of the exercise of Faith (which is an Act of the Undernding, as well as of other Faculties of the Soul) may be hy'd, without intailing on our Perswasion any such dark nsequences as he here suggests. That none can be faved, t those whom God is pleased mercifully to receive into Covenant of Grace, is granted; but that the Infants of lievers, as such, are so received, is deny'd, and the conry, as to divers of them, too fadly demonstrable. enewing Work is wrought upon all who are faved, and t'tis necessary for Children, as well as grown Persons, to ke them meet for the Inheritance of the Saints in Light, plain from the Words of our Saviour, John iii. 6. where, discover the Necessity of Regeneration to all, he says, at which is born of the Flesh is Flesh; more particularly ecting our Thoughts to our original Defilement, than woful Fruits it brings forth in the Life. And that in generation Principles, Seeds, or Habits of every Grace are pled into the Soul, I likewise own; but that it is not so th the Children of Believers in general, who arrive at th Years as to be capable to discover Habits by the Asts that How

How from them, 'tis plain. Moreover we may here of ferve that Mr. H's Notion, as it promises Life to all Beli vers Children, that fin not themselves out of the Covenant; it leaves under the dreadful Sentence of Condemnation the Offspring of Unbelievers, who die in Infancy, before the Commission of any actual Sin; which seems too har and severe. And that many of the Offspring of Unbell vers belong to the Election of Grace, the effectual Calli of divers of them, when grown up to Years of Understan ing, fully evinces. And to make it more evident how unn fonable and groundless his great Outcry against us for t charitableness is, I shall here once for all deliver somewhat my Opinion concerning such who die before they come Years of Understanding; whereby it may appear which us exercises the greater Charity for them. But that it m not be supposed what I am going to say are new and sud Thoughts, I shall deliver only what I had occasionally w ten on this Argument several Years ago, viz.

If it be faid, That fince we own that all Persons are be in Original Sin, and yet deny Baptism to our Childs we can have no ground to believe that those dying in Infan can be faved; I answer, Secret things belong to God, but the things that are revealed belong to us, and to our Children, Posterity, Deut. xxix. 29. And I know of no Profit that like to infue upon an over curious Enquiry after the M thod of God's dealing with fuch; but we are to leave the to the Sovereign Disposal of him, who we are affured of not but do right, and who is full of Compassion and tend Mercies; it being out of our power to fit them for Glo or render them accepted with God by any Act of ours wards them, uncommanded by him. The Method God's dealing with those whom he saves, as revealed in Holy Scripture, concerns such who are capable to und stand that Revelation. And so far as any Duty is incu bent on them towards their Children, it is therein also ful expressed for their Information. But God may have Way fecret to us, to fave those who die before they come Years of Understanding. We know that God foreknown and foreappointed who should die in Infancy; and I a comfortably perswaded, and I think not without grow from Scripture, that he did also foreappoint to receive S tisfaction for their Sins in the Death of Christ, and by newing of their Natures to prepare them for Glory.

ave often thought of the Carriage and Words of holy Daid concerning his Child, who died at 7 Days old (and erefore before he had any Warrant to circumcife it) hich we have recorded, 2 Sam. xii. 18, 19, 20, 21, 22, 23. here we are informed, that altho' with Fasting and Tears befought the Lord to spare it, while it was yet alive; et his Sorrow for it, fo far as appears, ended with its Life. e that fo long, and so sorely mourned for Amnon and Absom after their Death, who had lived to commit actual Rellion against the Lord; yet did not so for this Child, who ed in Infancy. And this makes me conclude, that when faid, ver. 23. I shall go to him, he doth not only intend to e Grave, but also to the Fruition of Joy with it in Paradise, ere to share the same Glory with it for ever. To which I should add, Mat.xix. 14. But Jesus Said, Suffer little Chilren, and forbid them not to come unto me, for of such is the ingdom of Heaven; our Brethren, who look upon them have been young Children, and not only like fuch in umility, Meekness and other Virtues, would not here ppose me. He says not, the little Children of Believers, either is there any Account left us whether the Parents of ofe Children were Believers or not: But he afferts, that such is the Kingdom of Heaven, i.e. the Kingdom of lory above. And therefore tho' Adam being a public lead and Representative of all his Posterity, in the Coveint transacted with him, I make no question but God light, if he had so pleased, upon his Fall, have very justly ft him and all his Posterity under the dreadful Sentence of ondemnation, without providing a Remedy for them; yet nce he has vouchfafed to give a Seed to Christ to Redeem nd Save, there is nothing in his revealed Will to obstruct ur charitable Thoughts, that all who die in Infancy, before he Commission of actual Sin, are of that happy number.

His next Attempt is to prove, from the proper Names which e Godly gave to many of their Children, that their Children ere of the number of God's People, within his Covenant, hurch and Kingdom. To deny this (he faith) is in effect to 17, the holy Fathers did mock and deceive their Children in dIa mposing on them Names that signified the choicest spiritual Blesngs. And of such fignificative Names he gives us divers nstances. But this shews how positively some Men will dventure to affert any thing upon a mere uncertain Conedure at best; and be very liberal in their Reflections upon those who cannot allow their Dictates for good Proof Good Expositors have affign'd other Reasons why the Peo ple of God called their Children by fuch Names; but Mr. H. would perswade us he so certainly knows the Reason, that they who remain of a different Opinion are very injurion to these pious and good Men. Tho' how he came to be thus well affured in so doubtful a Case, I can't pretend know, and must take the liberty to question it, till I fin better evidence for it. As to several of these Names, the Spirit of God hath acquainted us with the Reason and O casion of them; some whereof were commemorative of se nal Mercies received, others prophetical, and divers them occasioned by remarkable Occurrences a little before or at the time of their Birth. And for these he mention they feem defigned either to testify the Parents Interest Faith in the everlasting and sure Covenant of Grace; or express their Desires, Wishes and Prayers for their Chi dren, and thereby to instruct them what was most need for them to feek after. Nor can I eafily imagine, that the intended thereby to perswade their Children to believe the own personal Interest in the Covenant of Grace from the Birth, or before they partook of Faith and Regeneration which might have been a Means to lead them into a fat Mistake in Matters of the highest moment. Is there the least Intimation, where the Reason of the Names of any assigned, that they were given them for such an End. W know indeed that some Names were given by immedia Direction from God, who knew who were his; and then fore 'tis no ways abfurd to suppose that these (at least som of them) might have such a Designation, especially in the Ages when extraordinary Prophets were frequently rails up of God among his People. But this is very different from the Case of Persons giving Names to their Childre without any such Divine Command, which is what we are here speaking of. For as these were arbitrary, so we find that the Conduct of the Children did not always correspond with the Signification of their Names. Thus Eve was mo ved to name her first-born Child from a groundless Imagina tion that the had then brought forth the Messiah, the promi fed Seed, who was to break the Serpent's Head; hence for called his Name Cain, that is, Possession, and assigns this Reason, I have gotten a Man the Lord, (as the Words pro perly fignify) q. d. Mr. H's II. Chapter containing only a Table of Scriptures, gested under such Heads as might seem to make the fairest ew of proving, that Believers Children, as such, always are, and still continue in the Lord's Covenant and Churchembers; to enter into a particular Examination of them are would be too tedious, and run out my Discourse beand its designed Length. I shall therefore pass them by, and proceed to the consideration of his III. Chapter; which is make the rather inclined to do, because such of them hich have any relation to the Controversy, either have, or ill more conveniently sall in my way essewhere.

CHAP. III.

An Answer to Mr. H's Third Chapter.

R. H's III. Chapter begins with this Objection, which he frames against himself: We are now since Christ's coming under the New Covenant, the Old evenant is vanished away, &c. Heb. viii. 13. To which he aswers, This hurts not our Infants in the least, because they re together with their Parents in the New Covenant, as adinistred since Christ's coming, as much every way as Insants ere in Covenant with their Parents before. And for the roof of this Assertion, he cites Isa.xlix.22,25. lxv.23. lxvi. 2. and lxi. 8, 9. Jer. xxx. 9, 20. with Gal. iv. 28. Jer. xxxi. 34. xxxii. 38, 39, 40. Ezek. xxxvii. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28. and Acts ii. 39.

If he thinks that Believers Infants are as much interested the Covenant of Grace now as they were in the Sinai Covenant, the first Lines of which were drawn in the Covenant transacted with Abraham, Gen. xvii. 7, 8, 9, &c. can't agree with him. For then all the Children of belieting, or unbelieving Jews, had as much Interest in the Blesings which any received by virtue of that Covenant, as their Parents. And he cannot himself suppose that Believers Infants are as much interested in the Covenant of Grace as their Parents, unless he will say, the final Perseverance the Parents is not secured by the Promises of the Covenant or, that the Perseverance of the Children is secured as well as theirs; and it may not be amis for him to take some time to confider of it, before he affert either. But if he means, they are as much every way since Christ's coming is the Covenant of Grace, as the Children of the Jews were in the same Covenant of Grace under the Law, this will do him no service; it having been already demonstrated by de vers Instances, to which many more might be added, that the Children of Believers, as fuch, before Christ's coming were not interested in the Covenant of Grace, and it side ly appears that they are not so now.

None of the Texts he produces mention one Word of the Infants of Believers, as such; and those who will be at the pains to confider the coherence of them with the Place whence they are taken, will perceive they are far from answering his Design. I shall proceed to give a brief At count of them in the order he has cited them.

Ifa. xlix. 22, 25. speaks of the Sons, Daughters, and Chi dren, which should be brought into the Church of Chris by the Gentiles, i. e. which should be begotten again to lively Hope, as the Apostle's Phrase is, 1 Pet. i. 3. by the Bleffing of Christ on the Ministry which he would raise up among the Gentiles, as typify'd by the Deliverance grante to the Jewish Church from the Babylonish Captivity, where is; in by the over-ruling Providence of God the Geniles were much very helpful to them.

If a. lxv. 23. gives a Reason of the temporal Blessings e Pla which the Lord would grant to the godly Jews and their al. iv. Posterity, as inhabiting the Houses built by them, and eating lps to of the Fruit of the Vineyards which they should plant, ver 21 ng G. Duration and Perpetuity being likewise promised to them in this their happy Estate, ver. 22. And none, that I know spress of, ever yet question'd God's bestowing temporal Blessings hich on the Faithful among the Jews, and their Offspring, who walked in their Steps, for their sakes. And that this Promise is made only to such, appears by Ezek. xviii. from the 1. to as bord the 21. and is likewise applicable to Gentile Believers and their Posterity; but what this makes to his purpose, seems perna very difficult to apprehend. Isa. lxv. 23. gives a Reason of the temporal Blessings very difficult to apprehend.

Ifa. lxvi. 22. Mr. Pool's Annotations very well expound 5, 26. in these Words: "This whole Verse is only a Promise ants,

That f At ransitions are sometimes made, in the compass of a few nes, from pure Evangelical Promises, to those that pecunes, from pure Evangelical Promises, to those that pecurly relate to that old subservient Covenant, and typical christ hurch, and at other times the contrary, is manifest. And to let this ver. 20. speaks of the happy Estate of the Posterity the steep in the Land of Canaan, after their Return from se whylon, the Annotations just before mentioned shew, exanter aining those Words, Their Children shall be as aforetime, here us; "Their Posterity also shall be as happy, and in as were much repute, as they were before this carrying into Rabulan." This therefore being the plain Meaning of Babylon." This therefore being the plain Meaning of lings e Place, can afford no Advantage to Mr. H's Cause. And their al. iv. 28. is so far from being of any Service to it, that it lps to weaken it. For the Apostle there tells the believer 21. ng Galatians; Now we, Brethren, as Isaac was, are the hildren of Promise. To clear up the Meaning of which know kpression, 'twill be proper to explain some sew Verses shich precede it. In ver. 22, 23. he had said, For it is who ritten, that Abraham had two Sons, the one by a Bond-maid, somise other by a Free-woman. But he who was of the Bond-maid 1. to as born after the Flesh (i. e. according to the Power of Nate and 1. to but he of the Free-woman was by Promise; i. e. by a seems pernatural Operation of God in accomplishment of the Babylon." This therefore being the plain Meaning of pernatural Operation of God in accomplishment of the romise made to Abraham. And after declaring, ver. 24, ound 5, 26. that Agar and Sarah were Types of the two Covemise ants, Agar of that transacted with the fleshly Seed at Mount

Mount Sinai, Sarah of that made with the spiritu Seed only, he tells them in this 28 Verse; We Brethre (i. e. Believers, both Jews and Gentiles) as Isaac was are the Children of Promise; that is, born again by the pernatural Power of the Spirit of God, in fulfilling the Promises made to Christ the Mediator, concerning the Seed given of the Father to him, and Heirs of all the Good fpiritual and eternal, promifed to the spiritual Seed of braham. And I cannot but think it very strange, the this Text, which so plainly contradicts his Opinion, show be summon'd by him to speak in its Favour. For, if mael, the natural Son of believing Abraham, as well as faac, was not interested in the Covenant made with his as Isaac was, all the natural Seed of believing Gentiles, who Parents derive their own Claim to New Covenant Bleffin from their Relation to Abraham, as his Seed, cannot re onally be thought to be privileg'd above the immedia Offspring of the Father of the Faithful himself.

Jer. xxxi. 1, 34. is the next place alleg'd. But the R fon of his connecting the 34 Ver. with the 1. is not easy be understood; unless he design'd thereby to perswade that one and the same Covenant is treated of in bo Tho' to attempt the doing this, by only directing us ton Verses contain'd in the same Chapter, as if we must ned farily believe, that because the New Covenant is intend Ver. 34. it must therefore be so in the other, will hard proselyte any thinking Person to his Opinion. And the is very little reason to suppose that, At the same time, Ver and After those Days, Ver. 33. relate to the same time, the same Covenant; the former plainly referring to time of the Jews return from the Babylonish Captivity, wh God own'd all the Families of Ifrael to be his, by his favo rable Providence towards them; and the other to the El blishment of the New Covenant, or Testament, after Incarnation of Christ, by the Death of the Testator.

As to Fer. xxxii. 38, 39, 40. it has been spoke to best in the Introduction, to which I refer the Reader. And if their Children it should be suppos'd their natural Seed we intended, as he would have it, 'tis own'd, that the Paren fearing God tends to the good of their Children, altho' the s fuc are not by that means brought within the fafe and happ Ezek. xxxvii. 24, 25, 26, 27, 28. either contains a Pronise made to the natural Seed of Abraham, of their reoffesting the Land of Canaan, they and their Posterity after em; or the spiritual Seed, as the Antitype of the carnal, re intended, and the spiritual and eternal Blessings prois'd them are held forth under the Type of Canaan, and ternal Peace and Happiness therein. Which way soever e take it, this place affords no Countenance to his Opini-; the natural Seed of Believers, as such, being neither e natural nor spiritual Seed of Abraham.

Acts ii, 39. will be afterwards consider'd in Chap. vii. I have taken the Pains briefly to examine the Texts re cited by him, which he fingles out, as those which em to speak the fullest to his Purpose; and are therefore, oft of them, frequently cited in his Tables of Scriptures. at these having been shewn to be foreign to the Design r which they were produc'd, the Reader may eafily dge of the Pertinence of the rest, which he thought not well worth his while to transcribe in Words at length.

In the next place he acquaints us, that when we read of the ld and New Covenant, we are not to think, that by the first meant the Books written before Christ's coming; and by the

The Books written before Christ's coming are by the Spit of God stil'd the Old Testament, 2 Cor. iii. 14. And at the Books written since are called by the Name of the Tem Testament, the Title prefix'd to them, as well in ne Original, as Translations, both in English and other Lanuages, sufficiently testifies; and that the terms Covenant nd Testament are both us'd to express the same thing, is o less evident, Heb. viii. & ix. In the same Sense therefore hat the Books written before, and fince the coming of hrist, are call'd the Old and New Testament, they may kewise, without Absurdity, be conceived of as the Old and Vew Covenant; as the former more fully reveal the Old Coenant, and the latter the New; and as the positive Duties njoin'd under the Old Covenant, are deliver'd in those Books; and the Ordinances depending on positive Instiution under the New Covenant, in these. That Baptism s such an Ordinance as solely depends on Institution, is happ granted by all; the Washings injoin'd in the Old Testament being now abolish'd among the rest of the Legal Cer monies, and the Gospel-ordinance of Baptism only appointed in the

New. From hence therefore we are to take our Directions touching the Subjects of it, and the manner of its Administration; and have no more Warrant to govern our selves by the Old Testament, in relation to Ordinances than Officers. I presume Mr. H. will not grant, that the Appointment of a Pontifex Maximus, or High Prieft. under the Old Testament, is sufficient to authorize the letting up of a Pontifex Maximus, or Pope, under the New. But yet I readily own, that God made gracious Discoveries New Covenant Mercies in the Old Testament, altho' in more obscure manner than in the New; on which account that Ministration is said to have no Glory, in comparison of the excelling Glory of this, 2 Cor. iii. 9, 10. That the Book of the Old Testament are not abolished by Christ, I readily as knowledge; altho' I deny that God has by the Institution therein contain'd, given us Warrant and Direction to wha Subjects Golpel-ordinances are to be administer'd. The things which are shaken and removed, Heb. xii. 27. were the Old Covenant made with the carnal Seed, and the Church state founded thereon; typical Persons and things were to give Place to their Antitypes; there was a total removal and abolition of them from their former Station. On the contrary, the things that could not be shaken, were the New Covenant, fill'd up with all Ordinances of Worship suited to it, with the Church-state founded thereon, which was never to be changed, or alter'd. And this may also help to explain 2 Cor. iii. 11.

I as freely acknowledge, as he can defire, that Gods Covenant with Abraham, and his Spiritual Seed, was not shaken, or remov'd; but cannot own, that all the Children of Believers are of that Number. And except he could prove this (which is so directly contrary to the Holy Scriptures) all his Plea, that the Covenant with Abraham and his Seed remaineth, comes to nothing. We need not therefore long infift upon the ten Arguments by which he indeavours to prove, that the Covenant with Abraham and his Seed, is the Covenant of Grace, and not to be remov'd. However, I shall briefly consider them. But since he cites here Gen. xii. 3. & xvii. 7, &c. as if but one and the same Covenant was intended in both places; I defire the Reader will take notice of what has been faid already, especially in the Introduction, p. 23, &c. concerning the two Covenants made with Abraham for a twofold Seed; which Dislinction will

As to the first Argument of its being called an Everlasting Covenant; that the Covenant with the carnal Seed is so call'd in one respect, and that with the spiritual in another, is already demonstrated, and needs not be here again repeated. That the Infants of Believers, as such, are neither the one, nor the other of these Seeds, has also been prov'd.

The second is own'd, viz. That God made with Abraham Covenant founded on pure Grace; and the third thus far; That this Covenant establish'd with him, is consirm'd by be Oath of God, and Death of Christ. But what ground he ad to assert, that this Covenant run from Parents to Chilbren, if he mean from ordinary believing Parents to their Children, I leave him to shew at his leisure; nothing ike a Proof being yet produc'd by him.

The fourth might as well have been contain'd in the receeding; for it feems needless after he had told us was confirm'd by the Death of Christ, to bring this for new Argument, that it was confirm'd by his Blovd.

His fifth is, That the Covenant, Gen. xvii. 7, &c. is the Covenant of Grace, because those Words, And to thy Seed, re apply'd to Christ mystical, Gal. iii. 14, 16. This place in Galatians will afterwards be consider'd in the next Chater, tho' if 'twas granted, it would not answer his End; for he can't but know, that all the Infants of Believers belong not to the mystical Body of Christ; because if they did, he,

their Head, would suffer none of them to perish.

To his fixth, where he undertakes to prove the Covenant God made with Abraham, to be the Covenant of Grace, or New Covenant; because Circumcision, the Token and Seal of it, was both a Sign of the Circumcision of the Heart, and a Seal of the Righteousness of Faith; I answer, (1.) That Circumcision belong'd to the Sinai Covenant, as a Sign and Token of it; which, upon his own Principles, he cannot deny; and that the Sinai Covenant was not the same in Substance with the Covenant of Grace, or New Covenant, hath been already shewn in the Introduction, p. 9. &c. Tho' if Circumcision in the Flesh, being a Sign of the Circumcision of the Heart, proves the Covenant with Abraham to be the Covenant of Grace, it must also prove the Sinai Covenant so to be; but as it don't prove the latter, so neither can it the former. But (2.) this, inflead of answering his Intention, shews (if I mistake not) that the Covenant made with Abraham, Gen. xvii, 7, 8, 6c. whereof Circumcifion was a Sign, was not the Covenant of Grace, the same in Kind that believing Gentiles are now under. For, it is not probable that one and the same Sign should be affix'd to two distinct Covenants of different Natures; and its being, by the Command of God, affix'd to the carnal Seed, who we know were not, as fuch, interested in the Covenant of Grace; and that Covenant promissing eternal Life only upon perfect Personal Obedience; we may reasonably conclude 'twas not the same with the Covenant of Grace; before made with him, Gen. xii. 3. and afterwards confirm'd to him, Chap. xxii. As to Rom. iv. 11. it has been already consider'd, p. 19, &c. and manifested to speak nothing to his Purpose. And whereas he argues, that Circumcifion was a Sign and Seal of two of the great Blessings of the Covenant of Grace, he cannot be ignorant that there were several Duties injoin'd, besides Circumciss on, in the Sinai Covenant, that were Signs of great Bleffings of the New Covenant, which will not evince that Covenant to be the Covenant of Grace, but only subservient to it.

As for his feventh Argument, 'tis acknowledg'd that the Covenant of Grace with Abraham is preached in the New Testament to both Jews and Gentiles; but that the Covenant made with him for his natural Seed is this Covenant nant of Grace, wants Proof.

His eighth is, That the Bleffings promised in this Covenant do evince it to be the Covenant of Grace, or New Covenant. And of these he mentions five. (1.) The sending of Christ into the World. (2.) The Promise of the sanctifying Spirit, and Sanctification by him. (3.) The Pardon of Sin. (4.) The Promise of the Resurrection and Eternal Life. (5.) Heaven it felf under the Type of Canaan. But to this I answer, (1.) That the Covenant of Grace, which God made with Abraham, promiseth all these Blessings to all the Seed in the Covenant, I readily grant. (2.) That these Promises are not fulfill'd to all the Offspring of Believers, both Scripture and Experience testify, and he cannot well be ignorant of it. This is therefore sufficient Proof against what he contends for, but none for him. (3.) He has not yet prov'd, and I perswade my self cannot, that the Covenant venant made with Abraham, Gen. xvii. 7. &c. is this Covenant of Grace, which promifeth all these New Covenant Bleffings. (4.) If it was, ordinary Believers not standing in the same Capacity with Abraham, and their natural Seed. is such, being not his Seed in the Sense of the Scripture, they cannot be proved from hence to be interested in this Covenant. Are all the Offspring of Believers pardon'd. anctify'd and faved? If not, how can he imagine, that his informing us that the Faithful God hath in the fure Corenant of Grace promised all these Bleffings to all the Seed n Covenant, can countenance the Cause for which he thus ppears an Advocate?

Before he proceeds to his ninth Argument, he starts an Objection against what he had last said, viz. The Covenant of God with Abraham can't be the Covenant of Grace, because the Land of Canaan was promised in that Covenant to Abraham and o his Seed for a Possession, &c. That the Covenant wherein the Land of Canaan is promised for a Possession to all received into it, is not the same Covenant that believing Gentiles have an Interest in, must (I think) be acknowledged by my one who will not affert their Right to the literal Canaan; or greatly derogate from the Righteousness and Faithfulness of God, in owning that what he hath promised s not perform'd; or without colour of Truth, or Reason, ffirm that the literal Canaan was not promised to Abraham and his Seed, with whom that Covenant was made; any one of which I perswade my self Mr. H. will not say.

I must now consider the Answer he gives to this Objection, which is directed against the Notion of its being the Covenant of Works. But, if any one should affert it was a Covevant of a mixt Nature, partly of Grace, and partly of Works; his Reasons to disprove its being a Covenant of Works will not convince such an one, that what he offers, (if allowed for good proof) does well fuit his Defign. And thus far it is my own Sentiment, that there was Grace in the Covenant made with him for his carnal Seed, in that by it they injoy'd Means of Instruction of their need of Christ, and the Satisfaction made by him; altho' that Covenant promises Life eternal only by perfect Obedience, and may thence be justly denominated a Covenant of Works. But let us hear his Reasons why it was not the Covenant of Works.

I. The Promise wasnot to Abraham or his Seed thro' the Law, Rom. iv. 13. This depends upon a groundless Supposition. that the Promise there intended by the Apostle is the Promise of Canaan, which will not be so soon proved as affirm'd, And if it be allowed him, that the Land of Canaan is meant by the World in this place, as he explains it in the following Page, 'twill give no countenance to his Cause. For it is readily granted, that literal Canaan was not given to Abra ham and his Seed thro' the Law, i. e. because Abraham had by his good Works merited it at God's hand. However it doth not thence follow, but that God, when he had by an Act of fovereign Grace chosen Abraham and his Seed to be a peculiar People to himself, might establish a Covenant, first with him for them, and afterwards with them a Mount Sinai; which by promising Life only upon perfect Obedience, might convince that a perfect Righteousnel was necessary, that they were utterly unable to work ou fuch a Righteousnels, and thereby shew them the Necessis of feeking for it in another, even in Christ Jesus; and the Sacrifices they were daily to offer up, were to direct their Faith to the great Sacrifice, by which Atonement was to be made. That by the Law in this, and other places in the New Testament, the Mount Sinai Covenant is intended, may appear to any one who compares one Passage in the Epiftles with another; and that Circumcifion was affix'd to all those in that Covenant, as a Sign and Token of it, is undeniable. This therefore rather proves the Covenant of Circumcision to be a Covenant of Works, than the contrary; feeing the Sinai Covenant promised Life eternal upon no other Condition than perfect Obedience.

2. Abraham was long before made free from the Covenant of Works, and justify'd by Grace. That he was before, by Faith in Christ, the promised Seed, made free from the Curk pronounced against all Transgressors in that Covenant, is granted; but that God did not afterwards establish with him a mix'd Covenant for his carnal Seed, in subserviency to the Covenant of Grace, wherein the Land of Canaan, to serve the Ends of that Covenant, was promised them for a

Possession, has not yet been proved.

3. The Condition of the Covenant of Works was personal and perfect Obedience. The peculiar Covenant made with the carnal Seed promised eternal Life only on the Condition of perfect Obedience; but the Possession of Canaan was first given

given to that People by the free Favour of God to them, tho' their continuance in it depended on their Observation of the Duties of the Law, both Moral and Ceremonial.

4. This Covenant is not different in Nature from the Covenant God made with him in the foregoing Chapters. For here God doth not fay, I will make a Covenant, much less another Covenant, but I will establish my Covenant, &c. The Lord, in Gen. xvii. 7. lets Abraham know that the Covenant, which he was now about to make with him for his natural Seed, of which he appointed Circumcifion for the Sign, was fo far from disannulling the former Covenant which he had made with him for his spiritual Seed, that it was rather confirm'd by it, by separating his Seed in this Ordinance of Circumcifion, and allotting them the Land of Canaan, wherein they should dwell by themselves, and not be reckoned among other Nations, till that Seed of his, in whom all Nations should be blessed, should be brought forth. has been faid before, the Defence neither of our Principles nor Practice requires me to prove it was a Covenant of a different Nature, from what God had before made with Abraham; since if it be taken for the sure and everlasting Covenant of Grace, it is not the carnal Seed, but the spiritual, which are here intended. So Dr. Owen, Saints Persever. p. 175. "The Persons to whom this Promise is made, " are called thee, and thy Seed, that is, all those, and on-" ly those, with whom God is a God in Covenant. God " here minds them of the first making of this Covenant with Abraham, Gen. xvii. 7. Now who are this Seed of Abraham? Not all his carnal Posterity, not the whole " Nation of the Jews. Our Saviour not only denies, but " also proves by many Arguments, that the Pharifees and " their Followers, who doubtless were of the Nation of the " Jews, and the carnal Seed of Abraham, were not the " Children of Abraham in this Sense, but rather the De-" vil's, John viii. 39, 40, 41. And the Apostle disputes and " argues the same Case, Rom. iv. 9, 10, 11. and proves undeniably, that it is Believers only, whether circumcifed of " uncircumcifed, whether Jews or Gentiles, that are this " Seed of Abraham, and Heirs of the Promise. So plainly, " Gal. iii. 7. Know ye therefore, that they which are of Faith, " the same are the Children of Abraham. And then con-" cludes again as the Issue of his Debate, ver. 9. So then, " they which are of Faith are bleffed with faithful Abraham. F. 4 .

Thus far the Doctor. If it was therefore allow'd that the Covenant mentioned Gen. xvii. 7. is the Covenant of Grace, it will avail him nothing, unless he could prove all the Off. spring of Believers to be of this Seed, and all the Offspring of Unbelievers to come short of that Privilege. And could that be tolerably got over, there is no less a Difficulty yet behind, which is, that every one in Covenant ought to be baptiz'd, whether they make Profession of Faith or no Let him prove that Covenant-interest gives the Children of Believers a Right to Baptism, more than to the Lord's Supper; fince himself and others call the latter a Seal of the Covenant, as well as the former, and the Word of Godno more directs us to administer one Ordinance on that account, than the other. And that God should make that the Ground to his Ministers for the Administration of Ordinances, when it is beyond their Power to discern either of the Offspring of Believers or Unbelievers, who has, or who has not such an Interest, I must have better evidence than have yet met with to perswade me to believe it. But venant credible Profession of Faith, whereon alone the primitive fairit Ministers, so far as the Word of God (design'd by him to be our Directory in all Ages) informs us, did administer it is what lies within the compass of their Ability to judge of the manner. is what lies within the compass of their Ability to judge of

I come now to his ninth Argument, That therein God pro mifed himself to be a God to Abraham and his Seed; and there fore it must be the Covenant of Grace. This hath been and swer'd before, p. 14, 15. to which I refer the Reader.

What he next affirms is of no weight, That the denial of the Covenant, Gen. xvii. 7, 8. to be the Covenant of Grace supposeth a very uncomfortable Error to all that hold it, viz That temporal good things are not New Covenant Bleffings For as there is a vast difference between a Promise of so much of the good things of this Life, as the wife God knows to be best, and a durable Inheritance in that Land which flowed with Milk and Honey; fo the Denial of the Promise a Gen. xvii. to belong to believing Gentiles and their Seed, doth not suppose any such thing as he affirms.

When he fays, That Canaan was promised in the same Coa new Spirit, &c. I need only reply, that either God did ents not promise a new Heart and a new Spirit to all the natural Posterity of Abraham, to whom he promised Canaan; of else, that he did not make good what he had promised.

What he tells us in the next place, That in that Covenant leaven it self, under that Canaan, as a Type of it, was promid to Abraham and his Seed for ever, for an everlasting Posfion; is either untrue, or elfe overthrows his whole Defign this place. For that Promise was not made to the natural ed of Abraham, as such, seeing a Remnant of them only rtook of it, Rom. xi. 5. which is equally true of the Offring of believing Gentiles. And if it was not made to the tural Posterity of the former, much less to all the Offring of the latter.

His tenth and last Argument, That the Covenant of God th Abraham, Gen. xvii. 7. is renewed to the Church of Isel, Men, Women and Children, Deut. xxix. 10, 11, &c. th been sufficiently answer'd in the Introduction, by what th been proved there from Scripture, of the twofold Co-But venant, which God made with Abraham, the one for his mitive piritual, and the other for his natural Seed; that mention'd im to Deut. xxix. being the formal Reception of the latter into er is at Covenant, which he had before transacted with Abrae of m for them.

The great number of Scriure and did lerts, can be of no further service than to amuse the leatural eader.

He afterwards tells us, That the Covenant at Horeb is olished, but not all things delivered at Horeb; and mentions two Exceptions: (1.) God's free Promise to be a God to he People and their Seed. (2.) The Ten Commandments in the hands of Christ, to be observed as a Rule of Life. The latte I readily grant him; but must suspend my Belief of the former, as it depends on one of these two Postulata so must improved: That every believing Parent hath the same Promises made to him for his Seed, that were made to Abraham for his: Or, That all the Children of believing God tiles are, in a Scripture sense, the Seed of Abraham; it ther of which 'tis desired he would make good.

He proceeds to demand, Whether our Blessed Lord can to repeal and take from his People precious Promises and Privileges? and endeavours in many Words to shew the Absurdity of such a Thought. If he thinks this affects us, he would do well (as we say) to look at home, and assignment of the second than any he has done yet, why Chedren should not be now admitted to the Lord's Supper, Chapter, as against his own Opinion, I am as much concerned in. For as I know not by who this place, Gal. iii. 16. with the Exposition he here gives it is urged against Pedobaptism; so I am well assured the Antipedobaptists Cause stands in no need of such a Suppose But since 'tis so proposed, that by the Answer return'd, the Anabaptists (as he calls them) might be render'd ridiculous and the most uncharitable Persons under Heaven to the own Babes, I shall not wholly wave the Consideration of the Words of the Objection are: All the Promises made to the Seed of Abraham, were made to Christ personal only; the only is that Seed to whom all the Promises were made.

In Gen. xii. 3. the Covenant of Grace is revealed to Abraham, with this Assurance, that he, in whom all Believer should be blessed, should descend from him according to the Flesh: And in thee (i. e. in Christ to come of thy Seed shall all the Families of the Earth be blessed. Now that 'tis to those Passages in Genesis that the postle hath respect in these Words, I think will appear to ny one who impartially confiders both places. And that is Christ personal, who is primarily intended, is so evident the 19 Ver. that I can't but very much wonder Mr. H. ould spend no less than four Pages to prove the contrary. the actual Exhibition of Christ, the promised Seed, in he Flesh, be not there meant by the Seed's coming, I desire know who is or can be. Christ mystical, or the Church Christ, it cannot be; for Christ always had a Church, efore the Law and under the Law, as well as under the ofpel: and Mr. Pool's Annotations on this Verfe, tell us; That Christ is here to be understood by the Seed, is plain by the Addition, to whom the Promise was made. discern how Mr. H's Exposition can possibly consist with he Defign of the Apostle in this place, or what tolerable ense he can give of his Words in Ver. 19. unless Christ ersonal be there intended. For it is in him alone who rang from Abraham according to the Flesh, that all he Nations of the Earth, i. e. Believers in all Nations, are leffed. Neither will any of the direful Consequences follow om fuch an Exposition, which he indeavours on all Occaons to deduce from our Opinion, and expose us to his Reaers, as imbracing Notions which destroy the Foundation f our own Comfort. For Christ is not here to be consideed as standing in a private, but publick Capacity, as the lead and Representative of all the Seed given him of the ather; and the Promises of the New Covenant are made him, as such, and to his Seed in him, who derive their light to them by their Union with him, to whom as their lead and Surety they are primarily made. And therefore, otwithstanding what Mr. H's Charity suggests, that we will xclude our selves out of the Promises, rather than suffer our ing to be included; our interpreting this place of Christ seed and their faithful Children, as his own Exposition can be after the beliefed pon him to retract and repent of that false and injurious AccuAccusation of his Brethren, without any colour of Truth or Justice. The whole Paragraph runs thus, p. 30.

This Objection design'd against the Seed of Believers, is a much against adult Believers as their Children: For if the Promises are to none but Christ personal, then they are neither a believing Parents, nor their Children. But the truth is, this proves them to be sure to all Believers, whether Parents or Children. He adds; See and pity the Zeal of these Person against their own Babes, who will exclude themselves out of the Promises, rather than suffer their Children to be included.

Is this speaking the Truth in Love, to charge us as destitute of natural Affections, to such a degree, as that instead of desiring (as every Believer cannot but do) the eterm Salvation of our Offspring, we desire their eternal Per dition.

I am as little concerned in the next Objection, as in the former: We often read that the Jews owned and trufted Abraham's Covenant, and gloried much in being his Childre but yet they rejected Christ. Wherefore instead of that, I him answer this following, viz. The Jews, who, according to his own Exposition, were the Seed of Abraham, to who the Promise is made, Gen, xvii. 7. did not, as to the greate number of them, attain to the faving Knowledge of God But the Lord in the Covenant of Grace hath affured us by Promise, that all the Seed in Covenant, from the least to the greatest, shall be blessed with a saving Knowledge of himself And the Apostle tells us, Rom. iv. 16. That the Promise fure to all the Seed. Which Words the Annotations before mentioned very well expound thus: "If it were of the "Law, it would be unfure and uncertain, because of Man "Weakness, who is not able to perform it. Abraham " Seed is of two forts; one fort is of the Law, to wit, the " Fews; another fort is of fuch as walk in the Steps of Abri " ham's Faith, whether Jews or Gentiles: To all these the " Promise must be sure, which cannot be, if the Law ! made the Condition or Means of the Inheritance.

P. 34. He presents us with another Objection against him pinio self, viz. The Seed of Believers are by Nature the Children semest Wrath, even as others, Eph. ii. 3. The Cause of the Anti-pedobaptists is sufficiently maintained from other Arguments, whether this Objection carry weight enough in it night or not, to overthrow his Fabric. But I cannot perceive that lines;

what he has faid against it is of any force.

His first Reply, of their being so before Christ's coming, and at yet then they injoy'd the Privileges pleaded for, depends th or holly upon this Supposition; that the Covenant into which e carnal Seed of Abraham was receiv'd, is the very same Substance that believing Gentiles are now under. But he proceeds to tell us, If their being Children of Wrath Nature were inconsistent with their being Children of God Grace, then not one of them that die Infants could be ved. To which I answer; That if the Parents Hope and omfort concerning the Salvation of their departed Chilen be not built on the Covenant of Redemption, transted before time between the Father and Son, as lookg on their Seed dying in Infancy to be given of the ther to the Son, and undertaken for by the Son; I no ground of Hope or Comfort they can have from Covenant with the carnal Seed, constantly call'd the Law the New Testament; for thousands of them, who liv'd mature Age, the Scripture affures us, have dy'd in Sin, d perish'd. The Law, to which Circumcision was so whom nex'd, as to bind its Subjects to do the whole Law, Gal. v. could not possibly give Life to young or old, Gal. iii. , 12.

How pertinent he supposes what he next afferts, uching the Covenant-interest, and Right to Heaven, of lievers Infants that die before they are born, I know not; t may be certain, that unless he will say they have a Right Baptism too before they are born, it is either remote om his Purpose, or proves, if any thing, more than defires; for then it must necessarily follow, that some ve an Interest in the Covenant before they have a Right Baptism. And if this be allow'd, one would think he uld not account it so absurd and uncharitable, as he would rswade his Readers, that the Antipedobaptists should ait till Covenant-interest be evidenc'd by a Profeson of Faith, before they administer it. And here the this pinion of the Council of Neocesarea (mention'd by Mr. dreng temett and others) in the beginning of the 4th Century, ay not improperly be taken Notice of; which to reave the Scruple of some, whether a Woman with Child in it light warrantably be baptiz'd, in the 6th Canon determentable in its significant with the ought to be baptiz'd when she desires " it: And the Reason given is; "For in this there is no Come munion between the Woman with Child, and the Child flee goes with, because the proper Choice of each Per fon should be discovered, and that by a Profession." But Mr. H. it seems, is of another Mind, and would per swade us, that the proper Choice of each Person need not be discovered by a Profession, before their Admission to it.

He goes on to remove the Objection, by citing Rom. xi. 16 17, 21, 24, 28. Gal. ii. 15. 1 Cor. vii. 14. The first an last of these Places are particularly spoken to afterward in Chapter vii. and Gal. ii. 15. affords him no Relief. Fo the Apostle denies that himself, Peter, and other Jews (fo he here diftinguishes between natural Jews, and Proselyn were justified by the Law, but by Faith in Christ. Now, by being interested in the Covenant made with Abraha for his natural Seed, they had been pardon'd, and fand fy'd, (as if that was the Covenant of Grace, which h lievers, both Jews and Gentiles, are now under, they wou have been not only to foon as born, but even in the Won according to Mr. H's reasoning) they would thereby has been deliver'd from trusting to their own legal Right oulnels for Acceptance with God, which it plainly a pears the Apostle Paul did for many Years, even till the Lord, by his Sovereign Grace, call'd him, and discover to him his undone Estate without Christ, Rom. vii. 9, 19 11, 13. Phil. iii. 7. Paul, notwithstanding his being a Ja by Nature, and circumcis'd, was in an unregenera State, till he was come to adult Age, and brought, the same effectual working of the Grace of God, to a pent, and believe, whereby those Graces were wrough in the Gentiles. And the Case is the same in this respect with the Offspring of Believers, and those of Unbells vers. If the Children of Believers are Children of Writ by Defert only, as he would perswade us; but the Chil dren of God, as standing related to him in the Covenant of Grace, their Case is the same with that of adult & lievers; and they cannot justly be told by their Parent or Ministers, that they are in a lost, undone Condition standing in need of Regeneration, and lying under the guilt of Sin, and the condemning Power of the Law But I hope the Grace of God will prevent any descended from godly Parents, from falling into so fatal a Mi fak:

CHAP. V.

An Answer to Mr. H's Fifth Chapter.

TE come now to Mr. H's v. Chapter, which, as the two last, begins with an Objection, so laid down, as he thought might best leave room for Reply, that his Reader might think he had fully aner'd what the Antipedobaptists could say against that ich he pleads for. The Substance of it is this; Altho' lievers Infants, under the Old Testament, were in Covet, and Partakers of the Seal of the Covenant, yet this was Privilege of the Jews only, &c.

It is reasonable we should be allow'd to give the Reader Account of our Sentiments, the Objection, as form'd by n, being defective in divers respects. And, (1.) We nt not, neither can he prove, that the Covenant into ich Infants were admitted under the Old Testament, s the Covenant of Grace, the same in Substance that ieving Gentiles are now under. (2.) Neither do we n that Circumcifion, the Token of that Covenant, was seal or Confirmation of New Covenant-interest to all to om it was affix'd; and the contrary hath been prov'd eady. (3.) Those that were receiv'd into that Old Coant, whereof Circumcifion was the Sign, deriv'd not ir Right to it from the Faith of their Parents; the Int-feed of an unbelieving Jew having as much Right in as those Children whose immediate Parents were fine Believers. (4.) We don't say, that none but natural ps might be circumcis'd; altho' we affirm, that profed Gentiles were not admitted to a Participation of all Privileges of the Sinai Covenant, which the natural Seed Abraham injoy'd by it.

The Objection, as stated by him, appearing thus faulty, should not think my self oblig'd to examine his Reply, t for the sake of some Notions in it, both groundless, and inconsistent with his own Plea in other Places. So p. 38, At the first Institution of the Token and Seal of the Covenant not only Abraham and his natural Seed partook of it, but his adult Men Servants, and all their Male seed. This directly contrary to what he afferts, p 108. @ 111. In the former he undertakes by a Citation of Scriptures, as nume rous, as wide from the Purpose, to prove, That a godh Man's, or Woman's Child or Children, are his or her House or Houshold: And p. 111. The Covenant of Promise runs not from Masters to Servants, Boarders, or Lodgers, but from Parent to Children: Whereas he fays here, that Abraham's num rous Houshold Servants were in this Covenant of God wit Abraham, Gen. xvii. Now his Design thro' his whole Discourse is to prove, that the same Persons that had Right to Circumcifion then, have a Right to Baptism now and that no Privilege granted of God to his People for merly, is taken away fince; and he accounts it very about to fay, that Moses allow'd, and continued to the People God, more extensive and comfortable Promises and Pris leges than Christ himself. And I hope he will own 'tis more extensive Promise and Privilege to have Covenan interest, and a Right to the Sign of it, convey'd to Chiedge dren and Servants both, than to Children only, by the P rents or Masters Faith.

He undertakes in the next place to prove, by a new kin of Logic, that Abraham had a godly Family of Servant hd n from the Religious Behaviour of one of them. Because on light behav'd himself religiously, it must therefore sollow the er a all of them were Believers. But to put the matter out brake doubt, he adds surther, from Gen. xiv. 14. That the 31 sat we there mention'd, had been trained or instructed by him, a petist doubt in Religion, as well as to bear Arms. Now, altho' the there was then undertaking with these Servants as his Soldier, as the must (I think) necessarily intend, they had attain'd some Bap Skill in Military Discipline; yet I grant, that Abraham las to was faithful and diligent in instructing all under his Care in the great Concerns of Religion. But will it then sed as follow, that his Indeavours were successful to the Convert the the sion of his whole numerous Family? For every Male was commanded to be circumcis'd. I know of no Reason that the Occasion to complain with the Prophet of old, Isa, liii. I sen the Occasion to complain with the Prophet of old, Isa, liii. I sen the Whole Convertion of the Reason that the Occasion to complain with the Prophet of old, Isa, liii. I sen the Occasion to complain with the Prophet of old, Isa, liii.

But he fays, p. 39. Abraham and his Family being the first Church, or People of God, that partook of the Token and Seal f the Covenant, their Order therein is heedfully to be minded. braham, an adult Believer, is first circumcis'd, and then his atural Seed, and his Men-servants, who were adult Belieers, were circumcis'd, and their Seed also. How exactly id the Apostles follow this first Pattern, when they first taught ersons? And when they believed, then they baptized both now bem and their Housholds.

le for As I cannot grant, that the Command for Circumcision as design'd of God to give us Direction with respect to ople he Subjects of Baptism; so neither doth his comparing the Print postles Administration of the latter, with the first Administration of the former to Abraham and his Houshold, any enant says corroborate his Cause. For, (1.) He will acknowed the Pull the eighth Day. Whereas, if he be of the same Mind with other Pedobaptists, he must affert the Right of Infants. the P III the eighth Day. Whereas, if he be of the same Mind with other Pedobaptishs, he must affert the Right of Insants the latter from their Birth. (2.) It is only Children, and not Servants, which he afterwards contends have a see on ight to Baptism by the Faith of others; but in the former a great many Servants were circumcis'd, as well as braham's only Son Ishmael. (3.) It was then only Males at were circumcis'd, but Females are now intituled to im, aptism as well as Males. (4.) Faith was not requir'd then of the ther of adult Servants, or Children, as a necessary prequisite to Circumcision; here the Case is far otherwise, do the can't but own, that no adult Person hath a Right Baptism without a Profession of Faith and Repentance. It is there any such thing requir'd in the Precept? Gen. Care ii. 12, 13. And he that is eight Days old shall be circumcised among you; --- he that is born in thy House, or bought onvet the thy Money of any Stranger, which is not of thy Seed: that is born in thy House, and he that is bought with the Money, must needs be circumcised. And again, Exod. It is shall be circumcised. And again, Exod. It is the thou hast circumcis'd him, then shall be eat thereof; With viz. of the Passover. On the latter of these Places Mr. Poole hath these Words: "Tho' it is probable, that by "their Interest in them, and a diligent Instruction of them, they made them willing to receive Circumci " fion; yet it feems they had a Power to compel them to it." Here was no such thing as Faith required in the adult, to give them a Right to Circumcision, nor it feems, so much as a willingness to submit to it; which however, rather than be turn'd off from a kind Master and fold to a fevere one, it may probably be support they were generally wrought up to, when at the fan time they might be void of true Faith. By comparing the Commission wherein Baptism is injoin'd, and from when alone Christ's Ministers receive Authority for its Admi nistration, and the Preaching and Practice of his Apoll in the Execution thereof, with the above cited Instit tion of Circumcision, and further Directions about it, t Reader will perceive that he had need beware of taking a thing upon Mr. H's Word, without first searching Scriptures, with the noble Bereans, to fee whether the thin are so or not. The Commission requires Faith before Ba tism, Matth. xxviii. 19. Mar. xvi. 16. So Peter, in his Se mon, Acts ii. 38. first calls on them to repent, and then be baptiz'd. And agreeable to it was his Practice, Ver. Then they that gladly receiv'd his Word were baptiz'd, the same Day there were added unto them about 3000 Sou And Chap. viii. 12, 36, 37. But when they believed Phil preaching the things concerning the Kingdom of God, and Name of Jesus Christ, they were baptiz'd, both Men Women. And as they went on their way, they came unu certain Water; and the Eunuch Said, See, here is Wat what doth hinder me to be baptiz'd? And Philip fail If thou believest with all thine Heart, thou mayest. A here we may observe, that the Eunuch only, and not his vants with him, was then baptiz'd : for Ver. 38. Hean manded the Chariot to stand still, and they went down bothin the Water, both Philip and the Eunuch, and he baptiz'dim That this great Man undertook such a long Journey will out any Servants to attend him, cannot be suppos'd, and the was Opportunity to baptize them as well as himself. as if the Spirit of God defign'd to let us know, that " primitive Ministers were far from taking their Direction from the Subjects of Circumcision, to those of Baptis tho' all Abraham's Servants were circumcis'd the fame Day with himself; we are told here, that only Philip and the Eunuch went down into the Water, and there Philip baptiz'd him, but not his Servants. So likewise Acts xviii. 8. And Crispus, the chief Ruler of the Synagogue, believ'd on the Lord, with all his House; and many of the Corinthians hearing, believ'd, and were baptiz'd. Nor do we read of any baptiz'd, who did not profess to believe, not they and their Servants, and Children, unless they also believ'd as well as their Parents and Mafters. When Circumcifion was renew'd at Gilgal, after the Children of Ifrael were come over fordan into Canaan, they circumcis'd all the People (i. e. all the Males) who before were uncircumcis'd, some of whom were near 40 Years of Age, none having been circumcifed during their 40 Years Stay in the Wilderness. But here is no Intimation either of God's requiring that the Believers among them should be circumcis'd, which would have included a Prohibition of any others; or that Joshua made any Distinction between Believers and Unbelievers in its Administration. But the Text tells us, that they circumcis'd all the People, Josh. v. 8. Now let him either prove that all the Males, both Fathers and Children, Mafters and Servants, that were circumcis'd, were professing Believers; or else own that the Apostles did not (whatever he pretends) exactly conform their Administration of Baptism to that of Circumcilion, as its Pattern.

It may not be improper to confider in this place, what he alleges afterwards, p. 107, &c. concerning the baptizing of Housholds, whereof he gives three Instances; The Jailer and his Houshold, Acts xvi. 33. Lydia and her Houshold, Acts xvi. 14, 15. And the Houshold of Stephanas, 1 Cor. i. 16. And (1.) There were many Thousands of the Jews who believ'd, and were baptiz'd; among all of whom we do not read of any one baptiz'd Houshold. Many Churches of baptiz'd Believers were likewise gather'd among the Gentiles, and in all these we are presented but with three Instances; nay some Expositors make them but two, and tell us, that Stephanas, mention'd I Cor. i. 16. was the converted Jailer in Acts 16. Now, that two or three Families only should be baptiz'd, when there is no question to be made, but one, if not both of the Heads of some thoufands of Families at that time believ'd, looks with no favourable vourable Aspect upon his Cause. And by this we may see. that when the Gospel took place upon all in a Family, the Spirit of God takes particular Notice of it. Let him affign a good Reason, when the great Numbers, mention'd Alts ii. 41. vii. 12. & xviii. 8. are recorded to have been baptiz'd, why it should not have been said, that they and their Housholds were baptiz'd, if proper Faith was not neceffary to intitle to it. But the mentioning of two or three Instances only, shews it was only where the whole House believ'd, and not a common thing. (2.) There are many Families in which there are no young Children, and unless he could prove there were any in these, which he will find impossible to do, they make nothing to his Purpose. (3.) As to the Housholds of the Jailer, and Stepha nas, if they were two Persons, there is such an Account given us of them, as one would think sufficient to prevent their being wrested to any such Purpose, for which Mr. H. produceth them. For, of the Jailer it is faid, Acts xvi. 32. And they Spake unto him the Word of the Lord, and to all that were in his House; and in Verse 34. He rejoic'd, believing in God with all his House: So that all who were baptiz'd here, were first preach'd unto, and believ'd. In like manner 'tis faid of the Houshold of Stephanas, I Cor. xvi. 15. that they addicted themselves to the Ministry of the Saints. Which Infants are unable to do. And as for Lydia, as we read of no Children she had; so from what is recorded of her, 'tis (I think) reasonable to conclude, that the had no Husband; for if the had, he must have been the Head of that baptiz'd Houshold. And 'tis highly improbable that mention should be made of the Baptism of her, and her Houshold, and afterwards Ver. 40. that they enter'd into the House of Lydia, and no notice be taken of her Husband. Moreover, we are told, that they there fam the Brethren, and comforted, or (as the Word also fignifies) exhorted them. And young Children are uncapable of receiving Comfort, or profiting by Exhortations. But he tells us, From these three Instances it's as clear,

But he tells us, From these three Instances it's as clear, that the Apostles common Practice was to baptize adult Believers and their Housholds, as from those two Instances of baptizing Lydia, and some Women at Samaria, Acts xvi. 15. viii. 12. 'tis evident that their common Practice was to baptize Women as well as Men. That the Apostles baptize Housholds, when whole Housholds believ'd, we rea-readily Object. 1. Children are not expressed in those Texts that peak of baptizing Housholds. To this his Answer is: If they are not excluded; and if not exluded, then are they included.

Mr. H's Logic will as well prove their unbelieving Servants to be included, if they had any, because they are not expressly excluded; and he can't but know, that general Terms do not always intend every Individual. Besides, as there are not Infants in every House, so there is not only no mention made of Children in those Texts, but (as I said before) such an Account is given us of the Families, as if the Spirit of God design'd to prevent the making any such Conclusion thence as he pretends to.

As to what he tells us, p. 108. That a godly Man's or Wo-Iready in the begining of this Chapter.

Object. 2. They spake the Word of the Lord to the Jailer, and to all that were in his House. Would they preach to Chilten? To which he answers: Yes, they would, and so would hose too that make this Objection, did they but understand, and ut their Consciences under the Authority of the following Scripures: Eph. vi. 4. Prov. xxii. 26. Deut. vi. 7. and xxxi. 12, 3. and xxix. 9. with x. 11. Josh viii. 34, 35. Col. iii. 20. Ial. xxxiv. 11. and lxxviii. 4, to 7. It's no Absurdity to reach the Gospel to an Insant, Luke i. 75, 77, 78, 79.

Tho' we defire to subject our Minds to the Authority of Jod's Word; yet we cannot look upon our selves bound by hese Scriptures to preach to Infants. And if he don't intend uch, but only those Children who are arrived to Years of Inderstanding, what he says here is as little to the purpose, s the other is absurd. Luke the i. 76, &c. is remote enough from proving what he says in the former Sense. For it is a most ridiculous Conceit, that Zachariah there preached to John; when for the sake of the Audience he uttered that Prophetical Declaration of the Work whereunto God had design'd him. If his Reasoning was good, Gospel Ministers have warrant from Isa. i. 2. Psal. cxiv. 5,6. with many more places, to preach to sensless and inanimate Creatures. But who are to be preached to, we are informed Nehem. viii. 2. And Ezra the Priest brought the Law before the Congregation, both of Men and Women, and all that could hear with Understanding, i. e. such Children that were arriv'd to Years of Understanding. And such, we are as willing as he, should be taught, tho' but young, and upon Protession of Faith baptiz'd.

Object. 3. But the Jailer believed in God with all his House. To which he replies: The Children of Believers, a such (whilst Children at least) are reckon'd among the Faithful

i. e. Believers.

If this be so, how comes it to pass that in Tit. i. 6. 'the mention'd as one necessary Qualification in a Bishop, or Elder, that he be one who hath faithful Children? Had all the Children of every Believer been accounted of that number, there would have been no occasion of giving this Direction to the Church.

Object. 4. It is said that Lydia was a Woman of Thyatira tho' now at Philippi, and that it's unlikely she should bring he Children with her fo far from home.

Tho' this Objection be not very material to the Controversy, yet I can't but take notice of what he so boldly asserts in his Answer to it, when he tells us, It's clear that her House (i. e. her Children) was with her at Philippi, and were baptized as hers, immediately upon her being baptized her self. For that nothing is clear in it, but that he can venture to say what he knows nothing of, is plain from what has been spoken before in Page 84, relating to this Instance of Lydia.

Object. 5. The Houshold of Stephanas, baptized by Paul, ministred to the Saints; therefore they were not Children, 1 Cor. xvi. 15. To which he replies: This is no proof they were not Children when the Apostle baptiz'd them, but 'tis a proof that their Baptism, as an House of a godly Father, was not in vain, &c.

This don't prove indeed they were not Children, for fuch hey might be, tho' adult. And whether this first Epistle to be Corinthians was written by the Apostle from Ephesius, as eza and many other Learned Men think; or, as others ppose, not long after from Philippi, in his Passage thro' facedonia; had any of the Houshold of Stephanas (suppose em his Children, or whom else you please) not arriv'd Years of Understanding when Paul baptiz'd them, they ould not have been capable of addicting themselves to the linistry of the Saints at the time this Epistle was wrote. or any one, who is not a Stranger to Scripture Chronology, ill easily perceive, that according to either of these Opions, the Epiftle must have been writ within three Years ter his leaving Corinth. And whereas he urges their minir ring to the Saints, as a Proof that their Baptism as an House a godly Parent was not in vain; 'tis so apparent, that many hildren, who have been (in his reckoning) baptiz'd on count of their Parents Faith, have prov'd wicked and prohane, as might convince him that this can be of no force.

or El He proceeds to tell us, There is no Colour from the Texts fay those Housholds were baptiz'd as adult single Persons, on num heir own personal Profession. But unless he can prove adult Persons may be baptiz'd without a personal Profession of faith, I think, from what has been faid, there is very good tire eason to conclude, there is no Colour for what he affirms; ghe here being nothing in any of those Texts that affords just round to suppose, that any but actual Believers were admited to Baptism, or who should not have been baptiz'd, whe-ldly her the Parent, Master, or Mistress had believed, or not. that cometimes the Gospel, both them and since, has been made smile and since on the conversion of every one in an House. So folm iv. 53. 'tis said of the Nobleman, who obtain'd of Christ a miraculous Cure for his sick Son, that himself be-Can Christ a miraculous cure for his field down, service and his whole House. And no doubt but among those from leved and his whole House. And no doubt but among those from leved and his whole House. And no doubt but among those from leved and his whole House. were Heads of Families; but 'tis mentioned, as a special Paul, effect of sovereign Grace, that Crispus and all his House bedren, lieved. If the whole Families of all of them believed and were baptiz'd, why should one only be mention'd? When this a whole Families therefore believed and were baptiz'd, it is s not forecorded; but when only one or more particular Persons in a Family, they only were fo privileged.

I should but abuse the Reader's Patience to insist long up: on what follows in p. 111. where he fays; Compare thise Texts, which speak of baptizing new converted Persons and their Housholds, with those that speak of saving new converted Persons and their Houses, and we shall find that Children are in. tended in or by the term House. Luke xix. 9. This Day (i. e. the Day of his Conversion) is Salvation come to this House, forasmuch as he also is the Son of Abraham. Alts xvi . 31. Beliew on the Lord Jesus Christ, and thou shalt be saved and thy House. If the Lord save the Houses, as such, of those Gentiles who believe, and his Apostles baptize the Houses, as such, of these Gentiles who believe, for both which the Texts areer. press and full; then converted Gentiles and their Seed were baptized, as formerly the Proselytes (who were converted Gatiles) and their Seed were circumcifed, &c. According to Mr. H's way of arguing therefore, when the Head of a Family is converted, the whole House is consequently saved But St. Luke does not tell us that all in Zacheus's Houle were faved, but that Salvation was then come to that House; which it did if only he himself was put into a Patte State of Salvation, and the Means of it thro' him brought to all in it. Nay Salvation might then be said to come erva whom God the Father had given to be his Salvation to the Ends of the Earth, Ifa. xlix. 6. In which Senle also Christ tells the Jews, The Kingdom of God was come unto them, Matt. xii. 28. But fure all to whom the Doctrine and Means of Salvation come, are not faved. Besides, when he makes these Cases parallel with the Circumcifion of Gentile Proselytes, how will this consist with what he fays afterwards in the same Page: The Covenant of Promise runs not from Masters to Servants, Boarders or Lodgers, but from Parents to Children: for all the Male Servants of Gentile Proselytes were circumcised? But I shall leave him for a while to consider of this, and return to his V Chapter.

He goes on to tell us, p. 39. That at the first Institution of Circumcision many hundreds of others, that were not Abraham's natural Seed, were taken into his Covenant and its Privileges. And yet, p. 40. he fays, That not one of all Abraham's numerous Family, excepting himself, had any Promise that themselves or their Seed should inherit the literal Canaan. How he will reconcile these Passages, I can't tell. For altho' he was promised in that Covenant, whereof he makes Circumission to have been the Seal; yet he doth not pretend that was not one thing promised by it. And if Circumcission was a Seal of the Covenant to all to whom it was administed, it must give them a Right to each of the Promises of hat Covenant, whereof the literal Candan fully appears to e one, Gen. xvii. 8. So that I conclude from his own Reading, that altho' Circumcission was a Sign of that Covenant hade with Abraham upon all, yet it was not a Seal of it to I the Circumcised.

We are told, p. 41. There is no exception made against any her Proselytes Communion with the Church of Israel, but only sose half Children of Abraham's Faith, who will have the To-en of the Covenant apply'd to themselves, but not to their Chilren. If any such should have offer'd themselves, they were to ave been kept back from the Passover, which was the same for ubstance with our Lord's Supper, till the Token of the Covenant as apply'd to their Children. If this be true, won't it likewise reach those who exclude ervants from a Right to the Token of the Covenant, which

e knows Abraham apply'd to his?

What follows in the next Paragraph, where he tells us; hose are greatly mistaken, that think none but Abraham's namal Seed injoy'd this Privilege, to have their Children Memers of the visible Church, and in Covenant, &c. needs no teply. For, that circumcised Proselytes had such a Right, know of none who deny. But that they had not, in all espects, the same Interest in the Promises made to Abraham for his natural seed, as his Osspring by Isaac had, he as already granted.

He proceeds to ask, What Scripture or Reason puts this vast ifference betwixt believing Gentiles before Christ's coming, and elieving Gentiles since; that they and their Seed with them should hen be received into the visible Church, and that now their Seed bould be left in Satan's Kingdom,&c? The Church-state is now ltered by his own Confession, pag. 72. being then National, but now Congregational, as the Scripture abundantly estisses; then it was propagated by Generation, now by Regeneration, John iii. 3, 5. which is enough to satisfy him, that both Scripture and Reason make the difference

we plead for. As to Believers Seed under the Gospel, if their Privileges be not the same in all respects as before, the Change is much for the better.

We are afterwards admonished to learn of the Smallow where to lay her Young, and not to be like the Offrich, forget. ful of her Young ones (as he expresses it) but to consider what we do, when we persecute and thrust our tender Babes out of the visible Church, and out of the Covenant of Promise, &c. Can Mr. H. think 'tis in the power of Men to thrust their Children out of the Covenant of Promise; or by any Act of theirs to bring them into it? If he does not, as I can't sup pose he does, where is the Charity of such Reslections as these? 'Tis certainly our Duty to use all Means appointed by God for the good of their Souls, and to feek earnestly for his Bleffing thereon; and this, we hope, we are as careful to perform as himself. And as for Persecution, he would do well first to pull the Beam out of his own Eye, fince mock ing and hard Speeches against those who fear God, are so accounted in Scripture. What must those think of us who are Strangers to our Sentiments and Behaviour, upon read ing such Reproaches as he frequently loads us with? Many of which I have already cited from him, and I need not look many Lines further to produce a fresh Instance, when he fays, Let believing Parents take heed of such uncomfortable rigid and cruel Principles and Practices against their tender Babes, lest in time their Spirits grow sour'd thereby, that the be ready, as hath been the Case of too many, to contend more earnestly to have their Children in this wretched Condition than for any part of the Faith once deliver'd to the Saints Jude 3. which this contended for never was. But I hop that which we contend for in this case, will appear more consonant to the Faith once deliver'd to the Saints, than what he has advanced to the contrary, notwithstanding such hard Expressions, and the opproprious Charge with which he next affaults us.

Neither, faith he, hath this their Folly departed from them, altho they have been bray'd in the Mortar of Scripture Evidence, by the preaching and writing of the greatest and bost Men the Church bath bad, either in or fince the Reformation.

That there were very great and good Men at the begining of the Reformation, and lince, who have afferted and pleaded relate for Pedobaptism, I readily grant; and 'twas an effect of when ect of the he great Mercy and Grace of God, that they saw so far as hey did into the gross Superstitions of Popery; but that hey were convinc'd of all the Errors that abounded in sosedark Times, he doth not think himself, if his Practice ay be allow'd to interpret his Sentiments. And their Pracice of Pedobaptism can be no better Proof of its Warrant-bleness, than of other things which he rejects. That their eformation was a good Step, but an ill Standard, many reat Men have afferted. But have there been no eminent d good Men among the Antipedobaptists? The Works some of them yet praise them in the Gate, and may do suture Generations, when such Births as this of his are ried in Oblivion. And are they to be arraign'd at Ir. H's Bar, as stupid and incorrigible Fools?

But he goes on to upbraid us, That we will not be of Abram's Faith, which took hold of the Covenant for both Parent of Child, for himself and his Seed, and should therefore seek or another Pattern of our Faith; but one of our Faith, or raer Unbelief concerning Infants, we cannot find in Scripture.

That Abraham believed God would receive all his own nmediate Offspring into the Covenant of Grace, will be so hard a Task for him ever to prove. Abraham had an Imael, as well as an Ifaac; and if Abraham believed that I his carnal Seed should be interested therein, his Faith as built on some Promise of God; and if God had promid it, he would have perform'd it. But having largely esfore demonstrated the contrary, I shall only add, that he of his Faith, or rather Presumption, concerning Infants, a cannot find in Scripture; which I may well conclude, beause he hath produced no such Instance. But he proceeds of frame an Objection for us against what he said last.

Object. If every Believer must be of Abraham's Faith, hen every Believer must believe that himself is a common sovenant-head to all the Faithful in all Ages after him, as Abraham was. To which he replies: Not so, my Brethren, hat was not Abraham's Faith. To be of Abraham's Faith to believe as he did, that God made his Covenant of Grace with him, as a common Covenant-head for himself and his Seed, and for all Believers and their Seed in their Generations.

We have here then a Concession, that Believers stand not related to others as Covenant-heads, as Abraham did; from whence it must necessarily follow, that the Covenant-interest of the Seed of Believers must be derived from their Relation to Abraham, as their Father. And this cannot be but one of these two ways; either in proceeding from him by matural Descent, which will not be said; or as partaking of Regeneration and Faith, whereby alone any become his spiritual Children; and all the Offspring of Believers are not so privileged. To be of Abraham's Faith then is, (1.) For a Person to believe his being justify'd before God by the Righteousness of Christ alone, and not by the Works of the Law, Rom. iv. 1, 2, 3. tho' good Works may declare before Men that this Faith is genuine, and of the right kind; in which Sense St. James ascribes Abraham's Justification to Works, Jam. ii. 21. (2.) That God will perform all the Promises made to him, whatsoever Difficulties lien his way, Rom. iv. 18, 19, 20, 21. which is true of all fincer Believers, tho' few of them exert fo strong a Faith as he did (3.) Abraham's Faith wrought in him a Willingness to ober God in all his Commands, Heb. xi. 8. And herein all tru Believers are of his Faith, and walk in his Steps, Rom. iv. 11 But Mr. H. tells us, that Abraham believed that God has established his Covenant with him, for all Believers and their Seed in their Generations. Let him prove therefore all the Seed of Believers to be, in this Sense, Abraham's Seed, and that God promised Abraham to receive them all into the Covenant of Grace, before he expect us to believe that was Abraham's Faith. And it is to be observed, that he does not only affert the Interest of the immediate, but remote Seed of Believers in the Covenant of Grace; for fold is certain the Lord intended in the Covenant made with A braham, Gen. xvii. 7. concerning their Seed in their Gentrations.

When he intreats us to shew a plain and express Command of God for what we do, or a plain Example that the Parent were received to Church fellowship and Baptism, and their Infant-seed kept back from both, 'tis an Intimation that he finds the Province he hath undertaken too heavy for him; for otherwise he need not put it upon us to prove the Negative; as if we were obliged to produce an express Prohibition, that Infants should not be baptized, or else own their Right to it. Where hath God declared that there shall not be in the Gospel Church a Pontifex Maximus, with Priests under him, and Levites to serve them? Or Let him clear own Practice from this Charge, before he fix it upon ters.

CHAP. VI.

An Answer to Mr. H's Sixth Chapter.

His Chapter begins with such an Objection, as no Antipedobaptist, so far as I have observed, ever made, viz. That our Lord Jesus Christ, when on rth, turn'd the Infants out of Doors, not suffering them to tinue any longer Members of his visible Church and agdom, &c.

We are far from turning them out of Doors, and desire to ea tender regard both to their Bodies and Souls. But will do well to consider how to avoid the Force of this siels. For, the Children, whose immediate Parents were believers (if a continued Course of open Prophaneness y denominate Persons to be such) were born Mems of the Jewish Church, as well as those of the most inent Believers; and yet it is the Covenant-interest, Church-membership of Believers Children only that contends for.

But let us hear his Answer. If they were turn'd out, it is be either by Christ himself, or his Apostles. And it Christ himself did not do it, he labours to prove divers Instances, as (1.) From his Discourse with the loman of Samaria, where he tells her, Salvation is of Jews. (2.) From his calling the Jews Children, and the teeks Dogs, Mark vii. 26, 27. (3.) From his Commanding Seventy, when they entred into an House, to say, Peace be to this House, Luke x. 5. (4.) From what he said of the Child, which he set in the midst of his Disciples, Mark in 36. (5.) From his telling Zaccheus, This Day is Salvating come to this House, for smuch as he also is the Son of his braham. (6.) From his taking little Children in his Arm and commanding his Disciples to suffer them to come to his with the Reason of that Command; For of such is his Kingdom of Heaven. But none of these Instances reather Point in hand, as will appear by a particular smination of them. For, before the Death of Christ Constitution of the Church was not altered, nor the middle Wall of Partition between Jew and Gentile broke down, nor the sirst Covenant taken away, that the second might be established.

For the I. When our Lord faith, Salvation is of I Jews, it imports, that they injoy'd the Oracles of G the means of Salvation, and that the Word of the Lords from them to go forth to others, as Isa. ii. 3.

As to the II. Of Christ's calling the Jews Children but the Gentiles Dogs, it only shews, as I said before, the Partition-wall between Jew and Gentile, the Found tion whereof was laid in that Covenant of Peculiar which God made with Abraham for his natural Sestill remain'd.

His III. Of the lax is as little to the Purpose as two former. For in being directed to say, Peace be to House they entred into, they were to desire the God Peace would bountifully bless with all good things, a poral, spiritual, and eternal, the whole Family that ceiv'd their Persons and Doctrine. But what is this Infant-baptism?

As to the IV. The Child that Christ set in the midhis Apostles, Mark ix. 36. doth not appear to have been young, as not to be capable of understanding what heard, as shall be shewn when I come to his VI. Instance Besides, the receiving such Children in Christ's Name is generally understood of those, who, as to some Quafications, are like Children, viz. actual Believers, Matt. xviii. 6. And whereas he applies the Words our Saviour, Matt. xviii. 14. to the Instants of Believe in general, if it were granted him, that these Words tend the Care of God over new-born Children; (whi e that considers the preceding Verses will hardly
b) yet that God willeth the Deliverance of all such Chilren of Believers from Perdition, and not likewise some those of Unbelievers, will be hard to prove; not can by Argument be setch'd from thence for admitting the rmer to Baptism, and excluding the latter. His unchatable Question therefore, Whether rejecting them be not jetting Christ? equally recoils on his own Practice.

The V. Instance, concerning Zaccheus, I have sufficiitly spoke to already in the preceding Chapter. And hether Zaccheus was a Jew, as some think, and is therere call'd here a Son of Abraham; or, whether this is to understood as he was a sincere Convert, to which tter Opinion I rather incline; 'tis equally foreign to he matter in hand.

His VI. is built upon Mark x. 13, 14, 15, 16. Matt. xix. 3, 14, 15. Luke xviii. 15, 16, 17. Where he tells us; here was a special Occasion offer'd to our Lord to speak his Aind very plainly concerning the Children of the Church: nd adds; They all three shew, that Christ commanded to affer little Children to come to him, and forbid them not; wing this Reason; For of such is the Kingdom of Heaven. These Texts being often produc'd in defence of Pedobapism, I shall indeavour somewhat more distinctly to shew hat they afford no Countenance to it.

And (1.) The Word maisia in the two former Places. nd Beson in the last, (the former of which our Tran-Pation renders young Children, and little Children, and he latter Infants) are observ'd by Interpreters to fignify ometimes those of a more grown Age. So Grotius, upon the above mention'd Place in Matthew, as he is cited by Mr. Poole in his Syn. Crit. Hac vox vassia de paulo provectiore etate interdum accipitur; sic & Besous vox, ut iquet, 2 Tim. iii. 15. i. e. This Word was sia sometimes denotes a more grown Age; so also doth the Word Besoos, as is clear from 2 Tim. iii. 15. And upon Luke xviii. 15. Neque vox Beson, neque illud, quod apud Marcum est, vaynaxioauevos, satis valide probant de Infantibus bic agi. i.e. Neither the Word Beeon, nor that in Mark, evaquantsaueros, is a sufficient Proof that Infants are here treated of. Neque enim erat lan parvus Infans, ut ulnis gestandus esfet, quippe qui vocatus Christo accurrerit, ut ex Matt. discimus. Imo Christus pues rum juxta se constituit, Luc. ix. 47. i. e. 'Tis not ill ren der'd imbracing. Nor was it so small an Infant as to be care ried in the Arms, fince being call'd by Christ, it run to him as we learn from Matthew. Nay, Christ set the Child him, Luke ix. 47. But (2.) If they were Infants, then is nothing in any of these Passages to assure us that the Parents were Believers, and therefore no Privilege the Believers Children injoy above others can be prov'd from them. Nor do we know who brought them, whether their Parents, or others. The most therefore that can be infert from this Act is, that those Persons were perswadd Christ was a Prophet; which many were convinc'd d who never depended on him as the Messiah, and only Saviour, for Righteousness and Life. (3.) It plainly a pears from hence, that altho' John the Baptist, and on Lord, by the Hands of his Disciples, had baptiz'd m ny adult Persons, John iv. 1, 2. before this time, ya fuch young Children as these had never been baptiz'd b them; yea, that the Disciples had never heard from th Mouth of our Lord, that they ever should be. For, has it been usual to bring Children to John and Christ for that end, it could never have feem'd strange to the Di sciples that these should be brought to him, nor would they have presum'd to forbid them to obey the known Commands of their Lord. And here being so fit an 00 casion offer'd to our Lord, to have declar'd his Pleasure concerning their Admission to Baptism, if he had design'd it his not giving the least Intimation thereof, so far as appears by all the Evangelists, makes the Consequence much mon natural, that 'tis not his Will they should be baptiz'd, that the contrary, as Mr. H. would infer.

As for the Words, by some so much insisted on, that of such is the Kingdom of Heaven, whatsoever the Sense of them be, unless we were inform'd that these were the Children of believing Parents, which, as I said before, none of the Evangelists affirm, they can prove nothing. For, if we should (as Mr. H. would perswade us) understand the Gospel Church by the Kingdom of Heaven, it would way favour his Cause; for the Pedobaptists deny the reatest part of Infants a Right of Admission into it; and hose, whose Right they plead for, they allow only the mpty Name without the thing. And it feems very strange me how our Congregational Brethren, who require an press Covenanting of those they receive into Fellowip with them, can pretend to own the Church memrihip of Infants, whom they know to be uncapable of is. And taking the word such, by way of Proportion or militude, to fignify those who in Humility, freedom from lice, &c. are become like Children; should we expound Kingdom of Heaven, to mean the Church of Christ on rth, this Explication will be still wider from the Purfe. But I rather suppose by the Kingdom of Heaven here, Kingdom of Glory is intended. And should any say, young Infants have a Right to Heaven, it is unreasonato deny them a Right to Baptism; I need only reply, is equally unreasonable to deny them Communion with Church Militant in the Ordinance of the Lord's Supwho have a Right to Communion with the Church iumphant in Service more sublime and spiritual.

His Indeavour to expose those, who deny that Infants are pable to have the Seeds and Principles of Grace infus'd o them, no way concerns me; for I grant the Omnitent God can work Grace in them when he pleases; fear not to affert that Gospel Ministers, by the Comstion of Christ, and Practice of his Apostles, are directto expect a Discovery that he hath so done, before they nit them to Baptism. And they are certainly not ined into all the Seed of Believers; nor is it possible to bw which of them in particular partake of it, till they ke a Profession of Faith, and therefore it can be no Wart, from some of them partaking of such latent Habits, baptize them all. And why may not some Children Unbelievers be renew'd by the Spirit of God in Infancy, ich notwithstanding is not alleg'd as a Reason for their mission to Baptism?

What he tells us p. 52. That Infants are held forth by Christ Patterns in receiving Grace, and that this proves Infants the st part of the Church, &c. need not long be insisted on. others in receiving the same; but speaks of such Qualifications, which, by reason of their Age, are inherent in and common to the Children of Believers with those of Unbelievers. Besides, how any one can affert that In sants are the purest part of the Church, who owns them to be born in original Sin, unless he will affert they are a sanctify'd by the Spirit of God, I am not able to discen That they have not contracted equal Guilt with the adult by actual Transgression, nor are alike harden'd in the woof Sin with old Sinners, who have been accustom'd too Evil, I readily grant; but that they may justly be affine to be purer, whilst unregenerate, than truly sanctify Souls, as all Church-members ought to be, he would dowe to prove.

But he proceeds to object against himself, That Christinot command these Children, that were brought to him, be baptiz'd. To this he answers, That we do not read commanded the grown Persons that brought them to be tiz'd. Perhaps they and their Children too were baptiz'd fore. He must have a very mean Opinion of his Read who thinks to impose upon them with such trisling a jectures, and a bare perhaps in a matter of this simple tance. And I have a little before shewn, that 'tis m more probable from this place, that Infants had not till the been brought to Christ on any account, much less not the state of the same of the same baptiz'd.

He goes on to tell us, That altho' there is nothing here of the baptizing of these Infants, yet our Lord clares them to be such Persons that other Scriptures show to be baptiz'd. And for the Proof of this he attempt bring several Arguments.

The Persons, who by the Direction of God's We have a Right to Baptism, are such who confess their Matt. iii. 6. who by preaching are made Disciples, who iv. 1. Matt. xxviii. 19. who make Profession of Faith gladly receive the Word, Mark xvi. 16. Acts ii. 41. 12, 37, 38. xviii. 8, &c. Let us see therefore if any these Characters are given by Christ to these Children.

I. They are said to come to Christ. And he adds; For lievers bringing their Children to Christ, is esteem'd all with Children's coming themselves. I am oblig'd to rephere, tho' unwillingly, what I have said already touching matter, that it don't certainly appear the Parents of the Child hildren were Believers, or that they were brought by hem. And 'tis only a corporal approaching to Christ's odily Presence that is here mention'd, and not a coming Baptism. Nor does our not being satisfy'd to admit em to that Ordinance, hinder their coming to Christ Faith, tho' we should be glad to bring them to him, far as lies in our Power, in any way of his own Instituon. But let Believers Children take heed of resting secure. account of their Parents bringing them to Baptism. ithout coming actually themselves to Christ by Faith; for hatever Mr. H. fays of it's being all one, there will rtainly be found a vast difference between them.

II. Our Lord approv'd the pious Act, but was much difeas'd with his own Disciples for opposing it. But what is is to the discriminating Characters of those who are the toper Subjects of Baptism? I have shewn already in what nse they were brought to our Saviour.

III. The King himself declares them to be of his Kingdom?

his has been explain'd before.

IV. Our Bleffed Lord doth not limit his Command to those tels Children then present, but upon the occasion of these, eclares the Privilege of all the Infants of Believers. He vill do well to tell us what this Privilege is, for till it e prov'd Christ commanded those Children to be bapz'd, the Antipedobaptists will never be perswaded 'tis a light to Baptism.

rant of it. But this can afford no Warrant or Direction to his Ministers to account all the Offspring of Believers fo, and to administer an Ordinance to them all without distinction. And if he should mean the latter I do not find that he pretends Ministers ought to lay hand on them for that End, or that they can by Baptism con fer Grace upon them. Our Opinion no more suppose that the Heart of Christ is set against Children, than his Nor does it give the least Shadow of Reason for such Question, Whether Christ excommunicated Infants bylan ing his Hands on them. If they are born Church-men bers, they so remain, tho' not baptiz'd; as the Females, tho' uncircumcis'd, under the Law; if not, Baptism a lone maketh none Church-members. But all his Extle mations against us for denying Infants Church-member ship, the Practice of our Congregational Brethren, wh no more admit them to it than we, shews to be men ly Vox & traterea nihil, Nothing but Noise. And exce he could pretend to convey a Right to his Childre by being a Member himself of any particular Church he, of any Man, might hold his Peace, and forbear confuring others for not allowing them that Name. Buth goes on,

VI. Christ holds them forth as Patterns of Grace to a grown Persons. This has been answered already.

VII. Another fit Occasion was offered to our Blessed Jesus to speak his Mind about Children, just before his last Suffering The Children of Zion were joyful in their King, Pfal. cxlin 2. Crying Hofanna to the Son of David, Mat. xxi. 9, 15, 16 Had there been such a thing as an Anabaptist then in being might not he have soon quenched their Zeal, with these or the like Words to them? Alas, poor Children! ye have little reas thus to rejoice at the coming of your King; you have more nul to weep and lament that he is come so soon; for ye will be great L fers, and will be fet farther off from God by his coming, &c. How far from the matter this Instance is every Reader may disten at first View. His Task was to prove, that Infants have a Right to Baptism, and surely the Children who cried in the Temple, Hosanna to the Son of David, were not such, but arrived to Years capable of making some discovery of Grace and a Profession of Faith, and to these we don't deny a Right to this Ordinance. Nor does the Word vioi, Sons An Answer to Mr. H's Seventh Chapter. 101 ed by the Septuagint, or mais as, Children, by St. Matthew, termine the Age, both of them being used to signify two Persons, as well as young Children. And because he sthought sit here to introduce the Word Anabaptist by yof Reproach, and would insinuate as if there was no such ing then in being, as Persons of their Sentiments whom he is by that Name; I must tell him, 'twill be past his Skill prove there was any such thing as a Pedobaptist in being at a time. I shall only add, that we are as willing as he to ourage our Children to render due Honour to Christ, I I think I have already shewn, that our Opinion owns ir Advantage by him to be as great as his.

CHAP. VII.

An Answer to Mr. H's Seventh Chapter.

R. H. as we have observed, began his preceding Chapter with a very odd kind of Objection, concerning Christ's turning Infants out of doors. To which there answers, If they were turned out, it must be either by rift himself, or by his Apostles. And we have in our Reply that Chapter confidered what he there advances, to prove s was not done by Christ himself. His Task therefore in s VII Chapter will be, to shew they were not excluded by Apostles, which he thus begins: Altho' Christ did not it in Person, yet he might give his Apostles Commission to n out the Children, for which there is much said to no pure, from Matt. xxviii. 19, 20. which they say was the Apostles mmission to disciple, and to baptize those whom they discipled. Baptism maketh none Church-members, neither doth purch-membership convey a Right to Baptism, since acrding to the primitive Pattern all were baptized before eir Reception into the Church. Whence it may appear at our Opinion, in not owning their Right to Baptism, more turns them out of the Church, than his. And if hrist's Commission, recorded! Mat. xxviii. 19, 20. Mar. i. 15, 16. gives his Ministers no Authority and Direction baptize Infants, it must follow they have none from him to do, unless they can shew some other Commission for H 3 that end. But altho' the Apostles, at Christ's Command baptiz'd such Jews before, who by teaching were make Disciples, John iv. 1. yet neither they, nor any other Ministers, have any Commission but this to baptize, since the Death of Christ. And there being no account in hold Scripture, that the Apostles after Christ's Death practice the baptizing of any, but professing Believers, there is more Warrant to baptize Infants, than adult Persons when make no Profession; and our Brethren own the Commission.

His Infinuation, that the denying the Interest of Believers Children, as such, in the Covenant of Grace, is and Gospel, may appear, from what is before prov'd, to be m only most uncharitable, but utterly untrue. And as to t Question, Must they teach, that the Covenant and Promi thereof, as running to Believers and their Seed, was repealed it may suffice to answer, that if by Covenant, he mean t Promise established of God in Christ before the Law w given at Sinai, this never run from Parents to Children, the Sense he contends for; but if he intend the Mount San Covenant, that is repealed, Heb. viii. ult. But he attempt to prove a Command, in Mat. xxviii. 20. to baptize Infan where our Lord requires his Ministers to teach their Dis ples all things what soever he had commanded; alleging the one thing Christ had commanded them was, to suffer little On dren to come to him, and forbid them not. If that will conte him, we are willing, not only, not to hinder their coming to Christ, but to pray for it, to further and incourage what we can. But that this proves nothing in reference the Point in Controversy, but rather affords us reason conclude our Lord never gave them any Command for the Practice, hath been shewn already.

What he fays, p. 58. concerning the Reception of Professis spoke to before. And his Assertion, That when said, Go Disciple all Nations, they must needs understand of such as were Disciples before, meaning Children, a stand him in no stead, the Children of Proselytes, or other being no where called Disciples in the Old or New Test ment. The Weakness of what he says about discipling House from Luke xix. 9. and of the Apostles discipling and baptive Houses, as such, hath likewise been already discovered.

But now we are called upon to observe the Apostles Commission explained by their preaching through the Acts. And bate may be decided by the Exposition which the Apostles eaching and Practice, as recorded there, give of it. This first and chief Instance, to prove Infants Baptism to intended in their Commission, from their Preaching, is ets ii. 39. The Promise is to you and to your Children. And re, if it was granted him, that God's Covenant with raham for his spiritual Seed, is intended by the Promise, herein Pardon of Sin, a new Heart, and Perseverance, &c. e ensured to them, the Antipedobaptists would not be ched (as he fays they are) by this Text. Nor can I think y of them so inconsiderate as to say, The Promise is urg'd a Condition of Repentance, &c. tho' some may affirm Reentance to be the Condition of the Promise; by which if ey mean no more than that none without Repentance can known by us to have an Interest in it, and that it is here ade only to true Penitents, I agree with them. Nor in he say of any one in particular, that this or that Infant th, or shall have Repentance unto Life granted it; and herefore can have no fair Pretence to deduce the Right of ny of them to that Ordinance, for the Administration of which a Profession of that Grace is here prerequired. urther to shew that this Text affords no Countenance to his Laufe, let a few things be well confidered.

An Answer to Mr. H's Seventh Chapter. 103 is I shall readily follow him, being content the Cause in

1. Neither Jews nor Proselytes, who were the Apostle's auditors, were actual Believers, at least not then known to be such, when this mention of the Promise was made to them. Nay they were such who had taken, and by wicked Hands crucify'd and slain the Lord of Life, Ver. 23. and thereby the chiefest of Sinners, and antecedently to this Gospel-call, only under Consternation and Dread, on actount of the greatness of their Sins, which then they were convinc'd of. And I hope he will not affert that these Murderers of the Holy Jesus were actually interested in the New Covenant, before Repentance and Faith in Christ were given to them.

And does he think the empty Name of Churdmembership, would have weighed any thing with these new Converts, who had been thoroughly convinc'd of Sin, and with so much Joy received the glad tidings of Pardon for themselves and theirs, upon Repentance?

But to prove further, that the Apostle here by the Promintended the Covenant of Promise made with Abraham, compares this place with Chap. iii. 13, 19, 25. and from the joint Consideration of them advances the following Promise the consideration of them.

Their being called the Children of the Covenant, Ver. 25. cannot intend their actual interest in the Promises of the Covenant whilst Unbelievers; but their Descent from them, with whom that Covenant was established, and who by God's appointment had a Right to the first Publication of the Grace of it, as Luke xxiv. 47. For when the Apostle began his Sermon, as well those converted by it, as those who were not, were all in a State of impenitency and Unbelief, the former at that time no more partaking of the great Promises of the Covenant, faith, Pardon, and Sanctification, than the latter.

He proceeds, pag. 64. to raise an Objection, That the Pronife, as to those afar off, is limited to those of them only, phom the Lord should call, Acts ii. 39. But to this he anwers nothing new, except where he tells us, from Acts iii. 5. compared with Gen. xxii. 18. & xii. 3. that the Gofpel pas to be carried on in the way of Families, or Fatherhoods, in all Nations; which Families, or Fatherhoods, are called Kindreds. From whence he infers, Those who would exclude the Infants of the Faithful, ought to prove they are not a kin to their own Parents. But then according to this Interpretation, many more, besides Children, would be intitl'd to Church-membership and Baptism, most believing Parents having many that are a kin to them, besides their own Children. Yea all Mankind are a kin each to other. For, God bath made of one Blood all Nations of Men, Acts XVII. 26. Tis true Children are more near a kin than most others; but then Husband and Wife are, at least, as nearly related as Parents and Children. Yet I know of none who affert the Faith of the believing Husband, or Wife, to give a Right of Admission to these Privileges to the Unbeliever, tho' they both make one Flesh. But let us hear Mr. Pool's Sense of Gen. xii. 3. " By all Families of the Earth (fays he) " all Nations are intended. And he adds; " Which is to " be limited to the Believers of all Nations, by the whole " Current of the Scriptures.

But he goes on to a second Argument, from Acts ii. 47. The Lord added to the Church daily such as should be saved. Whence he infers; Therefore the Infants of his People were added to the Church with their Parents. To deny this is to say, that the Lord will not save them if they die Infants.

There can be no Strength in this, unless it had been faid. every one that should be saved was added to the Church. And had it been so exprest, as 'tis not, it might well have been understood to relate only to such, of whom, by God's Ap. pointment, the Gospel Church was to consist. As to the Salvation of those who die Infants, enough hath been spoken already, in Chap. II.

We are told in the third place, that in Acts vii. we find Stephen preaching the Covenant of God with Abraham, but faith nothing of its being repealed, changed, &c. Ver. 5.7.

If it be fo, it is nothing but what we indeavour to do on felves, that is, to preach the Covenant established with him for his spiritual Seed. But those Words he directs us to an as little to his purpose as any he could have pitched upon being only an historical Narration of the former Transacti ons of God with Abraham, and of the Idolatry of the I raelites.

We are directed in the fourth place to Acts xiii. 32, 31, 42, 43, &c. to learn the Continuance of Infants Covenant interest and Church-membership; and the proof thence taken is, That Paul calls both Jews and Profelytes the Children of the Fathers, to whom the Promise was made, and pres ched the Covenant of Abraham with great Success to the Gentiles, as well as Jews and Proselytes.

That he calls the Profelytes the Children of the Fathers, needs better proof, altho' some of them, to whom he spake, were fo; it being no unusual thing to give such Appellations to an Auditory, that belong only to the greater part; but if they were intended by him, it must be that he accounted them his spiritual Children; for his carnal Seed they were not. And when any appear to be the spiritual Children of Abraham, we are as willing as he can defire, to own their Interest in the Covenant of Grace, and Right to Membership in the Gospel Church. But 'tis no pleasant Task to follow him in things so very remote from the point in Controveriv.

But he tells us, The Covenant of Abraham, which comprehends the Offspring with the Parents, is still continued to w Gentiles, being one of those Gifts of God of which he never repented. That the Doctrine of the Covenant of Grace, which the Lord to transacted with Abraham, as to grant here the Gospel is preached, is readily granted; but that elieving Parents, as that their Offspring, as such, are by eir Faith interested in it, is what ought to be proved;

d without this he only beats the Air, and talks to no arpose.

He brings a fifth Instance from Acts xvi. 14, 15. where dia saith, If you have judged me to be faithful to the Lord. which Words he supposeth she pleads her Faithfulness with spect to Abraham's Covenant, in having her Houshold bape'd, as soon as she was baptiz'd her self: and asks whether can be thought that they would have baptiz'd her in her m Person, if they had not judged her to have Faith?

I never understood before, that God, in transacting his ovenant with Abraham, required the Baptism of any, eier young or old; and must own my self unable to discern e force of the Reason he assigns for his Conjecture. eing he pleads only for the Baptism of Believers Children, ey would no more have baptiz'd her Children, if she had ny, than her felf, unless they had judg'd her to have Faith, ad Infants Baptism been a Duty. But we have another eason given us for this Notion; and that is, because the cople of God were not to come in and abide, and so have Comunion with any Gentiles, as Saints, till such Persons, and their red, received the Token of the Covenant, Gen. xvii. Exod. xil. o which I answer, (1.) Lydia appears to have been a Prolyte, and it is likely her Males, if she had any, were ciramcifed. But (2.) Paul well understood that the middle Vall of Partition between Jews and Gentiles was broken own, and that now it was not unlawful for him to go into ydia's House, altho' neither she nor her Houshold had een baptiz'd. (3.) I have shewn already in Chap. V. that here is much more reason to suppose she had no Children; there the following Instance of the Jailer's Houshold has kewise been confidered; and therefore I shall not burden he Reader with unnecessary Repetitions.

But in the same Page 67. We meet with another unfual Hint; That the Apostles, in preaching to Jews and Proelytes, say, The Promise is to you, and to your Children, and ye are the Children of the Covenant; but to the Gen-

Observe who they are to whom the Apostle says, 7h Promise is to you, &c. They are Jews and Proselytes, guilty of the highest Crimes. Yet these, if we may believe him were interested in the Promise, and in a State of Salvation, before they repented, and gladly receiv'd the Word, but the Gentiles were not; otherwise there could be no pretence in making such a Distinction, as he alleges, between them and the Gentiles. Wherefore, according to his reasoning, there was no occasion for Peter to have preach'd Repentant as prerequir'd to Baptism in those adult, since being in Covenant, they had by that means a Right to it. An if such as these were in Covenant, and so esteem'd by Apostles, before they repented, as he must suppose; would fain know what degree of Sin will deprive of descended from believing Parents, of that Interest in the Covenant which he deriv'd from them. It feems he think betraying and murdering the holy and just One would me When therefore may a Person look upon himself have by his own Act rejected the Grace or Duties of the Con nant? Nor do I see how Ministers can now observe su a Distinction, unless they go among Heathens, who has not made any Profession of the true God. Surely, all the Inhabitants of these Nations, who profess Christ, looks like the spiritual Children of Abraham, as those whom I would perswade us were visibly in Covenant, and in State of Salvation before Repentance. And I doubt not be our Pedobaptist Brethren shew more Love and Care the Souls of Men in their Preaching, than he has done Writing, by giving fo great Incouragement to ground less and dangerous Presumptions, which corrupt Name and a fubtil Tempter are always but too apt to improve and I perswade my self they will never follow his Direction tho' they lose the Advantage of such a Patron, he being to folv'd, it feems, if they do not, to leave them to fift ! themselves.

Paul and Silas by them, Acts Xvii. to, it, 12. he infers, That he Doctrine which would exclude Believers Infants, is not rue, because it will not bear, but continually flies from the eft of the Scriptures written in the Old Testament. We re as desirous as possible that this Command of Christ hay be obey'd, and the Example of the noble Bereans mitated; which, had it been carefully and diligently perormed by him, would have freed us from a great deal of rouble in this Treatise. The Scriptures of the Old Teament were no more design'd to instruct us in the Subjects f Gospel Ordinances, than what kind of Officers should adninister them. If any should undertake to prove the seeral Ranks of Officers in Subordination to each other. onstituted in some Churches, in Conformity to the legal attern, and argue against him and others, that the Apoles can't be suppos'd to have taught any such Doctrine, hat there is no Order of Gospel Ministers superior to Presbyters, because that will not bear the Test of the Old Teament Writings; or that the Gospel Church thould not be National, as the Legal was, for the same Reason; it is to e hop'd, I fay, in such a case they would not be at a loss o shew the Invalidity of this way of Reasoning, which when they have done, we cannot but be furnish'd with a Reply to him. Moreover, I thought the typical Holiness of the Jews, by which they had a Right to Admission in that Church, had been delign'd of God to fignify the real Holiness which should be requir'd for that End in the Gospel Church; or, which is the same thing, that the carnal Seed had been Types of the spiritual. And we know, that which is born of the Flesh is Flesh, John iii. 6. and none derive Holiness from their Parents, but all equally stand in need of Regeneration. And as the same Qualifications that are necessary to render any meet for the Lord's Supper, are prerequifite to Baptism; so the Exclusion of Infants from the latter will as well bear the Test of all the Scriptures in the Old Testament, as from the former. Besides, the Dodrines preach'd by the Apostles, which were thus examin'd by the Scriptures, were such that respected the Perfon and Offices of the Messiah, and the Nature of that Redemption which was to be wrought for Sinners by him, with the means whereby it should be accomplish'd; and not the Ordinances he should appoint, or the Subjects of them. For they expected an Alteration in these, when the Messiah came, as may be gather'd from John, Chap. i. and Chap. iv. And when the Bereans were convinc'd that Jesus was the Messiah, they could no longer doubt his Authority to appoint all things relating to Worship, as beff pleased him.

The Promise made of God to the Fathers, mention'd Acts xxvi. 6, 7. (which is his eighth instance) respects the Salvation purchased by Christ, and the Resurrection of the Body. Rare Proof of Infants Church-membership and Baptism! But we are directed also to the 22 Verse of the same Chapter, where Paul declares, That he faid none other things than those which the Prophets and Moses did say should come. But the Verse next following would have told him what those Doctrines were, which were thus foretold by Mofes and the Prophets, viz. That Christ should Suffer, and that he should be the first that should rise from the Dead, and should shew Light unto the People, and to the Gentiles. Apostle here declares, that there was no ground for them who believ'd Moses and the Prophets, to object a gainst his Doctrine; for by them the chief Heads he infifted on were foretold, as the Death and Resurrection of Christ, and the preaching of the Gospel thro' him unto the Gentiles. As to what he pretends of their fortelling that Children should not be turn'd out, it has been answered al ready; and I shall only add, that 'tis not very agreeable to Sense, to talk so much of turning Children out of a Covenant which they were never in, and out of a Church, whereof they never were Members.

But he fays, The Church under the New Testament is built on the Foundation of the Apostles and Prophets; for they laid not two Foundations, the Prophets one for the Jews, that would carry both adult, and Infants; and the Apostles another for the Gentiles, that would bear none but adult Persons. Church confider'd, as confifting of the true spiritual Seed, was both under the Law and Gospel built on Christ; the fure and only Foundation, and precious Corner-stone, which Foundation they might be faid to lay Ministerially, 1 Cor. iii. 10. Rom. xv. 20. as they were appointed and inabled by God to publish Christ to be the only Foundation, and direct Sinners to apply themselves to him. For other Foundation can no Man lay, I Cor. iii. II. And this Foundation is own'd by Antipedobaptists sufficient for all who are united to him, as the feveral parts of the Building

An Answer to Mr. H's Seventh Chapter. 113 o its Foundation. But what this avails to the matter

Debate, I must confess I can't discern.

He proceeds to tell us, If Believers Infants were not of e Number of God's Covenant People, &c. then were they all Mankind most miserable, as partaking with the Church all Ages, in her Sufferings; and adds, That they feem in particular manner to be the Objects of the Rage of Satan. d his Instruments. Of this he gives us several Instances: e Persecution of Isaac by Ishmael; the Command of Phaoh to have the Children destroy'd; the Opposition he afwards made against the Redemption of the Infant seed, Exod. 10, 11. and the cruel Rage of the Enemy against Christ nfelf, when an Infant, and all the Children in Bethlehem,

He might have confider'd in his first Instance, that Ishmael Persecutor was the Son of believing Abraham, as well as recuted Isaac. But one plain Testimony of Holy Scripture ould be of more weight with a Person seriously inquisie after Truth, than a thousand such Sophisms as these. at Satan and his Instruments exerted their Rage ainst the Infant-seed of Believers on that account, it n't appear from the Examples produc'd by him, but for easons of a far different Nature. If any one should unrtake to prove the Covenant-interest, and Church-memrship of the Children of Heathen, from the Lord's assignthis, as one Reason of his sparing the great City Niweb, that there were therein more than sixscore Thousand rons that could not discern between their Right hand and eir Left, I am perswaded he would deny this to be good oof that such have a Right to Baptism. And yet the your of God to any (and not to them only, but to others their sakes) must be, at least, as good an Argument their Covenant-interest, &c. as the Malice of Satan ainst any can be supposed to be. By those Words, If lievers Infants were not so privileged, they were of all Mannd most miserable, he must suppose, that otherwise there no hope of their eternal Happiness. But as it is certain d reneweth, and faveth all his Chosen ones among em, there is no reason to exclude any of them who e in Infancy, from that Number, unless the contrary had en reveal'd; and it feems very severe and unreasonable conclude, that all the Children of Unbelievers, dying in ancy, are damn'd.

But

But to perswade us Infants may be Members of the visible Church, he asks; Was not our Lord Christ, when an Infant, not only a Member, but the Head of the Church? And did not our Bleffed Saviour, by paffing thro' the State of Childbood, fanctify that Estate to Children? Yea, Did not his lying in the Womb, sanctify that Estate also to Infants in the Womb?

To this I need only return the following Questions, as our Saviour reply'd to the Jews, Matth. xxi. 25. (1.) Was not our Lord Christ Thousands of Years before his Conception, and lying in the Womb of the Virgin, the Head of the Church? (2.) Was it not the invisible Church confifting only of the Elect, who were Members of that mystical Body, whereof Christ was then the Head? And is it not somewhat unaccountable to pretend, that the time of Christ's Headship over the in visible Church, should determine the time for the a mission of any into the visible one? (3.) Are Childre before they are born Church-members, and thereby int tled to Baptism, by Christ's sanctifying that Estate to them This may with equal Reason be infer'd from his Words as that they are intituled to this Privilege as foon as the (4.) Was it not a Church of a different Con stitution from that of the Gospel, of which our Lord wa a Member in Infancy? 'Till he answer these Queries, shall think it needless to return his a more direct Re

I have thus far accompanied Mr. H. in confidering how the Apostles executed their Commission of Baptism, bot in their Preaching and Practice, from what is recorded them in their Acts, and find nothing either faid or don there, to countenance the Application of that Ordinand to Infants.

I now proceed to the Confideration of his Argu ment from Romans xi. And it ought in the first place to be observ'd, that the Apostles Discourse in this Chapter whereon so much Stress is laid, is Metaphorical, three Similitudes being here us'd by him. And it is well know that Metaphors run not (as we fay) on all four, and pro nothing beyond their chief Scope and Design. Tothe Enen Purpose, Dr. Owen in his Treatise of Perseverance, p. 410 And says, "Parables have their Bounds and Limits, their Line sew is and Proportions, Scope, and peculiar Intendment, be and a cc you vond which they prove nothing at all. To wring the Nose of a Parable, or Similitude, to force it to an univerfal Compliance, will bring forth Blood. There is nothing fo fottish, or foolish, or contradictious, in, and to it felf, as may not be countenanc'd from teaching Parables to be Instructive, and proving in every Parcel, or Expression that attends them." Here then we ight in the first place to inquire what is the chief Scope d Intention of the Apostle in this Chapter, and regulate rExposition by it. His chief Design therefore I take to have en this, To prevent the infulting of the Gentiles over e Jews, and the Despair of the latter, by afferting, and oving the general Call and Conversion of them in the ter Day. For, having before shewn, that the rejection the Jews was not total, he here afferts, it should not final; but that afterwards great Numbers of them ould, thro' the Power and Grace of God, be brought or to acknowledge and believe in the Lord Jesus. And ving declar'd Verse 12, 15. what an Advantage their onversion would be to the Gentiles, he advances this Arment, Verse 16. to prove the infallible Certainty of this eir future Conversion. If the First-fruit be Holy, the ump is also Holy; and if the Root be Holy, so are the ranches. Which Prediction not having yet receiv'd its ccomplishment, may afford us some Light into the heaning of these Words. I shall now briefly inquire that is intended by the First-fruits and Lump, and what y the Root and Branches; as also what that Holiness is which is here ascrib'd to them; and what is to be undergood by the good Olive-tree afterwards mention'd.

If the First-fruit and the Root are the same, as some think, what is faid of the latter must consequently be understood f the former. But if as others, with whom I agree, we make a difference between these two, then those Jews who were converted to the Faith of Christ in the pri-Thater mitive times, seem evidently to be intended by the Firstthree ruit; and by the Lump, the Body of that People, which hall be converted in the latter Day, as Verse 26. All Israel d prove hall be saved; whereby not a temporal Deliverance from Intended, and the former may be call'd the First-fruit, as being but it Line is in comparison of the plentiful Harvest at the last Day; and as being a Pledge of the Conversion of the rest of God's Chosen.

Chosen ones among that People, in being first convert ed, as Rom. xvi. 5. 1 Cor. xvi. 15. and chosen and separa ted by God's free Purpole of Grace in Eternity, and his effectual calling them in time, as our Apostle declares Verle 7. Israel (that is, the natural Posterity of Abraham and Jacob) hath not obtain'd that which he seeketh for, but the Election hath obtain'd it, &c. And fo, when he tell us of their Conversion at the latter Day, (when the Lun shall be brought in) Verje 28. he saith, As touching the lection, they are below'd for the Father's Sake. That is, God will then manifest and discover his Love in effectually calling them, and so accomplish the Promises made to their Fathers, of railing up a numerous spiritual Seed un to Abraham, both among Jews and Gentiles, that he had not want any of them, to which, by God's Appointment he was to stand in the Relation of a Spiritual Father. An accordingly I take inherent Holiness to be intended in the place; for so were the First fruits inherently Holy, and shall the Lump; otherwise they would not, as Verse a be all faved. For without fuch an Holiness none shall be favi Heb. xii. 14. In Contradistinction from the First-fruit taken in the Sense, by the Root here, I conceive with our Pedobapti Brethren, that Abraham is intended in the Relation of Covenant-head to his Seed, and the Branches to be this See And I see no reason to question, but Abraham ma ed to in this Chapter be represented as a Root in a double respect as I think we have fully prov'd already that he flood is Covenant-head to a twofold Seed, natural, and spiritu For here we have mention made of natural Branch whereby his natural Seed, as, fuch, are evidently to be derstood; and also of some that are Branches in him Faith, which are his spiritual Seed. This Text thereof can avail nothing to the Purpose, for which it is soft nuously urged, unless it be prov'd that the natural Seed Believers, as such, are the spiritual Seed of Abraham; Gol that every Believer stands related as a Root, or Comon in nant-head to his Seed, as Abraham to his; both which s Fait! fablish'd with Abraham in the latter Sense, as likewise onvert. he Elect among that People, which were the First fruits separa. the primitive times, and whom the Apostle, in Verse 7. y, and ainly intends; then the carnal Seed of Abraham himeclares If, much less of any others, can never be hence prov'd partake of such an Holiness as gives Right to Baptism. for, bu nt if it be their Relation to Abraham, as his fleshly Seed, which this Holiness is deriv'd to them, and that a feral Holiness gives Right to Baptism, then all the Jews ho have perish'd in Unbelief for more than 1600 Years, re federally Holy, and had such a Right, as well as ofe that shall be converted hereafter. Our Amotators, om I have so often cited, were sensible, that if the anches be the natural Seed, (as they suppose) then an liness, which they say also is federal, is to be ascrib'd to Jews at this Day. Their Words are these, in Answer this Question; Of what Holiness doth the Apostle here ak? "It is not meant (fay they) of inherent, but of federal, or Covenant holiness; all in an outward and viible Covenant with God, were call'd Holy. Many common things are call'd Holy in Scripture, because dedicated to God, and to his Service. Yea, Jerusalem, tho' a be H Place of great Wickedness, is call'd a holy City. In such a Sense as this, the Jews are still an holy People, they bapil have an hereditary kind of Dedication to God; they have a federal Holiness and Relation to God, as being on of for ever separated to him in the Loins of their Progenities tors; this can never be wholly forfeited, as being grantefped w this can agree with the Apostle's Argument, 'tis not od as y to imagine, fince the Conference of their Progeniod as y to imagine. y to imagine, fince the Consequence above mention'd iritial of then necessarily follow. But if we understand it of ancho raham's spiritual Seed among them, that is, those who chosen of God in Christ, to whom Abraham was designed in the stand in such a paternal Relation, it every way to which he brought it. For, if the Election obtain'd the Righteousness, and Life, at the first preaching of Gospel by Christ and his Apostles; so again, the Election in the last Days shall not fall short of it. If God che shall in converting the one, we may be assured the order. proval be fo in converting the other.

By the good Olive-tree, I understand the Church him of God, as daily partaking of vital Influence from Christ, (who is eminently the good Olive, as he is alsoth dot true Vine) and so none are real Branches in it under th Gospel but fincere Believers; tho' all who profess to believe appear as Branches. But such of them as partake not a the like precious Faith, at length will certainly be dife ver'd not to have been in truth, what they were in appearance; and fuch, till that Discovery be made, an call'd Branches in Christ, the true Vine, John xv. 4 be cause they were such by Profession, so esteem'd themselve and so reputed by others. There is no ground there fore to conclude, that any are intended in this Text a true and proper Branches in the good Olive, but the who are ingraffed into Christ by Faith; and such alon have a Right in foro Dei, in God's Account, to be Member of the visible Church in these Gospel days, tho' the Church in the reception of Members, can act but as Men, a cording to outward Appearance. The Members of the primitive Churches were called Saints, because, in Judgment of Charity, they were all accounted to Partakers of inherent Holiness. None but Believers take of the Root and Fatness of the Olive tree, viz. The Divine Influences that flow from Christ, the Head, in Root, to his Body the Church, diffusing spiritual L and Refreshment to every Member of his mystical B dy, to every real Branch in him. The Difference be tween the Jewish, and Gospel Church, is not small; i that they had a Right to Membership by carnal D Icent from Abraham, Isaac and Facob, whether the were true Believers or no, yea, tho' their Parents we not such; in this 'twill, I presume, be allow'd, by the at least with whom I am principally concern'd, that the Case is otherwise. This very Place shews, that their graffing, and standing is now by Faith, and so (as toth visible Church) it was not then. And what other pro bable Reason can be assign'd, why Unbelief should no cut off the Parents, and their Seed, when the Right the Children then did not depend on the Faith of in mediate Parents; except it be this, that the Covena with the natural Seed is repeal'd, and that Church-stat into which they were admitted Members, remov'd?

We may also observe, that the Apostle is so far from ce from countenancing any to purious the transport on, that he salfoth him, beyond what himself particularly insists on, that he salfoth him, beyond what himself particularly insists on, that he do believe to, and the Usage of Men with respect to them. For Men do not take a Cion from a wild Stock to graff into one of a be discounted the better kind, in order to produce better Fruit; but on the were is contrary they graff a good Cion into a wild Stock, because ade, at the Fruit will be of that fort which the Cion would have be produced, had it remained in its old Stock; and not of the semielve same kind with the Stock into which it is graffed. And of this he seems to give up some Intimation himself. Ver and the best same kind with the Stock into which it is graffed. this he seems to give us some Intimation himself, Ver. 24. For if thou wert cut out of the Olive-tree, which is wild by Nature, and graffed, contrary to Nature, into a good Oliveree. But 'tis time to consider what Mr. H. offers from this Text. And,

First, he asks what we are to understand by the holy Root, and good Olive-tree? To this he answers, as to the Root:

1. Not the Covenant of Works; for Believers are not graffed into, but deliver'd from that Covenant.

This I readily affent to, but see not well how it suits his purpole; for the Covenant with the natural Seed promised Life only on perfect Obedience, (as we have shewn before) and if it be not the Covenant with the natural Seed, what is this to the natural Seed of Believers?

2. Not Jesus Christ neither.

Altho' Christ be most properly and eminently the Root, whence Life, Growth and Fruitfulnels, is conveyed to the Branches; yet in this I agree with Mr. H. that the Apolitie feems not directly and immediately to intend him in this place. But his other Reason to prove Christ is not here intended, because the Jews are said to be natural Branches in this good Olive, but none are naturally in Christ, delerves a little further Remark. For fince he understands here (as we shall see presently) Abraham as a Covenant Father, and the Covenant of Promise, which God made and establish'd with him and his Seed, which he often tells us is the Covenant of Grace; is it a greater Absurdity to affirm their being naturally in Christ, than their being naturally in the Covenant of Grace? Is not Christ himself called the Covenant of the People, Isa. xlii. 6. xlix. 8? Is he the Sum of all the Covenant Bleffings, and they all abridged in him, and can any be in Covenant, and not in Christ? The Scripture speaks expresly to the contrary, Gal. iii. ult. If ye be Christ's, then are ye Abraham's Seed, i.e. interested in the Covenant of Grace, which God transacted with him in a peculiar manner. What is here suggested must, it seems, be such a Covenant of Grace, as freeth not from Condemnation; for they only are deliver'd thence, who are in Christ, Rom. viii. r. fuch an one as gives no Hope of Glory; for they are in Christ, and he in them, who partake of that Hope, Col. 1. 27.

3. Not Mount Horeb's Covenant, nor the Jewish Church state, considered as national under one High Priesthood, for these were abolished by Christ.

That the Jewish Church was constituted national under one High Priefthood, 'tis plain; he here then grants that the Jewish Church-state, as constituted of God, is now ablished. He will say, he owns it abolished as national, but not that the whole Fabric was taken down. If God hath abolished a national Church-state, and given Laws for eresting another instead of it, no Materials must be put into this new Building, but what the Lord himself hath given Commission to place in it; and he has directed the laying lively Stones, and no other, into this spiritual House, I Pet ii. 5. Neither will it in the least follow, because Infants (tho' not as the Infants of immediate believing Parents but only as descending from Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob were Church-members then; that therefore the Infants of believing Parents, as such, must be Church-members now. God gave plain Directions for their Reception as Members then, but hath given no fuch Directions now; and had it teen his Will now as it was then, the Son, as a Fruit of his Love and Care, would have given us as plain Directions for it, as the Servant did.

4. Nor Abraham neither, as a natural Father, simply for considered, &c.

This I readily grant, and withal conclude, that Believers, as natural Parents, convey no federal Holinefs, or Right of Church-membership to their natural Offspring, as fucn; and if Abraham's had deriv'd an Interest in the Cover nant of Grace from him, those natural Branches would never have been broken off. But he proceeds now to acquaint us directly what he understands by this holy Root.

5. I understand (lays he) by this holy Root, Abraham, as lat t a Covenant Father, and the Covenant of Promise made with him and his Seed, Cen. xvii. 7, &c. That

Belie-

That

That 'tis my Opinion likewise, that Abraham is here intended as a Covenant Father, I have shewn already; altho' fee no reason to believe, that the Covenant transacted with him, Gen. xvii. 7. for his natural Seed, is all the Apostle hath respect to in this place; but that as there was a Covehant established with him for his spiritual Seed, as well as for his natural, the former is more principally intended; ho' the Apostle in this Chapter may have some respect to hem both, and consider Abraham as a Root, or Covenantead to both those Seeds; the natural Branches, which vere broken off, being his natural Seed only, and those of he Jews that stood being also his spiritual Seed, as well as he Gentiles, which were graffed in, and stood by Faith. nd, I think Mr. H. may as well attempt to prove any hing, the most impossible in Nature, as that the natural eed of Believers, as such, are the spiritual Seed of Abraam; and his natural Seed to be fure they are not. What his contributes then to evince the federal Holiness of Belieers Children, I fee not.

Secondly, he goes on to give us his Sense of the good Oliveee, by which, fays he, I understand the Church of God, nsidered as visible, as growing on, and receiving its Fatness, at is, Privileges, from this holy Root or Covenant.

Whether we understand by the good Olive, the visible, or wifible Church, confifting of God's Elect, (this latter being any times in holy Scripture called the Church, as, Eph. i. t. v. 25. Heb. xii. 23.) fo far as it respects the Church in ofpel times, the difference is not great; because none are Members of any particular visible Church, that are not fembers of the invisible one; those only who have first ven themselves to the Lord, and then give themselves to e Church, being fit to be received. And if the visible hurch be here intended, it must be as consisting of partiplar Congregations, made up of proper Subjects. For one but sincere Believers partake of the Root and Fatness of s, of e Olive tree; and all that are here said to have a standing ag, as erein are Believers, such only being interested in the Co-Cover mant of Grace; neither is there the least Intimation of ld ne by belonging to it, but such as are ingraffed, which implies maint mion with Christ and his Church. And if by Privileges which Mr. H. fays the Fatness of the Olive-tree denotes, at the ingraffed Gentiles partake of with the believing with mis) he intend external ones only, I conceive he is greatly mistamistaken. For the choicest and most spiritual Blessings which they receive thro' Believing (which external Ordinances are only a Means of conveying to them) must necesfarily be meant by the Fatness of the Olive-tree, into which they are ingraffed, which flow from Christ to his whole Church, and every particular Member of it. But it will be faid. Doth not the visible Church consist of many Members that are not united to Christ? and are not many united to Christ, that are no Members of any particular visible Church? I readily grant both. But as to the former, the Apostle may very well here be understood, as looking upon them what they ought to be, and as the Church is bound in Duty to take care, to the best of her knowledge, that they may be; and for the latter, they belong to the universal Church, are fit Subjects for a particular visible Church, and are willing, when God clears up their way, and gives then opportunity, to become Members of some particula Church of Christ's appointment. And I see not well what tolerable Sense he can fix upon the Apostle's Words, of in graffing Branches by Faith into the good Olive, which wer taken from the wild Olive; except by the good Olive we w derstand the Church, as united to Christ, and bringing forth good Fruit, being first made good by the Grace whi floweth from Christ assimilating them to him, which true of none but found Believers. For he speaks of it is glorious Privilege confered on the Gentiles, and so it is be a Member of the invisible Church, and no small ones be a fit Member of a particular visible Church. But I thin it so far from being a Privilege confered by God on a unrenewed Persons, to be admitted Members of a partic lar Church, that it is disallowed of God, and prejudicial them. But under the Law it was much otherwise; the every circumcifed Person had a Right to Membership that National Church, and, being legally clean, to all Ordinances appointed for it, whether they were regenera or not; their legal Purification being typical of that in rent Holiness, which is necessary to give a just Right tot Ordinances of Christ in the Gospel Church. If then t fame Qualifications were not prerequired as necessary Membership in the Jewish Church, which are in the Golf Circu Church, no folid Argument can be taken from the Subject of the former, to prove the Right of the same Subject Branc to the latter. Their carnal Descent from Abraham gave they, Rig

Right to Circumcifion, and these two to all Privileges of Church Members; now we are to know no Man after the Flesh any more, 2 Cor. v. 16. And of this John, at the first Administration of the Gospel Ordinance of Baptism, gave notice to the Pharifees and Sadducees, when they came to demand Admittance to it, Matt. iii. 8, 9. Bring forth therefore Fruits meet for Repentance, and think not to say within your selves, we have Abraham to our Father. Nay in this very Chapter the Apostle tells us, the natural Branches are broken off, none but Believers, either of Jews or Gentiles, standing as Branches in the good Olive in these Gospel Times. From the whole I conclude, that that Church-state, and the Covenant whereon it was founded, are now abolished; and that none by their natural Descent can claim a Right of Admission into the Gospel Church; tho' the Jews, as Abraham's natural Seed, were owned of God as his Church and People, in that legal Dispensation, by which this more spiritual one was typified.

Thirdly, By natural Branches (lays he) we are to underfrand all those who were born within the Church and Covenant, Gal. ii. 15. such who were descended from former Proselytes, as well as such that were descended lineally from Abraham's Loins, Numb. xv. 13 to the 17. John iv. 22. Ezek. xlvii. 22. & xvi. 20, 21. both Hebrews of the Hebrews, (as Paul was) and Hebrews of former Proselytes, were natural Branches of the good Olive-tree.

If the whole of this be granted, Mr. H. will gain nothing from it; unless he could prove that the Covenant and Church-state into which they were received, was the same that believing Gentiles are now under; tho' what he fays here does not appear fo clear and well proved, as he would perswade us. That no Stranger sojourning among the Children of Israel in the Land of Canaan might eat the Passover without submitting to Circumcision, isplain from Exed.xii. 48, 49. he and every Male in his House, as well Servants as Children; and, that when he and his Males were circumcised, he and his Houshold were admitted to the Passover, and other Offerings, 'tis no less evident, Numb. ix. 14. xv. 14, 15. But, that the Children and Servants of these Strangers, who by God's appointment were to be admitted to Circumcision, and other Jewish Ordinances, were natural Branches in the good Olive, is eafier faid than proved. they, as such, were interested in the Covenant of Grace, none, none, who confider well what they fay, will affert; or, that fuch as these, some of whom might perhaps be * com. pelled by their Masters to submit to Circumcision, may warrantably be admitted into the Gospel Church, al. tho' they were into the Jewish. So far is it from being true, that the same Subjects, that were by God's appointment admitted into the one, have a Right of Admission in. to the other. But it will be faid, 'Tis the Children only, and not Servants of Profelytes, that are natural Branches in the good Olive, as being born of Church Members. But then the Offspring of these Slaves must be accounted natural Branches too, as being born of Church Members. Ought the Christians in America to require all their Slaves to be baptiz'd, and all the Children born of them in their Hopfes? And ought all these, together with their Christian Masters, be admitted Members of the Church; and the Children of these Slaves, only on the account of the Membership of their Parents (of whom Faith and Repentance were not required as necessary Prerequisites to their Admisfion) be accounted natural Branches in the Christian Church? This I have the more reason to press, because he intimates that the Admission of Proselytes into the Fewish Church, was de sign'd perhaps to foreshew how freely and abundantly the Gentile should be received into the same Covenant of Abraham, the and their Seed with them, when the Wall of Partition should he broken down again, p. 39. I think it is plain therefore, that by the natural Branches, in this place, only the natural Seed of Abraham are intended, which the Posterity of Profelyes were not; it being the natural Posterity of Abraham by Isaac, whose future Conversion the Apostle here foretels, and withall endeavours to prevent the Gentiles infulting over. Nay it is directly contrary to his Scope and Defign to interpret the natural Branches to intend proselyted Gentiles in well as natural Jews, as Mr. H. afferts.

As to what he adds further, That the ofter Posterity of Profelytes, that settled among and continued in the Church of strael, were not in after Ages called Proselytes, but Jews, &c. it hath only his positive Assertion. And 'tis well known there was sufficient ground to continue that Distinction between Jews and Proselytes on the account of the Inheritan-^{*} See Mr. Pool's Annor. on Exod. xii. 44. cited before in p. 82.

An Answer to Mr. H's Seventh Chapter. 125 ces, which Proselytes had no Right to possess with the Jews, in the Land of Canaan.

But he subjoins, Yea sometimes the Proselytes themselves mere called Jews, Efth. viii. 17. and Jether, an Ishmaelite being become a Proselyte, is call'd an Israelite, 1 Chron. ii. 17. with 2 Sam. xvii. 25. In Efth. viii. 17. we are told, Many of the People of the Land became Jews, for the Fear of the Jews ell upon them. But the Compliance of the Persons there poken of, with Circumcision, who it is likely also for a ime professed to turn from dumb Idols to the living God, vas the effect of Fear and not of Faith; for dreading the fews Resentments of their former Provocations, they hyporitically feigned themselves of their Religion, seeing them be the Men in favour at Court, and thence are called afer their Name. Whether Mr. H. would have the Posteriy of these Men pass for natural Branches, as the Design of is bringing this Instance seems to import, I know not. at if these were natural Branches in the Jewish Church, will make that Church look too unlike the Churches of hrist's Appointment under the Gospel, to leave any room or an Imagination, that the same Church-state is yet rehaining; or, that the Right of Infants to Membership in he Gospel Church is like to receive much countenance om the Children of Proselytes being born Members of that gal one. As to his other Instance of Jether the Ishmaelite ting called an Israelite, Mr. Poole tells us'tis not fether, but is Son Amasa, who is meant 2 Sam. xvii. 25. His Words re: " Ithra, or Jether, Amasa's Father, is called an Ishmaelite, 1 Chron. ii. 17. because he was such, either by his Birth from such Parents, or by his long Habitation among them, or for some other Reason now unknown. And Amasa is here called an Israelite, either, because he was a Profelyte; or, in opposition to Joab, who was of the Tribe of Judah, as Amasa was one of the ten Tribes; or rather, to intimate, that altho' he or his Parents were called Ishmaelites for some reason, yet as to their Extraction they were indeed Ifraelites. Which if Amasa had not been, 'tis not probable that he could have had fo powerful an Influence upon the Tribe of Judah, as he had, Chap. ix. 14." But supposing it either Amasa or Jeper that is here intended, we see Mr. Poole, after his long Converse with the best Critics and Commentators, remained oubtful as to the true Reason of his being called an Israelite, which which Mr. H. adventures positively to determine as a Matter of no difficulty.

But he goes on; In this Rom. xi. the holy Root is spoken of as still in being, as a Root now under the New Testament.

The Covenant of Grace, transacted with Abraham for his spiritual Seed, is yet in being; but the Covenant made with him for his natural Seed was abolished by Christ.

He adds; And the good Olive-tree is Spoken of, as fill standing, and retaining its Fatness: Some of the Branches were broken off from it indeed, but the Tree was not broken down, as some would have it.

As God had a Church under the Law, fo he has also a more spiritual Church under the Gospel; and as Believers were then united to Christ, and received continual Supplies from him, they no less receive them now, tho' the Churchstate be different.

He ad'ds further; Again, we read that some, not all of the natural Branches were broken off from the good Olive-tru; and that some Branches were cut out of the wild Olive-tru, and were graffed into the good Olive-tree.

It must be owned that all the Jews were not cut off from a Right to Membership in the true Church, both the Be lievers among them, as well as those gathered out of the Gentiles, being received into the Gospel Church. But altho the former were indulged a while in holding occasional Communion with the Jewish Church in some virtually ab rogated Ordinances; yet they were no longer Members of that, but of a Gospel Church, far different from it, both a to Matter and Form.

But Mr. H. proceeds now to bring this Matter into small compass, for he tells us in his next Words, The Question is but this; Whether the Children of those Israelites the were broken off, were broken off with their Parents? And whe tre for the Children of those Gentiles that were ingraffed, were do his ingraffed with their Parents?

All Unbelievers, whether Parents or Children, are composed off from a Right of Admission into the Gospel Church, the force standing therein being by Faith, as the Apostle expressly dens wit clares; and all Believers, whether Parents or Children part have a just Right of Admission into it. If the Parents be content have, and not the Children, the Parents are admitted, and nall Verent there is the Children are Police and the Parents are desired. not they; if the Children are Believers, and the Parent render remain in Unbelief, the Children ought to be admitted of the

1. It is clear from many Texts of Holy Scripture, that infants are called Buds (render'd Offspring) of their Parents, who are the Branches out of which they bud and oring. Nay, when a Branch hath budded, these Buds are n the Branch as a part thereof; so that if a Person break ff a Branch from a Tree when it hath Buds on it, he breaks If the Buds with the Branch. And 'tis matter of Fact, hat when these Branches of the good Olive-tree were broen off, their Buds, their Offspring, were broken off with hem, and so continue to this very Day.

The latter part of these Words contains an Answer to he preceding Question, so far as relates to the cutting off he Jews; as the former part assigns a Reason, or Illustraion of it. In return to the Answer, I have no occasion to dd any thing to what I have last said. But, as to the Reason, If there is nothing so sottish or foolish, (as we althor Reason, If there is nothing so sortish or foolish, (as we fooling heard before from Dr. O.) as may not be countenanc'd from lay able teaching Parables and Similitudes to be instructive, and propers of ving in every Parcel or Expression that attends them; what out as must be thought of his arguing from Branches to Buds, when the Apostle does not so much as mention Buds. when the Apostle does not so much as mention Buds, into a nor intimate the cutting off any, but for their own Un-belief, nor of the graffing in of any but actual Belie-ters. And could he prove that the Offspring of Persons at what are sometimes intended by Buds, what Service would it were the provention of the could also show, that where Excision rom, or Admission into the Church in Gospel times is from, or Admission into the Church in Gospel times is are an spoken of, that Term is ever so used in the Sense he would the the force upon this Place? But tho' at other times he plies as with a numerous Citation of Scriptures, for the most ildren part little or nothing to the purpose; yet here he has contented himself barely to affert, that where the original Word imports Buds, our Translators have many times parent render'd it Offspring, without directing us to one Instance mitted of that Nature. And he might as well (when his hand was in) have pursued the Similitude a little further, and put us in Mind, that when ingraffed Branches produce Fruit, within the Fruit are contain'd Seeds, which being sown, produce Stocks, yielding Fruit of a wild Kind; and thence have infer'd, what every ones Observation may confirm, that Children of good Parents derive not Grace from them, but stand in as much need of ingraffing by Faith as their Parents did.

But, as if he had sufficiently prov'd from Branches bearing Buds, and the natural Branches being broken off, that the Offspring of the Jews were broken off with their Parents; he would in the next place infer the ingraffing the Offspring of believing Gentiles with their Parents. But as the Servants of the natural Jews and Proselytes were admitted into that Church with their Masters; if (ashe saith) the ingraffing of the Gentiles must be suitable to the breaking the Jews off, he must affert the Right of Believers Servants, as well as that of their Children, or else the Case is not parallel.

2. The ingraffed Branches could not be said to have a mutual Fellowship, or to partake with the Jews of the Root and Fatness of the Olive-tree, as they are, Verse 17. if they had not the same Privilege for their Buds, or Offspring, as the natural Branches had for theirs; for then they would want one of the chiefest Privileges which the natural Branches injuy'd. For a Branch to partake of the Root and Fatness of the Olive-tree, is to have Sap and Virtue from the Root to live, grow, and bud; and for its Buds to become Branches, and bear Buds, &c. so long as they abide in the Root. By their partaking with the Jews, of the Root and Fatness of the Olive-tree, the Apostle cannot intend, with those that were broken off, but only with the Believen of that typical People, who stood when the others were broken off. For the former never partook of the choicest Bleslings of the Covenant of Grace, which the believing Members of the Jewish Church did all along, and those of the Gospel Church now do. And that the Offspring of the believing Jews were not admitted to Baptism and Church-membership with their Parents, save only those of them who appear'd to have been effectually call'd, has, I think, been sufficiently proved. But his Exposition of partaking of the Root and Fatness of the Olive-tree, seems to me very dark and intricate. I would not understand what what he fays of having Sap and Virtue from the Root to live, row, and bud, of an animal Life, growth of Body, and rocreation of Children; and if a spiritual Life, and growth f Grace be intended, as this inables them not to bear luds, so neither will it bring their Seed within the Bond the New and Everlasting Covenant, as is before pro-

3. In Verse 22. God's Act to the Branches broken off, is alled his Severity on them; and his Act towards the ingraff-t Branches is call'd his Goodness towards them. 'Tis evient, that this Act of Severity reach'd to the breaking off the abelieving Jews, and their Seed with them; therefore this set of Goodness to Gentile Believers, did suitably reach to eingraffing of believing Gentiles, and their Seed with them. I deny this, is to say, that God's Goodness is not so great ingraffing new Branches, as his Severity in breaking off d ones, contrary to Verse 11, 31. and to the Current of ripture. Having already shewn that only Unbelievers were bron off, and none but Believers graffed in; 'tis sufficient at the Suitableness between the breaking off the Jews, nd ingraffing of the Gentiles, answer in that respect, as manifestly does; nor is there any thing in the Words, the Apostle's Design to authorize our straining it any rther. Neither does it follow, as Mr. H. would pervade us, that if the Agreement reach not to the ingraffing believing Gentiles, and their Seed with them, the Goodness God is not so great in this Case, as his Severity; since the dvantages granted to the Offspring of God's People under he Gospel are vastly preferable to those under the Law, tho' they are not now admitted to Church-memberip in their Infancy, as then they were. For the means eternal Life and Happiness, as now reveal'd with far reat Clearness, abundantly excels all the Privileges which he carnal Seed, the Types of the spiritual, injoy'd beore.

4. The Apostle here speaks of the graffing in of no more of the Jews in the last Days, but such as shall believe Verse 23. And they also, if they abide not still in Unbelief shall be graffed in. As we have no Account of the Admi fion of any more of the First-fruits of that People in the primitive times, but actual Believers; not a word of the Buds; so as little is said of the graffing in of any at li but the Election, partaking of Faith as the Effect of God Purpose of Grace. As to those who believ'd, they were not be ken off from a Relation to God as his Church, tho'the stood not Members of the same Church to which the Birth-privilege gave them Admittance. But that in the Gospel Church the Children of these were Members withem, since no such thing is intimated by the Apostle shall take the liberty to deny, till I see it better professed and till then I shall likewise think what follows of a Force, when he tells us, that there would have been a Stoling the first Churches, if the Children of the believing Gettiles had not been admitted with them, as well as those of the Jews; since we have equal Reason to disbelieve the mission of either.

We have done with Rom. xi. and as to what he fays, p. 7 I acknowledge that the Prophets and Apostles preach he same Doctrine, with respect to the way and means of ttaining eternal Life; but does it thence follow that hey directed the People to the Observation of all the me Ordinances; or, declar'd that all the same Persons tho had a Right of Admission into the legal Church, have

When the Apostle tells the Ephesians they had formerly een Aliens from the Commonwealth of Israel, and Stranrs from the Covenants of Promise, far off, he seems plainto intimate their not being interested either in the Coenant made with the natural, or the spiritual Seed of Araham. And the former of these being at that time aolish'd, he can only intend that upon their Conversion hey were received into the latter, and so made Fellow-citiens with the spiritual Seed of Abraham, which has been ifficiently shewn not to answer Mr. H's Purpose. When e infinuates that we would have the Gentiles be still Straners and Aliens, I can't help saying, there is not the least ppearance either of Truth or Justice in that Assertion; t being our earnest Desire that our own, and others Chilren might no longer remain so, but become Fellow-citicens with the Saints, and of the Houshold of God. And as rue and charitable is his Inference in the same Page, when he says, To deny this Truth, is to deny the Death and Blood-hed of Jesus Christ, as to one great End thereof. For if of Christ had shed his Blood to bring an the Section of Selfings, no wers into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were into a Participation of New Covenant Blessings, no were a participation of New Covenant Blessings, no weare a participation of New Covenant Blessings, no we were a participation of New Covenant Blessings, no weare a participation of New Covenant B not deny his Son any thing, which he purchas'd with the the A Price of his Blood.

When he tells us afterwards, that the New Testament Church is call'd a Commonwealth, a City, an Houstold; every of which Terms dorh plainly include Children, as Members thereof ;

thereof; this proves as much that National and Parochial Churches are of Divine Institution, as the Right of Infants ity to Esptism; for all the Inhabitants of a Country, City, or Houshold, are included in the ordinary use of those

He observes, p. 79. when the Apostle came to speak particularly to the several Members of the Church at Ephesus, a bout their relative Duties, he speaks to Parents and Children, and yet writes to none but visible Saints, and Church-members. And, Children are commanded to obey their Parents in the Lord; a Phrase peculiar to those in Covenant.

Certainly the Apostle never imagined that Children, who knew not their Right Hand from their Left, were in the least capable to understand the Directions there given; and therefore can't rationally be supposed to have intended them on the for their Instruction, but for those only who were arrive pear to Years of Understanding. And we never question'd the Right of such Children to Gospel Ordinances, when Prot; fession of Faith is made by them. Doth mature Age different follows the Polytics and Polytic folve the Relation between Parents and Children? On fession of Faith is made by them. Doth mature Agedif ave solve the Relation between Parents and Children? Or the Children, when come to Years of Understanding, see on their Parents? His telling us that here, and in Col. i. the Children of the Church are expressly called Saints, will never in the Lord, good Expositors understand it either to contain a Reason of the Duty, viz. Because the Lord commands it hear or else to prescribe just Bounds to the Obedience required sets to viz. in all things that are agreeable to God's Will.

He informs us, p. 80, & 81. That Christians now are a nurch bound by the Command to educate their Children for God what the listaelites formerly were. Which is readily granted that the Buty should remain, and the Privalent, leges, Means and Advantages for performing it, be taken away enish is strange Dostrine. What! make Brick without Straw again this strange Dostrine. What! make Brick without Straw again the Children of Israel did educate their Children in the Church ho are as being actually under Covenant and Seal: They had many be verecious Promises made to their Children, to quicken their he deavours in educating them. But when such Children, who are excluded by their Parents, do refuse to learn Christian Dostrine, is, is or to carry it reverently to God's Word and Worship, how can their Parents use Discipline to correct them for such things?

I could never observe, tho' I have had as much Opporturochial Infants ity for it as some others, that the Advantages of the Pedo-graphists in educating their Children for God, were greater those han ours; some of both Perswasions mourning that the ear of God was not placed in the Hearts of their Children; the partind others again having comfortable Hopes that their Chilessis, a ren truly feared Him. We may warrantably assure them, wildren, at Christ, with all his Benefits, is freely held forth to in the eir receiving him by Faith; and our Brethren can't but iles they repent and believe, their Condition will be mi-rable for ever. But so far as their acquainting them that ink themselves obliged to let their Children know, that Interest in the Covenant is a Birth-privilege, may occade them in their thinking the New Birth less needful, our Opinion arrived pears to have the advantage, as I have hinted before. That he means by educating Children in the Church, I know that he means by educating Children in the Church, I know the property of their children, as occasion requires, unless they will them as Members with them of the same Church? Or, our Pedobaptist Brethren look upon themselves obliged, i. the stoadmonish their Children privately for their Faults; and if that be not effectual, to take with them one or two one of the Members of the same Church; and that proposition in gunsuccessful, to bring it to the Church; and on default hearing them, to excommunicate them; as our Lord diquired at touching offending Church-members, Matt. xviii. 15, 17? He

He goes on to tell us, p. 82. that Paul was no Anabapift. which may be granted him, without Wrong to the Caule pleaded by us, who as much disapprove Rebaptization, a those that oppose us. But that St. Paul was not of the same Opinion with those he so calls, viz. that only professing Believers ought to be baptiz'd, he will not be able to prove He cites indeed for that purpose t Cor. viii. 14. Rom. xi. 28 Acts xvi. 31. Rom. xi. 16. the first of which only remained be examin'd, all the rest having been already considerd and prov'd, I think, no way subservient to his Design.

The Apostle's Words in I Cor. viii. 14. are, For the inte lieving Husband is sanctified by the Wife, and the unbelieving W.fe is sanctified by the Husband: elfe were your Children in clean; but now are they holy. The Words in the Original which our Translation renders, is sanctified by the Wife, and by the Husband, are, nyiasai in The youairi, and, in The andel Which perhaps in this place had been more justly expressed is, or, hath been sanctified to the Wife, and, to the Husband In which Sense the Preposition is just for els, as in Luke 17. comsectat anestes er occurre d'inaiwr, to turn the Difort dient to the Wisdom of the Juft. But as to this Paffage of the Apostle, let it be considered,

1. That the Holiness of the Children, being such as the derive from both their Parents, can be of no other kind than what both of them partook of; fince the Apostles fures us, that if either Parent was unholy, in the Senfeld intends, the Children would be fo alfo. And therefore this Holiness, which he ascribes to the unbelieving Parent, no giving that Parent a Right to Baptism; neither can the Holiness of the Children, derived from the Unbeliever well as from the Believer, convey that Right to them.

2. Among fo many, some of their Children were doubt tels grown up to the Estate of Men and Women, and ha been born whilft their Parents were both Unbelievers, man Years before the Apostle Paul preached the Gospel amon them, as may appear from what has been faid before in p. 89 concerning the time when this Epiftle was writ; and yet h declares of their Children in general, whether elder of younger, that they were holy in the Sense he intended which certainly could not give them all a Right to Baptilin fince our Brethren own that actual Faith is necessary in the Adult. And how the same Holiness should intitle Infants that, which it does not either the Parent or adult Children ge Cause 3. Tho' it appears from what hath been said, that there iton, a is no necessity for the Antipedobaptists to determine of the same what kind the Holiness is, which the Apostle here ascribes to ofessing Children; yet, that it is Legitimacy, and not any such exprove ernal federal Holiness, as many Pedobaptists would persual second by many eminent Expositors; wade us, hath been owned by many eminent Expositors; mainstons is Jerom, Ambrose, Melantthon, Camerarius, Musculus, second is second by others; to whom I shall only fider'd or. who have been cited by others; to whom I shall only dd Hunnius, a zealous Lutheran, and strenuous Opposer of the Anabaptists (as he calls them) who in his Commentary on this Place gives a fair and full account of the Words. And first, as to the Santtification of the unbelieving Parent, he tells us; Intelligitur enim hic civilis seu legalis sanctificatio, qua sanctum dicitur omne, cujus usus verbo Dei concessus est, &c. e. A civil or legal Holiness is bere intended, in which respect any thing, the Use whereof is warranted by the Word of God, may be said to be boly. And then, as to the Holiness of the Children, he fays; Esse impar illud conjugium, nihilominus vere legitimum, Deoque placens, probat inde, quia alias liberi ex eo nati immundi forent, id est, non e legitimo toro nati, & proinde spurii, quorum procreatio parentibus illis fuisset immunda & inconcessa. Quia vero nemo dubitat liberos illos effe sanctos, eadem videlicet sanctitate civili, qua prius virum infidelem per uxorem fidelem sanctificari dixerat; concludit inde, conjugis quoque infidelis usum illum, e quo liberi isti procreantur, esse fideli conjugi licitum, sanctum & concessum. i.e. He proves from hence, that such a Marriage, the unequal, was nevertheless truly lawful, and pleasing to God, because otherwise the Children born in it would be unclean, i. e. not born of a lawful Bed, and therefore Bastards, whose Procreation would have been unclean and forbidden to those Parents. But as none doubts but such Children are bely, viz. with the same civil Holiness, wherewith he had before said that the unbelieving Husband was sanctified by the believing Wife; he thence concludes that such an Use also of the Unitelieving Husband, or Wife; whereby these Children are procregted, was lawful to the Believer, hely and warrantable. There is nothing further in Mr. H's VII Chapter, but what has been answered already; and therefore instead of troubling the Reader with Repetitions, I shall offer a few Considerations more, to prove that the Faith of Parents don't make their Children Church Members, nor the Practice of our Brethren allow them to be fuch, tho' they give them that Name. For the proof of the former, let it be confidered.

i. The Faith of the Parent makes not himself a Member of any particular Church, but his voluntary offering himfelf unto the Church for that end, and the Church's Acceptance of him upon that Offer. This I suppose will be granted by Mr. H. Now, if the Parent's Faith makes not himfelf a Church Member, 'twill not make his Children Church Members; for it cannot rationally be supposed to convey that to them, which it doth not to him. That there are believing Parents who are not Members of any particular Church, (and there is no other Church of Christ's Appointment under the Gospel) I presume will not be denied; and where the believing Parent is not a Member of any fuch Church, I would fain know what Church his Children are made Members of by his Faith?

2. The Constitution of Churches, and determining the Matter of them, depends wholly upon Institution; therefore under the Law God gave particular Directions who thould be admitted, and beyond his Direction it was unlawful to admit any. When it was his Pleasure that Children and Servants should be admitted, he expresly signified his Will therein; and that Covenant of Peculiarity, and the Church-state founded on it, being now abolished, and new Church-state erected, with new Officers and Ordinances, we have no way to know what Materials our Lord would have laid into this new and spiritual Building, but from his Command, and the Comment made thereon by the Practice of his Apostles, who were under the infallible Conduct of the Holy Spirit. Our Lord's Command, recorded Matt. xxviii. 19, 20. requireth, (1.) The making Disciples by Teaching; (2.) The baptizing the Disciples fo made; (3.) The teaching them (i. e. the Disciples fo made and baptiz'd) to observe all things whatsoever he had commanded, of which the Performance of those Duties, and Celebration of those Ordinances, which belong to a Church, as such, are no small part. And if Infants are not capable of being made Disciples by teaching, they are not compre- artak hended in this Commission of our Saviour. And we have hews. feen before, that the Apostles and Primitive Ministers in Churcheir Practice thus expounded our Lord's Command; who he Activit taught, then baptiz'd, and afterwards received such into y, ar Church

Church Fellowship, to whom their Ministry was made thus effectual. And the Scriptures give us not the least hint of the Admission of any other; and what they don't reveal in this case, we have no ground to believe was done. The Lord undoubtedly directed the committing to Writing the Practice of the Apostles in gathering Churches, that his People might be guided by their Example in after Ages, to the End of the World. Was there as plain Direction given for the Admission of Infants, as Adult, into the Mosaical Church, and frequent Examples of it left to affure them of is Will therein, during the Continuance of that Dispensaion; and would not our Bleffed Lord have given the leaft int, by Precept, or Precedent, of the Admission of any at adult Believers under the Gospel, if he designed the Children should be admitted with their Parents? Wherebre instead of arguing from Childrens Church-membership nder the Law, to their Right to it under the Gospel, we ave Reason to conclude rather, from the plain Directions iven for the former, and the total Silence of the Scriptures with respect to the latter, that it is not our Lord's Will hey should be now received; the Bondwoman and her on, i.e. the Sinai Covenant and carnal Seed, no longer olding their former Station, but the New Covenant, which the former was subservient for a Season, and the biritual Seed, typify'd by the carnal, now taking place in e room thereof.

I now proceed to shew, that notwithstanding Mr. H's arnest Plea for the Church-membership of Believers Children, ar Pedobaptist Brethren don't seem by their Practice to count them in reality Church Members.

They admit them to no Ordinance p

1. They admit them to no Ordinance peculiar to Church 1. They admit them to no Ordinance peculiar to Church aking Members; none of which, if they account them real Members; hould, I think, be denied them. Of this fort is the apper of our Lord; from which no Member of the Primitive Churches was debar'd, unless on the account of Heresy and result. This is plain from 1 Cor. x. 17. For we, sing many, are one Bread, and one Body; for we are all Parakers of that one Bread. That the Apostle here speaks of artaking of the Lord's Supper, the Context evidently have them. Now, either there were no Insant Members of the Church of Corinth, or they were admitted to partake with the Adult at the Lord's Table; the latter our Brethren definite y, and the former must then necessarily sollow. And I shewed fhewed those that were baptiz'd, and added to the Church, are in general said to continue in the Apostles Doctrine and Fellopfhip, Acts ii. 41, 42.

2. They don't deal with them as Church Members, altho' they prove profane, when grown up. If they account them to be indeed Members of the Church, why don't they proceed towards them as our Lord hath directed his Churches to do towards scandalous Members, Matt. xviii. 15, 16, 17. If thy Brother shall trespass against thee, go and tell him his Fault between thee and him alone; but if he will not bear thee, then take with thee one or two more; and if he shall neglect to hear them, tell it unto the Church; but if he neglect to hear the Church, let him be unto thee as an Heathen Man and a Publican, 2 Theff. iii. 6. Now we command you, Brethun, in the Name of our Lord Jesus Christ, that ye withdraw you selves from every Brother that walketh disorderly. If Belie vers Children are born Church Members, they must furely so continue till excommunicated by the Church; and never yet heard that our Brethren cast out any of these Members by Birth, altho' fome of them have proved openly and fcandaloufly vicious, when grown up.

3. Our Independent Brethren especially, so far as I me derstand, use the same Method in admitting these, when adult, as they would do in receiving converted Pagans; so they require a Consession of Faith, and a Declaration of their Experiences; and without Satisfaction as to a Work of Grace on their Souls, receive them not to the Privilege of the Church. But if they were born Church Members, and never cast out, how can they be added to the Church when grown up? If there was so vast a difference between them, and the Children of Pagans, in Insancy, how constitutions.

they to make none afterwards?

CHAP. VIII.

An Answer to Mr. H's Eighth Chapter.

Come now to his VIII. Chapter, in which he attempts the Proof of Childrens Covenant-interest, &c. from Types and Figures; of these he gives us fix Instances. But if what he pleads for had been well proved before, such Illustrations would be needless; and as it has not, 'tis very unlikely that these should contribute much towards it. For unless he was able to shew from the Scriptures, that these things were not only typical of fomething under the Gofpel, but of the same things that he contends for, viz. Infants Covenant-interest and Church-membership, they prove nothing. The wildest Fancies may very easily be countenanc'd, if Persons may take a liberty to affirm, that every thing in Holy Scripture, wherein they can feign some Similitude and Agreement with the Notion or Practice they espouse, is a Type of it, and sufficient to prove it warrantable. But I shall proceed to consider a little the several Instances alleged by him. And,

1. Noah and all his House were saved in the Ark, which was a Figure of the Gospel Salvation.

But it may not be amiss to observe here, that none but adult Persons were saved from the Deluge in the Ark. Neither have we any ground to believe, that every one of that Family was eternally faved. The Sin of Ham, and the Curse pronounced against him and his Son Camaan, seems rather defign'd of God to caution Parents and Children from concluding, that the Parent's Faith puts his Children into a State of Salvation, or that great temporal Deliverances are a Proof of their Title to eternal Happiness. But, as the eternal Perdition of all the Ungodly at the last Day was typify'd by the Destruction of the old World at the universal Deluge, in the Days of Noah, 2 Pet. ii. 3, 5. Matt. xxiv. 38,39. fo the Preservation of Noah, and seven of his Family with him, in the Ark, was a Type of the eternal Salvation by Christ at the Last Day, of all that are interested in him. And as to 1 Pet. iii. 20, 21. cited by Mr. H. it feems principally to respect the temporal Salvation, which God would grant to them who professed Faith in Christ, and love to him, when he should bring the threat. Il ned Vengeance on the unbelieving Jews. See Dr. Owen's Blood Expos. on Heb. Chap. xi. 7. Is this Text, which afferts that the Answer of a good Conscience towards God, is necessary in anc the Subjects of Baptism, very likely to confirm any in Mr. H's Opinion?

II, When the Lord came to deliver the People of Ifrael from the Kingdom, Power and Slavery of Pharaoh, to be a more visible Kingdom and Church to himself, the Type or Figure of Christ, redeeming and delivering his People in all Agus from the Kingdom, Power and Slavery of Satan, and bringing them into his own visible Kingdom; Pharaoh, the Devil's Type, refuseth to let the Children go with their Parents.

It feems very hard to be represented as afting like Pharaob, and the Devil himself, for not believing what we cannot find that God hath reveal'd, and refusing to pra-Etise that which he hath not requir'd. Tho' I suppose the Reader is by this time fensible, that Mr. H. instead of solid Argument, generally puts us off with Hints, as unaccountable as unufual. But one would think, no rational Man can suppose, Pharaoh's refusing to let the Children go, when he knew that God requir'd it, to the End he might after the Departure of the Men, in a few Years have their room supply'd by the Slavery of their Offspring; and our not owning our Children's Right to Baptilm, till they make a Profession of their Faith, and forbearing to administer it to them, left we should offend God by doing that in his Name which he hath not commanded, do so answer each other, that the former should be accounted a Type of the Nor can God's requiring the Deliverance of the Children from Egyptian Bondage, as well as the Parents any more prove the Right of Infants to Baptilm, without Divine. Precept, than it would have justify'd their circumcifing them if God had not injoin'd it; Baptism as much depending on the politive Command of God, as Circumcifion, both as to the Subjects, Time and Manner of its Administration. The Females then were also deliver'd as well as the Males; and yet the former had not thence any Right to an initiating Sign or Seal, because God had not requir'd it. And if any Command for the baptizing of Infants could have been produc'd, things fo remote would hardly have been infifted on.

hreat. III. In Exod. xii. 7, 13, &c. We read that the typical Owen's Blood was to be struck with a Bunch of Hyssop on the Doorts that losts of their Houses. Here in the Type of our spiritual Deliveary in ance, the Blood was applied to them as Houses, because they all, my in ven old and young, were the Lord's People, his Covenant People.

If the striking of the Blood upon the Door-posts of the Houses did not signify the Interest of all in that House, to which it was so applied, in the Covenant of Grace, and he Heads of every House were not sincere Believers, as he subsequent History of their Deportment plainly shews; his is very unlikely to prove the Covenant-interest of the Children of Believers now.

Let it be observ'd, (1.) That the Bondmen of other Naions, which were fold to them, had a Right to Circumisson and the Passover, as well as those who were native fews; and yet there was no Release for them, nor their Children, tho' all of them were circumcis'd, and the Fahers in Mr. H's Sense adult Believers, for so he calls he Bondmen in Abraham's House. (2.) A Jew, who hro' Poverty fold himself to one of his own Nation, had Right of Release when he had serv'd six Years; but if is Master had given him a Wife, neither she, nor the Children he had by her, were to be released with him, Exod. xxi. 4. But it feems from Lev. xxv. 40, 41. that n the fiftieth Year, tho' he had consented to abide with his Master after he was at liberty to depart, both he and his were then released, if they liv'd so long; and some of is Children might by that time be upwards of forty Years of Age. Now, either let Mr. H. own this Instance no-Cir. thing to the Purpose, or else give us good Proof, that if er of Parent be converted by the Gospel, who hath adult Children, these Children are by his Faith brought into the covenant of Grace, and have a Right of Admission to bad Baptism, and Church-membership, altho' they remain without personal Faith.

V. Isa. xxii. 22, 23, 24. Not only adult Believers (compared to Flagons) but also the Offspring and Issue (the' Vestage of sels of small quantity, like Cups) are Vessels in the House of I. In God, that they shall hang upon Christ.

He owns this is spoken in the Letter of Eliakim, and his Father's House; and that it hath any respect to Christ, the Text cited by him does not prove. But, if it be admitted that 'tis meant of Christ, as typified by Eliakim, the Cause of Infants Baptism will receive no Support from this place. For, as the Kindred and Family of Eliakim, both great and fmall, receiv'd Lustre and Advantage from their Relation to him; fo all that are united to Christ, of what Age or Degree foever, receive much more from him. But that the Seed of Believers are so related to Christ, this Scripture doth not acquaint us.

VI. Infants as well as others were baptiz'd to Moses, the Type of Christ, in the Cloud, and in the Sea; therefore in the Antitype, Infants, as well as others, must be baptiz'd to Christ; for the Antitype may not be straitned short of the Type,

1 Cor. x. 1, 2.

That the Passage of the Israelites thro' the Red Sea, where the Waters flood upon each fide of them, and the Cloud was over their Heads, whereby they feem'd, asit were, overwhelm'd with Water, was a lively Type of the manner of administring Baptism, as appointed by Chris and practis'd by the primitive Christians, not only we, but also many Pedobaptists do affert. How our Brethren satisfy themselves with using only Aspersion, or Perfusion, which no more answers to this Figure, than to the Signification of the Word, and the Practice of John Baptift, Christ, and his Apostles, and the declar'd Ends of the Ordinance I know not. But 'tis likewise said, Verse 3, 4. that the did all eat the same spiritual Meat, and did all drink the same spiritual Drink; and if that don't warrant the bringing Infants to the Lord's Supper, the other as little thems their Right to Baptism.

CHAP. IX.

An Answer to Mr. H's Ninth Chapter.

R. H. begins his IX. Chapter with this Objection Under the New Testament they profes'd their Faith before they were received into the Church, or bat tiz'd. To which he answers; So they did under the Old

Tis well known there was as express a Command for circumcifing the Children of Profelytes, as that they themselves should be circumcis'd. Whence we may see, that when rwas God's Will any Ordinance should be administer'd to Children, as well as to Parents, he gave plain Directions to do it, and no doubt would have done the like in this Case, if he had design'd the Children of Believers should have been baptiz'd, as well as their Parents. A Command to circumcife Children, is no Command to baptize them; and the Circumcision of Children, in Obedience to a Divine Command, doth rather condemn, than justify the baptizing them without one.

But he adds; To Jay, that because those who profes'd Faith were baptiz'd, therefore their Children were not baptiz'd, is both proofless, and ridiculous, notwithstanding they infift so much thereon. He would do well to tell us what Antipedobaptists insist on this; for my own part, I don't know of any that do. From the want indeed either of a Command requiring it, or an Example that it ever was practifed by John, or the Apostles of our Saviour, they conclude tis not our Lord's Will Infants should be baptiz'd. And therefore the Objection should rather have been stated thus: All who were baptiz'd in the primitive times, confess'd their Sins, and profes'd their Faith; which Infants are not capable of doing, and consequently were not then baptiz'd. And 'till he is able to produce an Instance, that any one in those times was admitted to Baptism, but upon Repentance, and a Profession of Faith, this Argument will keep its Force.

He proceeds to put this Question; Whether any Persons who have been once solemnly baptiz'd in, or into the Name of the most sacred Trinity, in their Infancy, ought to be baptiz'd again when grown up, and profess their Faith?

To this I answer; Where any Person hath been once duly baptiz'd, he ought not to be baptiz'd again. But when only fomething is done under that Name, without the thing, to one for whom Christ never requir'd Baptism should be administer'd, it is (as I take it) a Nullity, and don't in the least free the Person from an Obligation to submit to that Ordinance, when he becomes a proper Subject of it. And I am not able to discern in that large Col-

r bap Old and

Etion

Faith

Collection of Scriptures produc'd by Mr. H. any Direction for sprinkling of Water in the Name of the Sacred Trinity, upon Infants.

What he fays next of Baptism's being the Seal of the Co. venant, and that Covenant-interest, and not a Profession of Faith, is a sufficient Ground of applying Baptism, has been disprov'd already in the Introduction; as likewise what follows, where he tells us, that the Father, Son, and Holy Spirit, have sufficiently declar'd from Heaven the Interest of the Children of the Godly in the Covenant, and its Privileges; if by the Covenant he mean the New Covenant, and by the Children of the Godly, all Children, one or both of whose Parents are Believers.

But what comes next should be something extraordina. ry, by his calling upon us particularly to observe it; Here observe, says he, the Policy (not to say Comardice) of those who fight against the Children of Believers, and their Bap tism. (1.) They indeavour with all their Might to make these Children stand by themselves in a single Capacity, that they may the more easily beat, and overcome them. (2.) Having thus done, they divide their own Party into two Bands, agreeing hardly in any thing, save to fight with, and oppose the poor Infants in their Rights and Privileges, who, alas! never thought them any harm. The two Bands dignify and distinguish themselves with the Names or Titles of general and particular Baptists; and will have it either by Hook or by Crook.

For my part, I can fee nothing observable here, but a further Instance of his Uncharitableness. We don't desire to fight against, but for our own, and our Brethren's Children, against such dangerous Notions as he at every tum indeavours to instil into them; and the Conquest we will for is, to bring them to fee their need of Chrift, to believe in him, and submit themselves unto him; and as they ne ver did us any Harm, we are willing to do them the greatest Good we can. And tho' according to his usual Positiveness, he ventures to say the Antipedobaptists distinguish themselves by the Names or Titles of general and particular Baptists; yet I much question whether he is a ble to prove who it was that first so distinguish'd them; whether they themselves, or those who oppose them; or, whether they were given to dignify, or (as the Title of And or Nazarens to the primitive Christians) to reproach them of thos or, whether they did not arise, without any such Design, meerly meerly from their different Apprehensions as to the Object and Extent of Redemption, wherein Pedobaptists no less difagree among themselves. And one would have thought. a Person of so clear an Head might easily have discern'd that these things were capable of being, with no less Force, retorted on his own Opinion; and that an Antipedobaptift might with as much Reason say; Here observe the Policy (not to say the Cowardice) of those who fight against the Faith and Practice of the Antipedobaptists. (1.) They indeavour with all their Might to make them stand by themselves, as if they were herein contrary, not only to Protestant Churches in general, but also to the Scriptures, and Practice of the Apostles, (p. 115, 123.) that they may the more easily beat, and overcome them; whereas on the contrary, the Holy Scriptures, and the first Ages after Christ, as well as many eminent Writers fince, do justify both their Faith and Practice in this Point. (2.) Having thus made them (as they conceit) to stand by themselves, they divide their own Party, not only into two, but many Bands, as contrary one to another, as they all are in this Point contrary to the Truth; agreeing, tho' not in many other things, yet to fight with, and oppose the poor contemptible Antipedobaptists, (as he represents us, p. 116.) who, alas! never thought them any harm. These Bands are Dignify'd and Distinguish'd with various Names and Titles, as Papists, Prelatifts, Presbyterians, Independents, &c. And some of most, if not of all these, are for general, others for particular Redemption, and will have it either by Hook or by Crook. These things, I say, might with as much Justice be return'd by an Antipedobaptist, as they are urged upon them by Mr. H. Tho' I must confess they become neither, a more charitable Treatment of each other better suiting the Religion we profess.

But he proceeds to acquaint us with the different Principles, upon which general and particular Baptists deny Infant-baptism. The general Baptists (says he) affirm Infants have no Sin, and therefore they must not be baptiz'd. is not a just Account of the Sentiments of many, if not the most, of those who are usually call'd by that Name; the most, of them owning the Doctrine of original Sin. And one would think Mr. H. might speak as favourably nem; of those who oppose it, as another, since he tells us, the esign, as another of believing Parents, as such, are purer than the most specify. fanctify'd adult Believers in the Church Militant. See p. 97. But 'tis not this for which any of them chiefly object against that Practice, but the want of Divine Authority to warrant it. And I might tell him, that one half, at least, of those that plead for Pedobaptism, urge this as one great Reason for their Practice, that 'tis necessary to wash away

Original Sin, tho'many others reject that Notion.

As for the particular Baptists, they say (as he tells us) Infants have no Grace, and therefore they must not be baptiz'd. But this is also as unsair a Representation of them. For they don't say that God hath not wrought Grace in the Soul of any Infant, but that 'tis evident he hath not done it in all descending from godly Parents; and they know not which of them in particular is made a Partaker of it; and that God not having given Direction to baptize any but such who make a satisfactory Prosession of Faith, which Infants are uncapable of, they dare not presume to do it in his Name, without his Command. But let us hear what Answer he makes to both.

To the general Baptists Isay, If your Infants have no Sin, they are much better than their Parents, who have Sin enough. But if they have no Sin, why do you reject them from Church-membership? Will ye reject the pure in Heart, and receive the impure. To this, I think, they may very well reply; If you look upon all the Infants of Believers to be pure in Heart, and that all such have a Right to Church-membership, why do you exclude them from the Lord's Supper? Will you shut out the pure in Heart from that holy Ordinance, and receive those which you fay are less pure, to it?

In his Answer to the particular Baptists, he indeavours to perswade us, that the Seed and Offspring of Believers have the Holy Ghost, Isa. xliv. 3. that they are santtified, have the Seeds or Habits of Grace, and that they are Partakers of the inward Grace of Regeneration, and ought therefore to partake of the outward Sign of it. As to Isa. xliv. 3. 'twill be afterwards explain'd in this Chapter. And if he mean not that all the Offspring of every Believer partakes of these Blessings, he says nothing; and if that be his Meaning, it must unavoidably follow, that new-born Souls may be again unborn, and the Principles of Grace once implanted, may be lost; altho' our Saviour tells us otherwise, John iv. 13, 14. Jesus answered, and said unto her, Whosoever drinketh of this Water, shall thirst again: But whose of Infollon follon becau crami ever drinketh of the Water that I shall give him, shall never thirst; but the Water that I shall give him, shall be in him a Well of Water, springing up into everlasting Life. So I John iii. 9. Whosoever is born of God, doth not commit Sin; for his Seed remaineth in him, and he cannot sin, because he is born of God.

He proceeds to bring in his mistaken Brethren, as calling on him to shew them the Words of Institution for the Ordinance of Insant-baptism, &c. And for Answer, he intreats them to shew him the Words of Institution for Womens and Mens Baptism; and says, those Words in Matth. xxviii. 19.

His denying Matth. xxviii. 19. to be the Institution of Baptism, because 'twas instituted before, is but trifling with the Word; the Institution, or Appointment of a thing, not necessarily implying 'twas not in Use before. Thus 2 Chron. xxiii. 18. we read, that Jehoiada appointed the Offices of the House of the Lord, by the hand of the Priests, the Levites, whom David had distributed in the House of the Lord. But if Matth. xxviii 19. be not the Institution of Baptism, 'tis the great Commission whence all Gospel Ministers have their Authority and Direction for the Practice of this Ordinance, in all Ages of the Church. Doth Christ here, or any where else, command his Minifters to baptize Infants? And by comparing that place with Mark. xvi. 16. we shall find, Christ expresly commandeth the baptizing of all such who are made Disciples by teaching, and believe, whether Men or Women. Make Disciples all Nations, baptizing them. And, preach the Gospel to every Creature, he that believeth, and is baptized, &c. Which we are expresly inform'd that the first Ministers expounded by their Practice, to relate to Believers of both Sexes, Acts viii. 12. & xvi. 13. Shew us but such Authority for Infants Baptism, and we shall judge it our Duty to practife it. But to fend us to Gen. xvii. where they are required to be circumcis'd, is never likely to fatisfy us.

But he tells us, If Children are not named in the Words of Institution, if such were to be found, it would not thence follow, that they were not to be baptiz'd; any more than it follows, that Women are not to partake of the Lord's Supper, because they are not nam'd in the Words of Institution of that Sacrament.

These

These two Cases, which he would represent as parallel, will be found very different to any considerate Person. For, (1.) The Qualifications necessary to the Lord's Supper are to be found in Women, as well as Men ; fuch as Faith to discern the Lord's Body, and to do it in remembrance of Christ, Ability to examine themselves, &c. And if he beable to prove that Infants may be made Difciples by teaching, and thereby be brought to believe, and profess their Faith, I will no longer contend with him. (2.) As it is expresly declar'd, that Women were baptiz'd, Acts viii. 12. xvi. 15. fo we are informed, that all the 3000 Souls (which Term denotes Women as much as Men) who were converted, and baptiz'd, Acts ii. continued stedfastly in the Apostle's Doctrine, and Fellowship, and breaking of Bread. Whence the Scriptures plainly furnish us with this Argument: All that were baptiz'd, were admitted to the Lord's Supper: Believing Women were baptiz'd, as well as Men, and consequently admitted with them to the Lord's Supper. And if the following Argument was as unexceptionable: All who have an Interest in the Covenant of Grace, have a Right to Baptism: All the Children of Believers have an Interest in the Covenant of Grace, and therefore a Right to Baptism: If this Argument, I say, were as true as the former, 'twould sufficiently satisfy us as to the Practice of Pedobaptism. But as 'tis not, I can't but continue of the Mind, that the Infant's Way to Baptism is not made so clear and plain as the Woman's Way to the Lord's Table, whatsoever Mr. H. affirms to the contrary.

As to what follows, Whether Infants Baptism be a distinst Ordinance from the Baptism of the Adult; or applying the Lord's own Ordinance of Baptism to a wrong Subject; be it which it will (and one of them it must be) they are both unwarrantable. Nor do I see but the latter is as much an Intrusion upon the Authority of the Lawgiver, as the former. A Subject may as well undertake to make a Law, as to disannul, or alter one made by Supreme Authority.

In the next place we are presented with 21 Heads from Scripture, each of which, he says, p. s. affords sufficient Argument for the baptizing of Infants. I shall briefly consider them in the Order they stand.

I. Revealed things belong to them as well as to their Parents,

I answer, (1.) Revealed things can't belong to them who are uncapable to understand them, which Infants, of whose Right to Baptism he now speaks, are; any otherwise than to direct their Parents how to act towards them, or to afford them ground of Hope concerning them; for which they are to feek Information from other Places of Scripture. this affording none, and therefore is very far from being a sufficient Argument to baptize them. (2.) The Lord's Supper is a revealed thing, as well as Baptism; and if this Text affords sufficient Argument for one, it must also for the other. (3.) This Passage speaks not of the Infant Seed of Believers, as fuch, but of their Posterity, to whom the Revelation of God's Will cometh, as contained in his Word; which no less forbids a curious Enquiry into, and groundless Affertions about unrevealed things (of which Infant, Baptism is one) than it requires a Belief of whatsoever God hath revealed, and the Performance of every thing he hath commanded.

II. As touching the Election, they are beloved for the Fathers sakes, Rom. xi. 28. Deut. vii. 6, 7. iv. 31, 37.

Are the Infants of Believers, as such, the Election? Are they all chosen of God, effectually called, and eternally faved, as the Design of the Apostle is to prove concerning those of whom he speaks in Rom. xi. 28? And are they, as Elect, to be admitted to Baptism; and none of the Children of Unbelievers chosen of God, and thereby intituled to that Ordinance? Deut.vii. and iv. speak of the natural Posterity of Abraham by Isaac, and their being chosen of God, by a free and gracious Act of his Will, to be a pecular People to himself in that Covenant first transacted with Abraham, and afterwards compleated at Mount Sinai, by appointing all Ordinances suited to it, which were made the intire Rule of the Church's Obedience till the time of Reformation; which was a lively Type of his chuling his People in Christ unto Faith, Holiness, and Eternal Life. As no foreseen Excellency or Worthiness moved him to the Choice of the former, to the Participation of those peculiar Privileges; so neither of the latter to Blessings of a higher Nature.

III. They are said to be a godly Seed, Mal. ii. 15.

Many of the Jews at that time had taken Wives of the dolatrous Nations, to the grief and prejudice of their first and lawful Wives of the Jewish Race; for which the Lord, by the Prophet, sharply reproves and threatens them, in this Chapter; and among other Arguments, to convince them of their great Sin in fo doing, shews (as I take it) that Polygamy, however tolerated for a Season, was never warrantable, from God's creating but one Woman for the first Man, when he could, had it been his Pleasure, have created more; which might also have seemed more necessary for peopling the World at first. And he subjoins the Reason why one only was created, (thereby directing Men to have but one Wife at a time) because he sought a godly Seed, or, as the Original expresseth it, a Seed of God, i.e. an excellent Seed, born in chaft Wedlock, the Issue of a lawful Marriage. And if a gracious or holy Seed, and not a legitimate Seed only, be intended, God might be faid to feek it, in appointing, by this Example, the most likely Means to produce it; for in Polygamy such Inconveniences generally arose, that greatly obstructed the good Examples and Instructions which were needful to promote it. here is not a Word of any federal Holine's derived from the Faith of the Parents, but only such as the Marriage of one Man with one Woman was best suited to produce. And 'tis well known that fuch an Holiness, or Covenant-interest, as gave a Right to Circumcifion, adher'd to the Issue of those Jews who had many Wives, as well as to the Offfpring of those who had but one at a time. And the Prophet has no respect here to any Qualification to Ordinances, but what Mr. H. acknowledges to relate as well to those who lived before the Appointment of any outward Seal, as to such who lived after it. From all which it is plain enough, that this Text affords no sufficient Argument for Infants Baptilm.

IV. They are called the Lord's chosen ones, 1 Chron. xvi. 13. Isa. xliv. 1, 2, 3, 4. Deut. iv. 37. & x. 15. Rom. xi. 28.

Pfal. cv. 42, 43. with Exod. x. 9.

The Answer to his II. Head is sufficient to satisfy any impartial Enquirer, that this affords him no Assistance. For all the Texts here cited by him (except Rom. xi. 28. which hath been explained before, and Isa. xliv. which speaks of the spiritual Seed, whereof the carnal were Types) great of God's chusing the natural Seed of Abraham to be a peculiar People, separate from other Nations, for the bringing forth of the Messiah; on whom many special Privileges were conferred, to direct their Faith to him. V. They are such whose Hearts the Lord doth circumcise; for he hath promised to be a God to, and circumcise the Hearts of his People, and their Seed, Gen. xvii. 7, 10. with Deut. xxx. 6.

If God hath absolutely promised to circumcise the Hearts of all the Offspring of his People, his Faithfulness is ingaged to effect it; Hath he said it, and shall he not do it? That Gen. xvii. 7, 10. speaks of the Circumcision in the Flesh, and not of the Heart, is evident. And as to Deut. xxx. 6. the Judicious Mr. Poole tells us, "This Promise" principally respects the Times of the Gospel, and the Grace which was to be then imparted to all God's Israel (i. e. all his Chosen ones) by Christ, by whom alone this Circumcision is obtained, Col. ii. 11. And its not being sulfilled to all the Nation of the Jews, who partook of the Circumcision of the Flesh, plainly shews, that 'twas not made to them as the natural Seed of Abraham.

VI. They are the Lord's Bleffed ones, Psal. xxxvii. 26. & cxii. 2. & cxv. 12, 13, 14, 15. & cxlvii. 13. Prov. xx. 7.

Ifa. lxiv. 3. 6 lxi. 9. 6 lxv. 23. Mark x. 16.

That God did bestow many signal Favours on the Ossering of his People, as a Fruit and Token of his Love to their Parents, and still does so, I shall not deny. Nay, their being the Children of such, if God continue their Parents with them, is a great Blessing, they having the advantage of their good Instruction and Example. But what Argument this affords for Infants Baptism, I know not; unless it could be proved they are not only all blessed with the Grace of Faith, but also with an Ability to make Profession of it.

VII. They are the Lord's Heritage, Pfal. cxxvii. 3. Joel ii. 16, 17.

Psal. cxxvii. 3. tells us, Children are an Heritage of the Lord, i. e. a Portion given by the Lord. And foel ii. 16,17. directs the Fews to bring the little Children that suck'd the Breasts to a solemn Fast, which the Prophet directs them to sanctify, they being in danger to be involved with their Parents in the same public Calamity, which they were thus solemnly to beg that God would avert. And this might be partly to excite the grown Persons to more earnest Supplications to God for Mercy; and partly to move the Lord to shew Mercy, as he did to Nineveh, for the sake of those little ones, who knew not their Right Hand from their Left. And in their Supplications they were to beg, that God would not give his Heritage to Reproach; for such he had owned the Body of the Israelitish Nation. But those little ones were not in general the Children of Believers, of whom he pretends to speak; and if they had, what this would be to his purpose, I can't apprehend.

VIII. The Lord challengeth them as his own, as born to him, as his from the Womb, &c. Ezek. xvi. 20, 21. Isa. xliv. 2, 3, 21, 24. & xlvi. 3, 4. Psal. lxxi. 6.

All the Nation of the Jews were in Covenant with God, in the Sense already explained; he might therefore claim a Propriety in them. Those mentioned Ezek. xvi. 20, 21. whose Children the Lord claims as his, were abominable and cruel Idolaters, as the Prophet there declares. Will this prove then, that the Faith of Parents, and their Interest in the Covenant of Grace, conveys an Interest in the same Covenant, and a Right to Baptism, to their Seed? In Isa. xliv. & xlvi. the Lord puts that People in mind, that it was his Act first to take them to be his People, and what he had done for them ever fince. In Ver. 3. of Chap. xliv. he makes a gracions Promise to the true spiritual Seed, of pouring his Spirit upon them. What David faith of himself, Pfal. 1xxi. 6. is true of all Men, but in a special manner of Believers, that the Lord hath holden them up from the Womb, &c. But what is this to the baptizing of Infants?

IX. God is their God, a God to them, and they are in Covenant with him, Gen. xvii. 7, &c. Deut. xxix. 10, 11, 12, 13. Acts ii. 39. Pfal. xxii. 10. and the Angels have Charge over them, Matt. xviii. 2, 10. Heb. i. 14.

The three first of these Places have been particularly spoke to before; and what use he can make of the last I can't understand. Psal. xxii. 10. is meant of Christ himself. In Matt. xviii. Interpreters generally own that our Lord speaks of fuch as are like to little Children in Humility. So Calvin on Ver. 5. Jam metaphorice pueros appellat Christus, qui, deposita altitudine, se ad modestiam & subjectionem composuerint : i. e. Christ here metaphorically culls those Children, who having said afide Pride, become modest and humble. And Pool's Annotations on Ver. 6. " Whoso receiveth such a little Child, that is, an humble Christian. In the next Verse it is " opened by one that believeth on me.

We have only Mr. H's bare Word to evince the Truth of this Affertion. Scriptures indeed are here cited by him after his usual manner, but none of them give us the least Hint that the Infants of Believers, as such, are there intended, or stand related to Christ as Lambs of his Flock. Our Lord himself compar'd the Seventy to Lambs, Luke x. , whom he fent out to preach the Gospel, and commands Peter, John xxi. 15. to feed his Lambs; and must these be Infants? We know that among Believers, some are ariv'd to greater Strength of Grace, whilst new Converts, or others of little Knowledge and Strength, may fitly be compar'd to Lambs, and eminently need such tender Care, s the Lord, by the Prophet, Isa. xl. 11. assures us the chief shepherd will take of them. And certainly there is more Reason to conclude, these Words were written for the Comort of fuch, who are liable to many Fears and Discouagements under a Sight of their own Weakness; than for he fake of those who are uncapable to understand such racious Promises, and to derive any Support from them. and if all Believers Children stand related to Christ as Lambs of his Flock, how comes it to pass that some of them re loft, and perish eternally? Is it for want of the great shepherd's Care, Skill, or Power? Hath he less Care of he Lambs, for whom in a particular manner he expresseth ich tender Regard, than of the Sheep, whom he will reserve, and safely keep to the End? John x. 27, 28, 29. My Sheep hear my Voice .-- And I give unto them eternal life, and they shall never perish, neither shall any Man pluck hem out of my Hand. My Father which gave them me, is reater than all, and none is able to pluck them out of my father's Hand. But whatever Mr. H. says, all Christ's lock are intended here by his Sheep, and shall, as a glohous Fruit of his Love and Faithfulness, be preserved from ternal Perdition; which is not perform'd towards Belieers Children in general.

XI. The Holy Scripture doth comprehend Children, together with their Parents, in that most common Phrase, The Lord's People, or People of God, Exod. viii. 1, 20. with Chap. x. 1,9. & Xii. 31, 37. Psal. cv. 42, 43. Foel ii. 15, 16, 17, 18, 9, 27. Deut. XXIX. 11, 13.

The whole Body of the Israelitish Nation was so call'd, wherein were many adult Unbelievers, as well as Children; yea, the greater Number of them were destitute of saving Faith, Isa. x. 22, 23. compar'd with Rom. ix. 27. Wherefore this would as much prove the Right of adult Unbelievers to Baptism, as that of Believers Children.

XII. Of such is the Kingdom of Heaven, Mark x. 14, 16. Ezek. xxxvii. 25. This hath been answer'd before in

Chap. VI.

XIII. Little Children that such the Breasts are Member of Zion, and part of the Congregation and Assembly that are by God's Command gather'd together, and sanctify'd, Joel ii 15, 16. This hath likewise been spoke to already under his VII. Head.

XIV. They are the Lord's Servants, Lev. XXV. 41, 42

54, 55. with Pfal. cxvi. 16.

If barely the Appellation of the Lord's Servants would prove their Right to Baptism, then such an Heathen as No buchadnezzar, who is call'd the Lord's Servant, Jer. xxv. 9 xxvii. 6. & lxiii. 10. might also have such a Right. But the Children of the unbelieving, as well as believing Jem might be call'd the Lord's Servants, on account of that Co venant of Peculiarity, which is now abolish'd; tho' even before Christ's Death this gave them no Right to Baptism, Matth. iii. 8, 9.

XV. They are such that have the Spirit of God, Isa. xliv

Neither of the Texts cited affert any such thing; imust either be the carnal Seed of Abraham, the Jews is general, or the spiritual Seed, to whom the Promise is made Isa. xliv. 3. the sormer it cannot be, many of them being sensual, not having the Spirit, as the Apostle's Phrase is Jude, verse 19. and therefore it must be the latter. An let it be prov'd, that the carnal Seed of Believers are Abraham's spiritual Seed. Isa. lix. 21. contains a Promise mad of the Father to Christ, touching the Seed given of the Father to him. And 'tis plain from Rom. viii. 8, 9. than none, in whom the Spirit of God dwelleth, are in an un regenerate State: So then, they that are in the Flesh cannot please God; but ye are not in the Flesh, but in the Spirit, if he that the Spirit of God dwell in you.

XVI. They are such whom the Lord teacheth, Isa. liv. 1

Jer. xxxi. 34. Heb. viii. 11.

It must be own'd, that in all these New Covenant Promiles the Faithful God hath declar'd he will so teach all them, to whom they are made, that they shall certainly arrive at the faving Knowledge of him, but all the Children of Believers are not so taught. Neither do any of the Texts cited speak one word of the Infants of Believers, as such. Isa. liv. 13. speaks of such as the Church and her Ministry should be instrumental to beget by the Gospel, as the Apostle expresses it, 1 Cor. iv. 15. Philem. ver. 10. who are therefore call'd the Church's Children.

Those to whom our Lord in his great Commission requireth Baptism to be administer'd, are to be made Disciples by the Ministry of Men. The Direction is, Matth. xxviii. 19. µabnteuoate, Make Disciples by teaching, of which Infants are not capable. Nor does it appear from the Paffages produc'd by Mr. H. that Infants are there call'd Di-XV. 9 sciples. In Acts xv. 1. 'tis said, that some which came down from Bu Judea taught the Brethren, Except ye be circumcised after the manner of Moses, ye cannot be saved. With reference to which Peter, verse 10. says, Why tempt ye God, to put a Yoke upon the Neck of the Disciples, &c? And Acts xxi. 21. we are told, that the Church at Jerusalem were inform'd that Paul taught the Jews which were among the Gentiles, that they ought not to circumcife their Children. These Places put together prove, that some Jewish Teachers would have perswaded the Gentile Converts to be circumciled themselves, and to circumcife their Children; which Peter calls imposing a Toke upon the Neck of the Disciples. But doth it hence follow, that they would have none circumcis'd but Disciples? Or, that all were Disciples on whom they would have impos'd Circumcifion? Nothing less. Their obliging the Parents to circumcife their Children, may as well be call'd laying a Toke on their Necks, as directing them to submit to it themselves. It is grievous to a tender Parent to be oblig'd to cause that to be done to his Child, which is not only painful and unprofitable, but also very prejudicial; as the Apostle declares Circumcision to have been, to them who submitted to it as necessary to Salvation. Gal. v. 3. Itestify again to every Man that is circumcifed, that he is a Debtor to do the whole Law. It may not be amis also to consider, if the Jewish Christians were so zealous to have their Children circumcifed, as it appears they were ntim Acts xxi. 21. whether it be likely they understood what Mr. our Brethren contend so earnestly for, as a main Pillar of ma Infant-baptism, viz. That Baptism cometh in the room of two Circumcission, and belongs to the same Subjects, as a Seal to blem them of the same Covenant that Circumcisson had been and be For it seems very probable they would have been willing to change Circumcisson, a painful, for Baptism, a more easy Order dinance, if they had been taught that their Children had a Right to the latter then, as to the former under the Law; slike and that one was appointed by the Lord Jesus to succeed the Whoso other, for the same Use and Ends. other, for the same Use and Ends.

An Answer to Mr. H's Ninth Chapter. the Call of Christ, and to come to him upon it, as was were nationated before from Grotius, in Chap: VI. p. 96. And so what Mr. Leigh explains it, Puer qui ambulare potest, A Boy able lar of walk. The same Word also is us'd to express a Damsel of twelve Years old, Mark v. 39, 40. In Verse 3. our Lord sal to blemnly affureth them, that except they were converted, been, and became as little Children, (not in all respects, but in Hung to mility, &c.) they could not enter into the Kingdom of Heaven. Worden in Verse 4. he shews the great Happiness to which such a had none shall be advanced, who, in the Sense before explained, have slike a little Child; and of such an one, he saith, Verse 3. It was a little Child; and of such an one, he saith, Verse 3. It was a little ones, of whom he had last spoken; and that none in the saints, who make a profession of Faith, whom the Grace of le to make a Profession of Faith, whom the Grace of he Call of Christ, and to come to him upon it, as was le to make a Profession of Faith, whom the Grace of 5,6. God hath made humble and lowly, are here meant by our poole aviour, Expositors generally own; tho' Mr. H. to serve is own Hypothesis, would perswade us'tis to be understood is own Hypothesis, would persuade us 'tis to be understood are, Infants, such who are descended from believing Parents, when the Evangelist intimates no such thing. Nay, the greatest part of Pedobapbeen ists have always acknowledged that such Infants, of whom the speak, are uncapable of Faith. A late learned Auples for, in his History of Baptism, Part 1. p. 145. tells us, that St. Austin (who lived in the latter end of the 4th Century, and was one of the most strength that Infants that ants, are baptiz'd, have in any proper Sense Faith, or Repen-viii. tance, or Conversion of the Heart, &c. How much solver he is here press'd with the Difficulty of explain-ing the Reasons, why the Godfather answers in the pe is Child's Name, He does believe; he does not for all that, find fly to the justifying so great a Paradox, as to say, that the Child does indeed in a proper Sense understand, believe, or disbelieve any thing. And a little after he was grants. That Infants cannot as yet believe with the grants, That Infants cannot as yet believe with the fons Heart, or confess with the Mouth. And p. 147. he says, to St. Austin observes they are often in a Fit of Crying and our Fretfulness all the while, which, as he remarks, would old, be very finful, if they had any Understanding." From to thence it appears that Faith was then judg'd necessary for Infants, as well as adult Persons in order to Baptism, on ath which the sormer were accounted uncapable. And there so when that Practice first began to be generally at ears, mitted, Sureties were made use of, who answer'd in the Name of the Child, that it did believe; which they who now pretend to baptize Infants, and reject the Use of Sureties will because uncommanded, would do well to consider, since it seems to overthrow all their Plea from Antiquity so one that Practice. And the National Church do in their Case whism expressly declare, both that Faith and Repentance at required of those that are to be baptized, and that Infants at all Securcious seems and the Sureties. But if the Faith of the Sureties, as they, or one state Parents, as others plead, be imputed to them; on the sureties. But if the Faith of the Sureties, as they, or one state Parents, as others plead, be imputed to them; on the sureties and their Baptism might with no less Reason to Baptimputed to them likewise, and their being actually bap the imputed to them likewise, and their being actually bath tiz'd no way needful.

XX. They are to be brought to Christ in his Church fords
Isa. xlix. 22. And our Lord hath commanded his Min mide sters and Churches not to forbid, but suffer them to come Per Matth. xix. 25. with Chap. xxviii. 20. and hath said of be will fave them, Ifa. xlix. 25. Matth. xviii. 2, 10, 14.

Not one of these Places speaks of the Offspring of Beliaptist vers, as such, much less do they require the bringing such ontro to Christ in his Church, as he vainly afferts. But these Scrip Page tures have been already consider'd, and therefore I shippets not infift on them again here.

XXI. Whatever some think, or say of them now, yet the time is coming on apace, when all that see them shall, tho' never so loath, acknowledge them that they are the Seed which the Lord hath blessed, Isa. Ixi. 8, 9. & Ixv. 23. This is spoke it'd; of the Offspring, the Buds, i. e. Infants; and this their continues are the Seed which the continues is made visible in a Church-was turn by some outward Ast, owning them to be the Lord's bless we may see the seed which the continues is and acknowled by Infants; and acknowled by Infants, &c. them, &c.

We have here a further Instance of Mr. H's Charlon is for the Antipedobaptists, in his infinuating they would laves, loath to own their Children to be blessed of God, when it shem. appear that they are so. For, it would be no small Con oth defort to them, to see good Demonstration that their O sm be spring are indeed of the number of the Seed that the Los on for

For my part, I think there is room enough a challenge him to produce better Arguments for Infantchallenge him to produce better Arguments for Infant-Beli aptism, than any he has done yet, or else to decline the solution on troversy.

Scri Page 98. He brings in the Antipedobaptists making this bjection; We can see no express Command in any of the Books the New Testament, to apply the Token of the Command

the New Testament, to apply the Token of the Covenant

the New Testament, to apply the Token of the Covenant the time the Infant-seed of Believers; and we are not to go to the new ld Testament for Worship. We read in the New Testament at those who were taught, believ'd, prosess'd, &c. were bap-spoker'd; but shew us the word Infant-baptism if you can.

Enough having been said of this already, I shall only turn a few things in reference to his Answer. And (1.) We may observe, that for want of any Command of Christ world or Infants Baptism in the New Testament, he is forc'd to ave recourse to Gen. xvii. & Exod. xii. where Circumcion is injoin'd the carnal Seed of Abraham, and all their ould laves, and every Male that would eat the Passover with it she seed. (2.) His whole Discourse here supposes what is 1 Cor oth denied, and hath been fully disprov'd, viz. That Bapir Osm belongs to the same Seed of Abraham that Circumcie Lo on formerly did; and that both are Tokens or Seals of one and the same Covenant. (3.) The Charge he exhibits a gainst us, that we greatly fin in continually flighting the Writings of the Old Testament, is very unjust. To slight any part of Holy Writ is a great Sin, and none ought to be charged with it, for not believing that God delign'd the Writings of Moses, and the Prophets, to inform us who the Subjects are, to whom the Ordinances Christ would give to his Church should be administer'd. The Writings of the Old Testament inform us, that Christ should be a Prophet like unto Moses; and we thence conclude, that as Moses appointed what Ordinances should be observed, and by whom, under the legal Dispensation; so Christ was to ap point new Ordinances of Worship, and to whom they should be administer'd, which he hath accordingly done, a he faw best suited to the more spiritual Dispensation of the Gospel. And the Old Testament informing us how plainly the Lord declared his Will at the first Institution of Circumcifion, not only as to the Persons, but the exact time to a Day when it should be administer'd, may instruct us that we are to attend to what he is pleased to reveal as to the Subjects of Gospel Ordinances; and that 'tis as unwarrantable for us to appoint either the Subjects, or Time, as the Duties themselves. Nay, when he renew's his Command for Circumcifion in the Wilderness, he re peated the Directions both as to the Subjects and Time Lev. xii. 3. And therefore it can't but seem very strange that neither John, the first Administrator of Baptism, not our Lord himself, when he gave his Ministers Authority and Direction for the Observation of it for ever afterwards, should give any Order to baptize Infants, nor the least Intimation as to the time when it should be admini fter'd, otherwise than when their Auditors make a credible Profession of their Faith, had it been our Saviour's Will that Infants should be baptiz'd. And if Gen. xvii. 10, 12 be a Command to apply the Token of the Covenant (as Mr. H. would have it) to Infants now 'tis chang'd from Circumcision to Baptism; why is it not as much a Command to keep to the fame Day? Then they fin'd, if they either administer'd that Ordinance before the eighth Day, or defer'd it longer because then they apply'd God's Ordinance to a wrong Subject Will that Command therefore warrant any to baptize la fants before? Or doth it leave them at Liberty to delay it longer? The Old Testament plainly reveals God's Displea fure against those who do any thing in his Worship that he hath not commanded, Jer. vii. 31. XiX. 5. & XXXII. 35. which all therefore should be careful to avoid. The Lord was angry with King Vzziah for presuming to administer an Ordinance without his Direction, 2 Chron. XXVI. 19. And one would think as much Regard ought to be had to God's Command, in reference to the Persons to whom his Ordinances are administer'd, as to those by whom. And which looks more like slighting the Writings of the Old Testament, to do, or not to do, that which cannot be proved to be required of God?

In p. 99. he affirms, Whatever Alteration the Lord hath made in his Ordinances, and the Subjects thereof, fince Christ's coming, from what they were before; it is certain that such Alterations are always for the inlarging the Privileges of the People of God in such Ordinances, but never for the taking away, or lessening any Privilege in any Ordinance that the People of God, as Juch, did injoy before Christ's coming.

Not to infift on the Passover, which has been so often mention'd already; there were many Ordinances given for that typical People to observe, which were Privileges then, to succeed which no others have been since appointed; and yet the Privileges of the Lord's People now both for themselves, and Offspring, when grown to Years of Understanding, are far greater than those of the Jews were. And as to Infants, they were really Church-members then; but, as I have said before, no more than nominally so now, even in the Account of many Pedobaptists, so far as appears by their Practice.

We are told, p. 101. that the Baptism of the Infants of Abraham's Seed, and the Sanctification of the first Day Sabbath being equally and alike commanded of God, must either stand or fall together; and that there is no more expressings of Command to sanctify the first Day Sabbath, than there is to baptize Believers Infants. To this I answer.

1. There is a great Difference between the Observation of the Sabbath, and Infants Baptism; because the Observation of a Sabbath is a moral Duty, and therefore inserted among the ten moral Precepts, altho' the Determination of the particular Day of the Seven depends upon Institution; but Baptism is a Duty meerly positive.

2. We have such an Example of the Observation of the first Day, by the Apostle Paul, and the Church at Troas, M for-

for the Celebration of the Duties of the Sabbath, Acts xx. 6, 7. as we have not in all the Hiftory of the Apostles and primitive Churches, of their observing the Seventh, or any other Day of the Week after the Ascension of our Saviour. We are told there, that the Apostle Paul, and his Company, came to Troas, where they abode feven Days; and upon the first Day of the Week, when the Disciples came together to break Bread, Paul preach'd to them, &c. We fee it was not the Apostle's coming that Day, or the Day before, that occasion'd their assembling upon that Day rather than any other, for he abode there the space of a Week; so that their assembling then to perform the Duties of the Sabbath, was an act of Choice, and not of Necessity. it is recorded as the Day upon which the Disciples used to affemble for that Purpose, there being no Intimation of the Apostle's calling them together on some special Occafion on that Day, but rather that they came according to their usual Custom to celebrate those Duties. And no instance, that I know of, can be produc'd of their affembling as a Church on any other Day but this. For, their preaching in the Synagogues on the Seventh, was but to take the Opportunity of the People's being affembled, that they might have some to preach to for their Conversion, for which reason they also sometimes preach'd in the Markets. And let but one Example in Scripture be produc'd that the Baptism of Infants was practised by any of the Apostles, or any Church in their time, and 'twill fatisfy us. not now oblig'd to produce the Grounds of our Observation of the first Day Sabbath, any further than to shew the Invalidity of his Plea thence taken for Infant-baptism. And he must either deny this to be an Example of the Observation of the first Day, as a Sabbath, or affert that it might be so observ'd by the Apostles, and primitive Christians without a Divine Warrant, or else own that there is not the same Reason for the baptizing of Infants, as for the Sanctification of the first Day Sabbath

His joining the Denial of Infant-baptism with that of the Trinity, the Satisfaction of Christ, and Original Sin in the next Page, is no less uncharitable than the Reason he assigns for our so doing is false, viz. Our not observing what the Holy Scripture teacheth in its harmonious Sense and Meaning. For, if Infants Baptism could be prov'd by any just Consequence, necessarily deduc'd from Scripture Premises, for my own part I should readily comply with the Practice of it. Tho' I must consess the plain Revelation of God's Will to his People of old, concerning the Subjects of all the Ordinances then appointed by him, makes me think, the Right of Insants to Baptism would not have been left so dark and obscure, had they been designed by him to be the Subjects of it; much less would he have made such Qualifications, which Insants can never be prov'd to partake of, necessary to give a Right to it.

His representing us as more immodest and unreasonable than the Sadducees, the worst Sect among the degenerate Jews, and calling our alleging the Reasons of our Dissent from our Pedobaptist Brethren, Wrangling on to the End, is not likely to weigh much with any, whose Minds are not leaven'd with the same Rancour and Prejudice, which he seems to be influenc'd by in his whole Discourse. Neither has he any just Reason to expect that we should be so silenc'd by his daring Affertions, as the Sadducees by the unanswerable Arguments of him that spake as never Man spake.

His comparing us with the Pharifees, p. 103. in wresting the Letter of a few Texts, as they did the 4th. Commandment, is of the same Complexion with the former invidious Comparison. And I hope, if our Lord had laid, as he supposes, Ye shall baptize no Infants, we should not have been opposed by him, or any other fearing God; and where there is no Adversary, there can be no Victory, much less Triumph, which he reflectingly infinuates we should have discovered on that Occasion. But I cannot see, but our Lord's requiring Faith and Repentance of all who are to be baptiz'd, which no Infant can make any Profession of, lays as great a Bar in the way of their Admission, as a Negative Precept could have done. There being nothing more in his IX. Chapter that's worth Notice, but what hath been sufficiently answer'd already, I proceed to the X. and last.

CHAP. X.

An Answer to Mr. H's Tenth Chapter.

Aving examin'd all his Arguments for the Church-membership, and Covenant-interest of Believers Infants, as such, and found them too light to satisfy a serious Enquirer into the Mind of God, concerning the Warrantableness of the Practice he contends for; I shall briefly consider what he alleges in this Chapter, which is, That this is the Doctrine profess'd, held and practis'd by the Protestant Churches in general. And there are two things, he says, which make this necessary to be shewn.

1. Because the Opposers say, that baptizing Infants is Popery.

Who they are that fay this, I know not, and 'tis evident that it both hath been, and still continues to be practis'd by many who disown the Pope's Supremacy, and many Corruptions of the Church of Rome; tho' not a few of them, in Mr. H's Judgment (as I have hinted before) still retain some things, which have no more Foundation in the Word of God, than those they have forsaken. And why should the Authority even of Protestant Churches be urged in this matter, by those who take a Liberty to diffent from them in other things, both as ancient and warrantable, so far as appears from any thing which has yet been proved to the contrary. That Infant-baptism was ever practised for more than 200 Years after Christ, when a considerable Progress was made in those Deviations from the Purity of the Do-Arine and Worship instituted by Christ, which at last iffued in that fatal Apostacy under the Bishop of Rome, which we call Popery, the greatest Searchers into Antiquity have not yet been able to demonstrate. And if * Hegesippus may be allowed to confine the Virgin-purity of the Church to the Days of the Apostles, none have just Reafon to be offended with us, if we allow not the Practice of any Churches fo long after their Days, to afford sufficient Warrant to vary from the primitive Administration of this Ordinance, as recorded in Scripture.

The most favourable Construction that can be made of this is, that he has never read, and consider'd what hath been written by those he opposes; who generally declare, when they cite the Testimony of ancient and modern Writers on this Point, they don't do it so much in Confirmation of their Judgment and Practice, as to shew that they have no Reason to decline ingaging their Adversaries at their own Weapon; who being wholly destitute of Precept or Precedent in Scripture, often make a great Flourish with Antiquity, and the Judgment of eminent Men of later times. Tho' in this Contest it has been made appear that the Cause of Pedobaptism is no way advantag'd by it, the most valuable Antiquity speaking nothing for them, and the most eminent Writers among the Moderns letting fall fuch Expressions, when they speak their Thoughts freely, without respect to this Controversy, as subvert the Foundation of their own Practice. And 'tis always allow'd in Disputation, to urge an Opponent with such Concessions of his own, which enervate the Arguments himself advances. And I hope 'twill not be afferted, that Pedobaptism fecures its Patrons from being liable to Self-contradiction, any more than others.

As to his telling us, We would, he doubts not, be greatly offended, if he should only repeat what some of the same Menhave written of us, and our way; I must needs say, I think he hath shewn himself very willing to offend us greatly, if that will do it. For what is more like to effect it, than for any to say, We have nothing but Lies for us, and that we do foully Lie? Which words he hath not scrupled to repeat. And I must tell him, I suppose he would be as greatly offended, if I should transcribe the words of some of the same Men against the Independents.

But he faith; It's clear, that wanting the Judgment of the great, learned and eminent Servants of Christ on our side, we have chosen to make use of their Names to give Credit to the Cause of Anabaptism.

It seems Mr. H. hath very contemptible Thoughts of the Antipedobaptists; tho' its no new thing for those who overvalue themselves to undervalue others. But supposing they had been all such unlearned and ignorant Persons, as he represents them, that would not prove they have not Truth on their fide. The great and learned among the Jews rejected Christ, when many, whom they despised as ignorant, imbraced him: John vii. 48. Have any of the Rulers, or of the Pharisees believed on him? And our Saviour faith, Matt. Xi. 25, 26. I thank thee, O Father, that thou hast hid these things from the Wise and Prudent, and hast revealed them unto Babes: Even so, Father, for so it seemed good in thy fight. And the Apostle, I Cor. i. 26. Te see your calling, Brethren, how that not many wife Men after the Flesh, not many mighty, not many noble are called. The poor Jews, upon their Return from the Babylonish Captivity, seem'd very inferior, for Learning and Knowledge, to David, Solomon, and other eminent Kings and Prophets, who yet refumed the Observation of the Feast of Tabernacles, when none from Joshua's time till then, had kept that Feast according to the primitive Institution, Nehem. viii. 14, 15, 16, 17. And if the Antipedobaptists have been all along so despicable and unlearned as he represents them, their Cause must surely be very good, that their great and learned Antagonists have been no better able to shew the Weakness of their Arguments.

pre-

When he calls us the Enemies of Infants, I suppose he would be thought not to have designed to offend us. And I have proved before, that our Opinion is at least as charitable concerning them, as his own.

I shall not detain my self with a particular Examination of the Testimonies cited by him; but only desire the Reader to take notice, (1) That the Testimonies of fallible (tho' good) Men will not warrant the Practice of that in the Worship of God, which his Word doth no where injoin. (2.) Many, if not all these Churches, differ in Judgment and Practice from Mr. H. in some things relating to Faith and Worship; and he cannot justly expect that their Sentiments should satisfy us in this, when he doth not own them as his Rule in others. (3.) They had no other way to know the Will of God in this matter, than what is now thro' Divine Goodness afforded us, by the Revelation of it in his Word, and the Invalidity of their Pleas from thence hath been already discovered. (4.) Anabaptism (as 'tis call'd) was under a great Reproach, upon account of the Enormities charged on some in Germany, who disown'd Infants Baptism; altho' it's too well known that many Pedobaptists aptists have been guilty of as great: and it proves too Fruth ard for some good and wise Men to stem the Tide of vulos rear Errors, when they know it cannot be done without exrant, oling themselves to the Censures of many; which may eve had a great Influence on them, in retaining that as varrantable, which, had they come unbias'd to search he Scriptures, would have appeared otherwise. (5.) The iving the Eucharist to Infants appears to have been the geeral Practice of the Church for several Ages, and as near he Times of the Apostles, which yet is generally now den'd them. (6.) Chrism, Exorcism, the use of Sponsors, &c. may lay as early Claim to the Suffrages of great Men, as my can be brought for Infant-baptism; and yet perhaps he may not stick to call some of these at least by the Name of Popery. (7.) The Waldenses, many of them at least, who are generally own'd by Protestants to have been the purest Churches in the darkest Times, denied Infant-baptism, as Mr. Stennett, and some others have (as I take it) fully pro-(8.) The Reasons for the Practice of Infant-baptism, alleged by some of the Authors Mr. H. cites, are not only different, but contradictory, as might eafily be made appear. (9.) A late learned Writer before mentioned, in his History of Baptism, hath shewn that the holy Martyr Mr. Philpot was mistaken in what he affirms of Auxentine the Heretic, which invalidates the Testimony of that Good Man in this case, as to the first Rise either of Anabaptism, (as he calls it) or Pedobaptism.

The CONCLUSION.

IF Mr. Hitchin (or any other) should rejoin to what is written in this Treatise, I desire two things. One is, that all uncharitable Censures and Invectives may be forborn, and that the Matter in Controversy may be debated with that Calmness and Love that becomes Christians. The other thing I defire is, that waving all Digreffions, and Matters foreign to the purpole, the chief force of the Arguments advanced against their Practice may be attended to. Particularly let it be proved (if it can be done) that the carnal Seed of Believers, as such, are the spiritual Seed of Abraham, and an Answer given to what is here advanced to the contrary. Let it be shewn likewise, that the Command for Circumcifion gives us any more Direction to baptize Infants, than those Precepts which relate to the Passover, to admit them to the Lord's Supper; or elfe let it be denied upon good Reasons, that Infants were admitted to the Passover. Moreover I defire it may be made appear from the holy Scriptures, that the same Qualifications were required of the Adult, as prerequifite to Circumcifion, which the Gospel requires as necessary to their Baptism: that they bring us good Proof, that the Commission of our Blessed Saviour, and Practice of his Apostles, in the Execution of it, warranteth the Administration of this Ordinance to any. without a personal Profession of Faith and Repentance: that they acquaint us how fuch can be faid to have an Interest in that Covenant, wherein the implanting those Graces in the Hearts of all received into it, and the Preservation of them from final Apoltacy, is promifed by the Lord, to whom these Promises are never fulfill'd: and further, that they thew us how Infants may be accounted Members of the Gospel Church, whom, tho' never before under any Church Censure, they receive into the Church upon Profession of Faith, when grown up to Years of Understanding; or, how they can be added to the Church when adult, if they were born Church Members, and never excommunicated.
